U. S. DISTRICT SUM IS FIXED AT $7,750,000

Speedy Accord Reached by House and Senate Conferees.

$350,000 AS JOBLESS AID IS AGREED UPON

Bingham Declares Federal Allotment Will Not Be Permanent Figure.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Upsetting forecasts of a deadlock on controversial District supply bill provisions, House and Senate conferees late yesterday arrived at speedy agreement. They fixed $7,750,000 as the Federal contribution toward District needs.

The "lump sum" base represents an increase of $1,375,000 over the top figure approved by the House, but a drop of $800,000 under the Federal allotment asked by the Senate.

Senator Hiram Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, chairman of the Senate conferees, said the agreement can in no sense be taken as establishing a permanent "lump sum" policy.

"Temporary Expedient."

"It represents a temporary expedient, made necessary by the economic condition of the country," he said. "The whole matter will have to be thrashed out next year after the Senate has disposed of the Mapes bills."

Immediately afterward Chairman Clarence Cannon, of the House conferees, left for Chicago, where he will serve his fourth term as parliamentarian of a Democratic national convention. He said the conference report may not be offered to the House until his return.

"A fifty-fifty compromise," alterations in remaining sections of the bill, struck a balance midway between the $39,913,610 appropriated by the House and the $42,789,728 approved by the Senate.

House conferees finally consented to $350,000 for local unemployment aid, to be administered by the Board of Public Welfare. Local charity agencies had asked $800,000, and this figure had been written into the bill by the Senate. The House ignored the item entirely.

Provisions Dropped.

Significant provisions dropped from the bill included $778,000 for starting construction of the municipal center; $85,000 for preparing plans for the second unit; $75,000 for the Georgetown branch of the public library; $83,500 for a fire truck house in the vicinity of Fourteenth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, and $250,000 for P street bridge over Rock Creek.

Conferees struck from the measure the House Collins amendment, which automatically stopped the District from acquiring more park lands and playgrounds under the George Washington Memorial parkway act.

Twelve additional street improvement items written into the bill by the Senate were approved, but the thirteenth, appropriating $96,300 for paving Good Hope road southeast, from Minnesota avenue to Naylor road, was cut.

Improvement Project.

House conferees consented to improvement of that portion of Constitution avenue between Second street northwest and North Capitol street, but blocked extension of the project.

Agreement was reached on $8,000 additional written into the bill by the Senate for renovating the present social diseases clinic and providing new quarters for the tubercular clinic. Stipulation was made, however, that the Budget Bureau must first

$2,000,000 Fire Hits Ship-Building Shed

Three Firemen Injured; Luxurious Yachts Are Destroyed.

Quincy, Mass., June 22 (A.P.).—The building shed of the $7,000,000 Victory Shipbuilding Plant was swept early tonight by fire which destroyed luxurious yachts and caused property damage of approximately $2,000,000.

One-half of the huge glass structure, believed the largest of its kind in the world, was demolished. The building was a mile long. For four hours the flames defied efforts of hundreds of firemen, sending three of them to a hospital, seriously injured. More than $500,000 worth of yachts were consumed.

Among the larger craft destroyed were the 120-foot Diesel cruiser Amijean, constructed for Francis Whitten, of Palm Beach, Fla., and worth $250,000, and the Sheila, yacht of George W. Loft, New York candy manufacturer, $300,000.

G. O. P. Repudiation Of Dry Plank Grows

Platform of Democrats Will Provide for Submission.

Chicago, June 22 (A.P.).—The Democratic platform for 1932 will carry a plank providing for submission to the states of the question of repeal of national prohibition.

This became certain today when Senator Hull, of Tennessee, prospective chairman of the resolutions committee and ardent prohibitionist, arrived and announced:

"It seems to be the consensus among most drys and wets alike, where I have recently traveled, that there might well be a submission of this question in such direct, unequivocable form as would enable the voters of the different States to express their choice between retention and repeal."

About the same time, Alfred E. Smith, the 1928 standard bearer, declared in his first convention statement for "unconditional repeal of the Members of Congress Mass Forces Against Chicago Stand.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The Republican prohibition plank, described in advance by Postmaster General Walter Brown as one to which "all may subscribe," seems destined to be repudiated on a scale far greater than its authors feared.

Republican senators and representatives in the New Jersey delegation in Congress, for example, are getting ready to repudiate the plank en masse. They are for outright repeal, and they are going to issue a joint statement saying as much.

Their plan is to hold a caucus on the night the Democrats adopt their platform in Chicago, and to issue the joint statement at that time.

Six or seven years ago the late Edward I. Edwards, governor and later senator, promised to make New Jersey "as wet as the Atlantic Ocean." Al-

UTILITY TAX BOOST FAVORED BY BUREAU

Efficiency Unit Also Urges Cut in National Bank and Trust Levies.

Additional taxation of District utilities and insurance companies, aggregating $913,000, and a $120,000 reduction in national bank and trust company levies were recommended to the Senate District committee yesterday by the United States Bureau of Efficiency.

Analyzing the Capper bill supplementing the Mapes taxation program, Director Herbert D. Brown estimated $683,000 could be added to the Mapes revenue through acceptance of the Capper plan as revised by the bureau.

He urged an amendment to the exemption clause in the Mapes income tax measure, rather than a separate bill.

Increases in the rates of steam railroads, interurban trolley lines, cable companies and steamboat companies are opposed at this time by the bureau. It favors automobile bus line levies as outlined in the general license bill now pending in the Senate rather than the Capper bill's provisions.

In taxing public utilities, the bureau urged a change from the present basis to a combination tax of 4 per cent on gross receipts and 6 per cent on net earnings. Senator Arthur Capper had proposed a combination general property tax and a 2 per cent franchise tax.

Director Brown said the bureau proposal would yield an additional $790,000 a year. Should the merger bill pass, there would be deducted from this $110,000 now paid by traction companies to crossing policemen, an expense transferred to the District under the consolidation measure.

The bureau recommended increas-

Martin, Wet, Will Seek Senator Barkley's Seat

Frankfort, Ky., June 22 (A.P.).—Former United States Senator George B. Martin, of Catlettsburg, has filed his declaration of candidacy for the Democratic nomination as senator in opposition to Senator Alben W. Barkley.

Martin said he considers the eighteenth amendment "unwise."

34 KILLED AS TIDAL WAVE SWEEPS TOWN

Every Dwelling Destroyed in Mexican City Following Earthquake.

Mexico City, June 22 (A.P.).—At least 34 persons were killed and many more missing were feared dead in a tidal wave that virtually wiped out the town of Cuyutlan, on the west coast of Mexico, after an earthquake today. A great number of persons were reported injured.

The coast along that section, severely shaken recently by a series of earthquakes, was swept by the tidal wave, with heavy damage to property. It was feared many persons may have been washed into the sea.

Manzanillo, the largest city struck by the tidal wave, reported heavy damage, but no dead. The blow was felt less severely there because of harbor breakwaters. The port of Colima, in which state the brunt of the disaster fell, also was damaged.

The Mayor of Cuyutlan, a resort town in the State of Colima, appealed to federal authorities here for immediate relief, describing conditions as pitiful.

He reported many missing and said some of these had been carried out to sea or buried in sand on the beach.

The injured were sent to the city of Colima as rapidly as possible, but the mayor said lack of federal soldiers and panic among the people made it impossible to organize relief work efficiently. He asked that soldiers and doctors be rushed in as quickly as possible.

Every dwelling in the town was destroyed, with only a few business

Dynamite Car Reported Seen Near Sanitarium

The "dynamite automobile" scare was revived again last night when police were told a "maroon coupe" was seen traveling slowly toward Washington, bearing two men. The car was sighted in front of the Washington Sanitarium in Takoma Park.

Immediately after the report was made scout cars were sent to scour the neighborhood of the District line. The report was made at the Tenth Precinct Station by C. B. Arthur, mail carrier, of 1352 Fairmont street northwest, who said his attention was attracted to the car by the very slow speed at which it was traveling.

Eucharist Congress Opens In Ireland Amid Splendor

Cardinal Lauri Formally Starts Sessions Before Distinguished Congregation; Special Message Sent by Pope; Thousands Outside Procathedral.

Dublin, June 22 (A.P.).—Before the high altar of Dublin's procathedral, resplendent with the scarlet and purple of the church, Lorenzo Cardinal Lauri, legate of the Pope, opened the thirty-first Eucharist Congress today.

From sundown to dawn the lights of Dublin shine tonight in token of the formal opening of the great religious celebration, which brought half a million pilgrims to this Irish capital.

Midnight mass celebrated in all churches of the diocese brought to a close the day's inaugural, the highlight of which was the solemn ceremony in the procathedral.

With a special message to Ireland a blessing from Pope Pius XI, Cardinal Lauri formally opened the congress before a distinguished congregation composed of the hierarchy of Ireland, prelates from other countries and officials of the Irish Free State.

The cathedral was a brilliant shading of color from the scarlet-clad cardinals banked on thrones near the altar through blocks of purple-robed bishops to ordinary surpliced priests who filled the rest of the nave.

Outside multitudes stretched away for half a mile in packed streets, while they followed the proceedings by the aid of loud speakers.

The service of benediction followed and finally the hymn, "Faith of Our Fathers," was sung. Carried to the waiting multitude outside, the hymn was taken up softly, while thousands of men, women and children dropped to their knees as they joined in with the cathedral congregation.

There was again the enthusiasm to which Dublin has become so accustomed when the papal legate, wearing the cappa magna, emerged from the cathedral and bestowed his blessing right and left.

SENATE VOTES $500,000,000 PUBLIC WORKS

Rejects La Follette Idea for $5,500,000,000 Bond Issue.

AMENDMENT TO LEND TO VETERANS BEATEN

Lewis' Plan, Which Would Have Aided Chicago's Employes, Loses.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate recessed this morning at 12:15 o'clock after sitting continuously for thirteen hours in a vain effort to reach a vote on the $2,000,000,000 Democratic relief bill. An agreement limiting debate to five minutes for each senator had already been reached, however, insuring a final decision on the two billion dollar measure at today's session.

Despite the hint of a presidential veto, the Senate voted overwhelmingly yesterday for the $500,000,000 public works bond issue section of the Democratic unemployment relief measure.

The bond issue section of the bill, to which President Hoover is vigorously opposed, was approved by a vote of 57 to 19 on a motion by Senator Moses (Republican), New Hampshire, to eliminate it.

La Follette Plan Rejected.

The Senate later rejected the La Follette proposal for a $5,500,000,000 bond issue to finance public works for unemployment relief. The vote against the amendment was 58 to 12.

Without a record vote a proposal by Senator Lewis (Democrat), Illinois to permit Reconstruction Corporation loans to States for making temporary advances to cities to pay salaries of employes, was rejected. This would have permitted payment of Chicago's teachers, policemen and firemen.

The Senate also rejected without a record vote an amendment by Senator Trammell (Democrat), Florida, for landing veterans 75 per cent of the face value of their adjusted service certificates.

The measure sought to fix the face value at their value as of July 1, 1932, with 3 per cent yearly interest to be added thereafter until cashed.

Many administration senators voted with Democrats and independent Republicans to retain the $500,000,000 bond issue feature.

Hint of Presidential Veto.

The hint of a veto for the bill with a bond issue included came from Moses, who argued that experience

9 Shark-Besieged Convicts Rescued

Survivors in Liberty Dash From Devil's Island Picked Up at Sea.

Georgetown, British Guiana, June 22 (A.P.).—Menaced by sharks as they drifted for five days in a waterlogged open boat on the Atlantic, nine survivors of a dash for liberty from the French penal colony of Devil's Island were rescued and brought here today by the British coastal steamer Tarpon.

The men, after escaping from their island prison off French Guiana, southeast of here, attempted to reach Venezuela on the northwest. Storms stripped the sail from their frail craft and filled it with water.

They told a dramatic story of the death of a comrade whose last words were: "Bury me ashore. Don't give me up to the sharks. I shall never see my friends again but they will see my grave." Sharks sped after the boat, but the exhausted fugitives succeeded in landing on the Pomeroon Beach in British territory. There they buried him. When they put to sea again, a tempest threatened. They waved their shirts as signals and the Tarpon responded as the men were losing hope.

ONE-THIRD ARMAMENT SLASH URGED BY HOOVER IS FAVORED BY 6 BIG POWERS AT GENEVA

Reactions Vary on Idea Offered as Surprise at Conference.

EARLY SKEPTICISM FADES AFTER STUDY

Proposals Are Made Part of Agenda for Private Discussions.

Geneva, Switzerland, June 22 (A.P.).—President Hoover's program of drastic armament reductions, designed to save the world $10,000,000,000 to $15,000,000,000 during the next ten years, provoked strong and immediate disapproval from France when it was presented today to the disarmament conference.

Great Britain criticized it as "inadequate," and generally gave it a lukewarm reception.

Washington reported, however, that the American representatives at Geneva had found a much more favorable reaction to the plan among the French and British delegations after they had studied it.

Italy accepted the program enthusiastically and unconditionally, Germany hailed it as a "new impetus" in disarmament, Japan expressed willingness to cooperate, and Russia approved it on the theory that any method of restricting arms was progress.

Included in Agenda.

The upshot of the stirring conference session was that the Hoover proposals were made part of the agenda for the private discussions under way among the United States, Britain and France, to which the other powers soon will be admitted.

France's objections were voiced by Joseph Paul-Boncour, minister of war, who first told newspaper correspondents the program was "absolutely unacceptable," and then sent before the conference, where he vigorously assailed it.

The core of his opposition was the traditional French policy of security. Who, he asked, would provide urity if the reductions were carried out.

Hugh Gibson, head of the American disarmament delegation, declared in explaining the President's program it meant the United States was ready to scrap 300,000 tons of naval vessels and to forego the right to build more than 150,000 tons.

"In land materials," he said, "our proposals would affect more than 1,000 heavy mobile guns and approxi-

Flying Cross Voted For Mrs. Putnam

Senate Holds Aviatrix Is Entitled to Decoration Lindbergh Got.

(Associated Press.)

The Senate wants Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, the first woman to fly the Atlantic alone, to receive the same award bestowed upon Col. Charles A. Lindbergh—the Distinguished Flying Cross—instead of the Distinguished Service Medal voted by the House.

Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, told the Senate yesterday the House had made a mistake in changing the resolution, having wrongly interpreted a letter from the War Department as recommending that action. The Senate already had accepted the change made by the House, but it thereupon reversed itself and the matter will go to conference, where the Distinguished Flying Cross is expected to be agreed upon.

Reed said this is the decoration bestowed for other outstanding flights, including Lindbergh's and "nobody wants to discriminate against Miss Earhart."

(Associated Press.)

Here are President Hoover's proposals for slashing world armament:

A reduction of one-third in all land armies over and above the "so-called police component."

Abolition of all bombing planes and total prohibition of all bombardments from the air.

Abolition of all tanks, chemical warfare and large mobile guns.

Reduction in the treaty number and tonnage of battleships by one-third.

A 25 per cent reduction in the treaty tonnage of all aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers.

A reduction by one-third of all submarines tonnages, with no nation retaining more than 35,000 tons.

In bringing about such reductions, the President suggested that "the following principles should be our guide:"

"First—The Kellogg-Briand pact, to which we are all signatories, can only mean that the nations of the world have agreed that they will use their arms solely for defense.

"Second—This reduction should be carried out not only by broad general cuts in armaments but by increasing the comparative power of defense through decreases in the power of the attack.

"Third—The armaments of the world have grown up in general mutual relation to each other. And, speaking generally, such relativity should be preserved in making reductions.

"Fourth—The reductions must be real and positive. They must effect economic relief.

"Fifth—There are three problems to deal with—land forces, air forces and naval forces. They are all interconnected. No part of the proposals which I make can be disassociated one from the other."

2 RAILROADS AGREE TO B.E.F CUT RATES

Pennsylvania and B. & O. Will Take Men Home at 1 Cent a Mile.

While bonus army leaders prepared for their own political convention to start next Thursday, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, announced yesterday that the Pennsylvania and Baltimore & Ohio railroads had agreed to transport the men back to their homes at a rate of one cent per mile.

Other railroads, it was announced, are considering the allowance of similar tariffs for the veterans. The rate offered is less than one-third of the prevailing passenger charge.

Under Glassford's plan, the money to defray the transportation costs for the bonus hosts and the subsistence expense en route would be raised in the home communities of the men through veterans and other organizations there.

Representative Baldridge (Republican), Nebraska, yesterday appealed to members of the House in a speech on the floor to consider the plan put forward by Glassford. He expressed the belief that the offer would find

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Chile Mapocha Acuna, star witness in the New York police vice squad inquiry, died tonight in Brooklyn Eye and Ear Hospital. He was 33 years old.

GERMANY SUGGESTS EUROPEAN ENTENTE

Would Ally for Political Action With Britain, France and Italy.

Lausanne, Jun 22 (U.P.).—A continental entente of four powers virtually dominating Europe was tentatively suggested today in German Chancellor Franz von Papen's conversation with statesmen at the Lausanne reparations conference.

The proposed combination would include Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy, it was understood.

It was said a memorandum which German Foreign Minister Baron von Neurath handed to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Britain, suggested the four powers agree to consult each other in the future before they undertake any important political action.

Meanwhile, Premier Edouard Herriot of France visited Mr. MacDonald and deposited with him the French memorandum containing the reparations project outlined by French Finance Minister Germain Martin. It provides for a two to five year suspension of reparations payments, with resumption of reduced annual payments when the economic recovery of Europe justifies such action.

The plan also proposed French collaboration in any constructive effort toward European tariff reforms to improve trade.

President Signs Bill On Kidnaping Penalty

President Hoover yesterday signed a bill making the transportation of kidnaped persons across State lines a Federal offense punishable by imprisonment.

Two Die of Burns Received In Potomac, Md., Gas Blast

High School Student and Construction Company Employe Victims; Explosion Caused by Spark From Auto; Another Youth Is Severely Injured.

A Rockville High School student and an employe of the Columbia Gas Construction Co. died last night in Georgetown University Hospital of burns they received when gas from a leaking main near Potomac, Md., exploded from a spark from the automobile they were starting. A companion of the high school youth was severely burned.

The dead are: Charles Dove, 17, and John Esputa, 27, both of Rockville. The injured youth is William S. Nicholson, 18, son of Leonard Nicholson, jr., Washington real estate operator.

Dove's brother, Elbert Dove, 18, and Brooke Edmonston, 17, of Rockville, narrowly escaped the blast and flames.

There were two explosions, the first of which did no damage.

Esputa had been sent from Rockville to find a reported leak in the gas main. He was about to leave when there was a blast and a hole burst open in the ground.

He asked Dove and Nicholson, who were fishing in the Chesapeake & Potomac Canal, to drive him back to Rockville so that he might report the leak.

The three were in the car when the second blast, apparently ignited by the exhaust from the starting car, lighted flames over an area of 300 feet in diameter and set fire to the car and trees and undergrowth.

Elmer Frazier and Luther Foster, who live on the River road nearby, ran to the scene of the explosion and carried them out of the flames.

The Rockville Volunteer Fire Department was summoned and removed the three injured persons to the hospital, where, when they were

Taximan Believes He Drove Jafsie's Ransom Receivers

Flemington, N. J., June 22 (A.P.).—New Jersey officials were investigating tonight the story of a Negro taxicab driver as a possible clew to the identity of the persons who received the $50,000 ransom in the Lindbergh kidnaping mystery.

The Negro, taken into custody in New York City and his name kept secret, was understood to have recounted that he drove two men and a woman to a spot near St. Raymond's Cemetery on the night of April 3, the place and date of Dr. John F. Condon's (Jafsie) payment of the ransom.

The taxi driver, it was understood, recalled that one of the men wore an artificial nose and remarked to his companions: "My mother wouldn't recognize me in this outfit." All three were said to have spoken with an English accent.

When the Negro stopped his cab near the cemetery, it was said, the disguised man disappeared for a short while, and on his return directed the driver to take them to the 125th street ferry, in Manhattan. They alighted there and he drove away without seeing them again.

While this story was being scruti-

U. S. Delegation Feels Optimistic for Plan's Acceptance.

WOULD SAVE NATION $200,000,000 YEARLY

Britain, Japan, France, Russia and Germany Follow Italy in Support.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

President Hoover yesterday in a gesture of broad humanity and international economy proposed to the world through the American delegation at the general disarmament conference in Geneva radical reductions in the land, naval and air effectives of the nations.

Land forces, above the requirements for purely police purposes, would be cut one-third; bombing planes would be abolished; battleships and submarines would be reduced one-third and cruisers, airplane carriers and destroyers, 25 per cent.

The response from practically every delegation at Geneva was immediate and optimistic. Chairman Hugh Gibson, of the American group, telephoned his enthusiastic impressions to Secretary Stimson and the President. He declared it had been the "greatest day" since the opening of the conference. Norman H. Davis, another delegate, also talked with the Secretary and said:

"This has been a grand day. We have not had dinner yet. We feel like celebrating."

Accepted by Italy.

Italy accepted the Hoover arms holiday with the same prompt friendliness with which she had accepted the Hoover debt holiday. Speaking with the full authority of Premier Mussolini, the Italian foreign minister, Dino Grandi, adopted the proposal in detail and in principle "amidst uproarious applause."

Great Britain, Japan, Germany and to a lesser degree, France, expressed approval of the proposal.

Congressional approval of the proposition was voiced by Chairman Borah of the foreign affairs committee of the Senate, as well as by Senator David A. Reed, of the Senate military affairs committee.

Senator Borah who only a few days ago was criticizing the President for his stand on the Republican wet platform, came out in hearty support of the arms proposal. The senator said:

"I sincerely hope the proposal of the President will bring the conference to a realization that failure to lift the burden of armaments and do it at once will come near to being an irreparable disaster."

Chairman Vinson of the House naval affairs committee said:

"I am heartily in accord with the President's plan. I hope the Geneva conference will be able to bring about a reduction to minimize the danger of war and to save money."

In Geneva the effect of the Hoover proposal was electrifying. Sir John Simon announced his intention of getting together with the American delegates "to make the plan a success."

Many of the delegates naturally were forced to trim their comment according to the exigencies of nationalistic ideals. This accounted in many cases for the comparative mitigation in the expressions of commendation which the plan won.

Look for French Cooperation.

The French reaction had been eagerly awaited by the American delegation as the dilatory action of France in the case of the moratorium last year almost compromised success of

3 MEMBERS BEATEN IN MINNESOTA VOTE

Six Other Representatives Appear Assured of Renomination.

St. Paul, Minn., June 22 (A.P.).—Three Minnesota Republican representatives in Congress today faced elimination on the basis of incomplete returns from Monday's primaries, with six other incumbents, including Paul John Kvale, Farmer-Laborite, apparently assured of nomination.

Melvin J. Maas, of St. Paul, advocate of prohibition repeal, after leading in returns for two days, was almost definitely eliminated because of heavy rural opposition. Two supporters of prohibition, Victor Christgau and Godfrey G. Godwin, also trailed.

Seven of the nine men leading the Republican ticket in the at-large contest favor resubmission of prohibition. Resubmissionists are Theodore Christianson and J. A. A. Burnquist, former governors; W. I. Nolan, Harold Knutson, William A. Pittenger and August Andresen, incumbents, and Ray P. Chase. N. J. Holmberg, running in sixth place, and C. G. Selvig, incumbent, in ninth place, are prohibition supporters.

Democratic winners, all in favor of resubmission or repeal, included Silas M. Bryan, son of Gov. Bryan of Nebraska.

Mangus Johnson, former United States senator, was far in the lead for Farmer-Labor places on the election ballot in the fall. He favors resubmission, as do six of the other eight leaders for his party's nominations. A. C. Townley, once leader of the Nonpartisan League, as repealist, was in fifth place.

Eighty-eight candidates were entered, each of the three parties nominating nine.

Action to Halt Board's Grain Activities Urged

Urging President Hoover to call to the attention of Congress "the futility and danger of appropriating any further money" for use of the Farm Board or its subsidiaries, the grain committee on national affairs, headed by Siebel C. Harris, yesterday expressed the belief that higher grain prices will follow if the board's activities are stopped.

In a message to the Executive, the committee yesterday held that "only the free workings of the law of supply and demand will result in advancing grain prices." Foreign buyers have been intimidated, the message said, by the fear of concentrated selling of the Farm Board's supply.

Lederer to Be Arbiter In Steamship Dispute

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Emil Lederer today announced his acceptance of the position of sole arbiter to settle disputes and enforce agreements among steamship lines.

He will assume the position on July 1, terminating then 37 years of service with the Hamburg-American Line, of which he now is senior director in charge of passenger traffic. Lederer was nominated for his new position by the heads of the transatlantic lines in New York. His appointment was ratified by the officials of the lines at a meeting in London today.

nately 900 tanks; in aviation, about 300 bombardment airplanes."

"Reduction of armaments," responded M. Paul-Boncour, "is inseparately bound up with security.

Stresses Security Need.

Mr. Hoover's plan for massed reductions will be welcomed in France if it is combined with international provisions for security. We are willing to study the Hoover proposals if the Americans will study the requirements of French security."

"And who is to guarantee that weapons shall be used only for purposes of defense?"

French spokesmen said privately they objected to the surprise manner in which the American program was presented. It amounted, they said, to an ultimatum.

The proposals were heard at a special session of the conference called at the request of Mr. Gibson. Reports that America was making a momentous pronouncement had swept through Geneva, and when the meeting was called to order there was an air of eager excitement. The chamber was breathlessly silent when Mr. Gibson read the program.

Criticized by Briton.

Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, who opened the discussion, subjected the proposals to detailed and cool criticism.

"I say boldly for the delegation of the United Kingdom," he declared, "that we want more disarmament than appears here. We want submarines abolished."

Sir John assured the American delegation that the Hoover program would be "promptly examined with sympathetic attention."

Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, was accorded an enthusiastic ovation for his declaration that "Italy accepts entirely and in all its parts the disarmament plan submitted today by the American delegation.

"Italy," he said, "is a country armed on land, on sea and in the air, and by accepting the American plan Italy is prepared to make substantial sacrifices. She will make them gladly."

Former Sheriff Gets Parole.

the emergency measure. Joseph Paul Boncour, the French spokesman, gave every indication of a friendly reception to the Hoover proposal. Naturally, the President's suggestion, involving no specific consideration for France's oft-repeated demands for security, fell short of what French delegates considered adequate for acceptance by their Parliament. However, hope for fruitful cooperation from the French ran high last night.

The German attitude was one of restrained enthusiasm. The German delegates who have been fighting a losing fight all along in their efforts to secure some sort of armament equality with the other nations, found the proposal of the President a welcome adjunct. They announced it went far toward satisfying their demands.

The Japanese delegation, under Ambassador Matsudaira, led Chairman Gibson to be very much encouraged at their reception of the new American proposal and even M. Litvinov, the Soviet delegate, seemed to indicate a certain gruff approval.

Planned by President.

The proposal, emanating from the Executive Mansion yesterday morning, was planned by the President personally in an effort to secure some definite measure of arms reduction before the break-up of the Geneva conference. He summoned the correspondents at an early hour to the White House and with his Secretary of State, Col. Stimson, at his elbow, he slowly developed the greatest single armament ideal since the epoch-making proposal of Charles Evans Hughes at the Washington arms conference of 1921.

Heretofore the various delegates have been bogged down in highly complex speculations on defensive and offensive armament and on such abstruse proposals as quantitative and qualitative disarmament. No delegation and no country brought forward a concrete proposal looking for any definite reduction in effectives.

The proposals of the President are merely offered in conjunction with the program of disarmament already made public by Chairman Gibson last February. The size of the American Army has never seriously enabled it to be considered in any other but in a purely policing category and in many quarters, the 139,000 officers and men constituting the American military establishment is considered inadequate for even policing purposes.

Savings Effected.

However, in the field of military armament, the United States would abolish tanks, chemical and bacteriological warfare, large mobile guns and bombing planes. At the present time there are a little less than 100 bombing planes in commission and their abolition would result in a saving of $1,000,000 annually.

The President's proposal was finally cabled to the American delegation at Geneva after it had received the approval of the Secretary of War, Patrick J. Hurley; the Secretary of the Navy, Charles Francis Adams, and the high ranking officers of the two departments most interested; Admiral William V. Pratt, chief of Naval Operations, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, Army Chief of Staff.

The enormous savings to the United States have been computed at an annual figure of $200,000,000, or about $2,000,000,000 over ten years. The exposition of the White House disarmament plan set at rest the rumors that had been current erroneously establishing a connection between the intergovernmental debts and disarmament. The two subjects had never been discussed simultaneously by either the State Department here nor by the American delegation abroad. Chairman Gibson, in his preliminary talks with Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Herriot, had to make the trip to Lausanne, where they were in conference, to broach the general trend of the President's thought. But neither then nor at any other meeting did he discuss the debt question.

Surprise in Proposal.

The real surprise of the American proposal yesterday was in the field of naval disarmament. It had been thought that the last word in naval reduction had been said in London and in Washington on the score of naval effectives. However, the President indicated that he is willing to examine every possible branch of military strength in order to carry forward the work of general disarmament.

If his plan is adopted it will leave the United States more secure in defense than it is today. In addition, the present course of naval construction can be continued without interruption since the United States is already far below its treaty strength in the categories now building.

The problem of personnel, of course, presents some necessary reorganization, but this will not have to be faced for the next two or three years. It will therefore have no effect on unemployment by the discharge of men.

Naturally, the United States will only proceed to the fulfillment of the naval clauses of the proposal on acceptance of it by all the other governments.

An analysis of the projected cuts, reveals that Great Britain would be asked to scrap 365,846 tons of naval unities. The United States, which is already well in arrears in cruiser tonnage whould achieve effective parity with Great Britain by scrapping only 306,360 tons, while Japan would be asked to sacrifice but 266,763. The present ratio between the United States, Great Britain and Japan would be preserved at 10-10-6.

France and Italy are not members of the London naval treaty agreement, but for the purposes of computation of the Hoover plan, their tonnages would be reckoned as of March 1, 1931, at which moment of the London conference they were on the brink of agreement.

Comment Is Favorable.

Favorable comment on the plan came from both Democrats and Republicans on Capitol Hill.

Senator Watson, the Republican leader in the Senate, praised the President's proposal, saying:

"I regard it as a most admirable suggestion. It is definite and concrete and susceptible of early consummation."

Representative Snell, the Republican leader in the other house, said:

"It will not in any way interfere with the present authorized building program of the Navy.

"In no way does it affect the present strength of our Army. Under the police component provision of the Versailles Treaty on military strength we are entitled to twice the standing Army we have now."

Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader, said:

"I have not had an opportunity to study the President's proposals for the reduction of armaments, but if they mean a reduction of all armaments by one-third, of course I would like to see the nations of the world do it."

Other Views on Plan.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader and a member of the American delegation to the London Naval Conference, said the proposal would disclose whether the conference is doomed to failure.

Senator Walsh, of Montana, a Democratic member of the Senate foreign relations committee, said he hoped the plan would be adopted but foresaw difficulties in working out the details.

However, Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, was sharply critical, calling the proposal "nonsense" which Europe was sure to reject.

There was some other criticism.

Chairman Collins, of the House War Department appropriation subcommittee, said:

"I don't think Mr. Hoover knows anything about modern warfare, or he wouldn't want to reduce the only things that are any good—airplanes, gas, smoke, machine guns, tanks and the like. The only thing to do is lop off personnel and substitute machines."

Senator Moses, of New Hampshire, a member of the foreign relations committee: "I should say he was moving up to a resubmission of the program in the early days of the conference when he proposed it should take the German force as a base line and reestablish all the armed forces of the world on that basis."

Senator King (Democrat), Utah: "This is not as favorable a proposal by any means as has been submitted by Senor Grandi of Italy. Litvineff, for Russia, submitted several proposals, all of which were more far-reaching than the suggestion of President Hoover. At any rate, it has some merit, but it fails to take into consideration factors which in any disarmament proposition must be considered."

How Program Would Affect U. S.

(Associated Press.)

Here is how the Hoover arms reduction proposal would affect the United States:

The Chief Executive proposed that the German armed force of 100,000 be used as a basis for computing "police components," and as Germany has a population of only 64,000,000, the United States would probably be permitted to have nearly 200,000 soldiers for defensive purposes.

American armed forces consist of 118,000 enlisted men, 12,000 officers and 6,000 Philippine Scouts, a total of 136,000. Consequently, it is not believed likely that other countries would ask any reduction in the Army.

The abolition of chemical warfare would eliminate one battalion of American troops, and these doubtless would be used in other ways.

The United States Army has only one battalion working with 8-inch and 240-millimeter howitzers, which are the type of mobile heavy guns to be abolished. In addition, the United States has about 40 railway guns of sufficient size to fall under the classification of offensive weapons.

While the United States Army has nearly 1,000 tanks, which would be abolished under the proposed plan, they are chiefly of the old French midget variety and are virtually obsolete. The abolition of tanks would probably result in annual savings of about $750,000.

The elimination of bombing planes would scrap all those used by the American Army.

Adoption of the plan to the Navy would result, it was said, in reducing the London Treaty limits to about the size of this country's present force.

Statement by President Urging Arms Reduction

The President's statement advocating a reduction of one-third of the world's armaments follows in full:

The delegations at the world conference on disarmament at Geneva are engaged in discussions as to methods by which a more comprehensive effort can be made toward disarmament.

The following is the substance of instructions which have been given by the President to the American delegation for guidance in the discussions which are now occupying them:

The time has come when we should cut through the brush and adopt some broad and definite method of reducing the overwhelming burden of armament which now lies upon the toilers of the world. This would be the most important world step that could be taken to expedite economic recovery. We must make headway against the mutual fear and friction arising out of war armament which kill human confidence throughout the world. We can still remain practical in maintaining an adequate self-defense among all nations; we can add to the assurances of peace and yet save the people of the world from ten to fifteen billions of wasted dollars during the next ten years.

Principles of Plan.

I propose that the following principles should be our guide:

First—The Kellogg-Briand pact, to which we are all signatories, can only mean that the nations of the world have agreed that they will use their arms solely for defense.

Second—This reduction should be carried out not only by broad general cuts in armaments but by increasing the comparative power of defense through decreases in the power of the attack.

Third—The armaments of the world have grown up in general mutual relation to each other. And, speaking generally, such relativity should be preserved in making reductions.

Fourth—the reductions must be real and positive. They must effect economic relief.

Fifth—There are three problems to deal with—land forces, air forces and naval forces. They are all interconnected. No part of the proposals which I make can be disassociated one from the other.

Based on these principles, I propose that the arms of the world should be reduced by nearly one-third.

Proposal on Land Forces.

Land forces. In order to reduce the offensive character of all land forces as distinguished from their defensive character, I propose the adoption of the presentation already made at the Geneva conference for the abolition of all tanks, all chemical warfare and all large mobile guns. This would not prevent the establishment or increase of fixed fortifications of any character for the defense of frontiers and seacoasts. It would give an increased relative strength to such defenses as compared with the attack.

I propose furthermore that there should be a reduction of one-third in strength of all land armies over and above the so-called police component. The land armaments of many nations are considered to have two functions—one is the maintenance of internal order in connection with the regular peace forces of the country. The strength required for this purpose has been called the "police component." The other function is defense against foreign attack.

The additional strength required for this purpose has been called the "defense component." While it is not suggested that these different components should be separated, it is necessary to consider this contention as to functions in proposing a practical plan of reduction in land forces. Under the treaty of Versailles and the other peace treaties, the armies of Germany, Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria were reduced to a size deemed appropriate for the maintenance of internal order, Germany being assigned 100,000 troops for a population of approximately 65,000,000 people.

Basic Police Component.

I propose that we should accept for all nations a basic police component of soldiers proportionate to the average which was thus allowed Germany and these other states. This formula, with necessary corrections for powers having colonial possessions, should be sufficient to provide for the maintenance of internal order by the nations of the world. Having analyzed these two components in this fashion, I propose as stated above that there should be a reduction of one-third in the strength of all land armies over and above the police component.

Air forces—All bombing planes to be abolished. This will do away with the military possessions of types of planes capable of attacks upon civil populations and should be coupled with the total prohibition of all bombardment from the air.

Naval forces—I propose that the treaty number and tonnage of battleships shall be reduced by one-third; that the treaty tonnage of aircraft carriers, cruisers and destroyers shall be reduced one-fourth; that the treaty tonnage of submarines shall be reduced by one-third, and that no nation shall retain a submarine tonnage greater than 35,000.

The relative strength of naval arms in battleships and aircraft carriers, as between the five leading naval powers, was fixed by the Treaty of Washington. The relative strength in cruisers, destroyers and submarines was fixed, as between the United States, Great Britain and Japan, by the Treaty of London.

Enormous Saving Seen.

For the purposes of this proposal, it is suggested that the French and Italian strength in cruisers and destroyers be calculated as though they had joined the Treaty of London on a basis approximating the so-called accord of March 1, 1931. There are various technical considerations connected with these naval discussions which will be presented by the delegation.

General—The effect of this plan would be to effect an enormous saving in cost of new construction and replacement of new vessels. It would also save large amounts in the operating expense in all nations of land, sea and air forces. It would greatly reduce offensive strength compared to defense strength in all nations.

These proposals are simple and direct. They call upon all nations to contribute something. The contribution here proposed will be relative and mutual. I know of nothing that would give more hope for humanity today than the acceptance of such a program, with such minor changes as might be necessary. It is folly for the world to go on breaking its back over military expenditure, and the United States is willing to take its share of responsibility by making definite proposals that will relieve the world.

White House Clarifies Status of Arms Plan

(Associated Press.)

Late yesterday a formal White House statement on the President's disarmament proposal was issued, the text of which follows:

The program announced this morning has been approved by the Secretaries of State, War and Navy, by the chief of staff of the Army, the chief of operations of the Navy and the American delegation at Geneva.

It is not proposed that the United States should act alone but only upon the acceptance of all the other governments.

Our Army, including the National Guard and all other reserves, has already been reduced much below the European standard "police component." It therefore would not be further decreased in strength, but we would join in the abolition of tanks, bombing planes, chemical warfare and large mobile land guns.

Our Navy is not yet built up to the parity and strength provided for it in the treaties. This proposal, while relieving other nations of great costs of maintenance, would also relieve us of a large part of the building program under discussion in Congress designed to enable us to reach our treaty strength.

It would not interfere with present construction and in the ordinary course would not result in reduction of personnel for two of three years. It therefore has no effect on unemployment by discharge of men. By aid to economic recovery it would help employment.

The savings in expenditures to the United States in construction and operation are computed at a total of about two billions of dollars during the next ten years.

It would leave us more secure in defense than we are today. We have no desire for offensive armament.

Disarmament has been considered in connection with debt questions. It has no relation to them whatever, either directly or indirectly. No such suggestion has ever been made by any American official.

Swanson and Delegates Of Soviet Confer Twice

Geneva, June 22 (U.P.).—Although the United States does not diplomatically recognize Soviet Russia, Senator Claude Swanson twice conversed with Soviet representatives today at the disarmament conference session.

After Russia welcomed the American arms plan, Swanson warmly congratulated the head of the Soviet press bureau, Oumanski, and later he chatted with Soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinoff.

SENATE DUE TO ACT TODAY ON ECONOMY

Adoption of Provisions Made in Conference, Including Furloughs, Predicted.

Action on the economy conference report, with its compulsory Federal furlough amendment, and controversial provisions affecting Federal personnel, will be the first order of business when the Senate convenes today.

Senator Wesley L. Jones (Republican), Washington, chairman of the Senate appropriations committee, will move concurrence in the plan under which Federal workers drawing more than $1,000 must take 30-day payless vacations.

Debate on a number of sections in the bill, including provisions abolishing all leave with pay, denying to married employes the right for both to remain in the service, and impounding money the Senate had set aside for salaries, is anticipated.

Senator Jones actually placed the conference report before the Senate yesterday, after relief legislation had blocked its consideration for more than 48 hours.

The report was withdrawn, however, after Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Democrat), Arkansas, and Senator Kenneth McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, asked him to withhold it pending disposal of the relief bill.

Senator Jones served notice he will press for approval of the report early today. He predicted adoption of the conference provisions, despite indications that Senator Robert M. La-Follette, jr. (Republican), Wisconsin, and Senator Sam G. Bratton (Democrat), New Mexico, will protest some sections of the report.

Gen. Mah Believed Killed by Japanese

Reported Hiding Place in Manchuria Destroyed by Bombers.

Tokyo, (Thursday) June 23 (A.P.).—A belief that Japanese bombing planes—which President Hoover's disarmament proposals would abolish—may have killed Gen. Mah Chan-Shan, Japan's arch-enemy in Manchuria, was expressed in several Japanese press dispatches from Harbin today.

The Japanese command, on learning that Gen. Mah had temporary headquarters in a hamlet of five houses, 50 miles southwest of Hailun, ordered a bombing squadron to attack the hamlet, the dispatches said. The aviators reported that the Hamlet was destroyed and that if Gen. Mah was there he almost certainly was killed.

The Japanese said that during the last two weeks Gen. Mah, seeking to escape a persistent pursuit by the Japanese air force, had changed his place of refuge almost daily, wandering in the wilds of north Manchuria.

Suit on Russian's Insurance Fought

Equitable Life Co. Refuses Surrender Value; 10,000 Policies Affected.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—The settlement of 10,000 insurance policies totaling $7,000,000 before the Russian revolution may be affected by a $5,000 suit brought against the Equitable Life Assurance Co. today.

Nisel Rutkowsky, a manufacturer in Petrograd prior to 1917, is suing the company for the surrender value of two insurance policies amounting to 10,000 rubles. He contended that since the United States does not recognize Soviet Russia the imperial law still is effective in this country.

The Soviet government confiscated the properties of the Equitable in Russia and the company wrote off its books all the assets and liabilities in that country. The statute of limitations was offered as a defense. Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler adjourned the case until June 27.

Joint Economy Probe Is Proposed in House

(Associated Press.)

A joint congressional economy investigation was proposed yesterday by Representative Mitchell (Democrat), Tennessee.

He introduced a resolution for a committee of five—two senators and three representatives—to make the inquiry. It would determine the number of employes who could be discharged without impairing Government service.

Hoover's Arms Plans Surprising to Tokyo

Tokyo (Thursday), June 23 (A.P.).—President Hoover's disarmament proposals surprised the Japanese government completely, official quarters withholding comment pending further study of them today.

Officials here received the first intimation of the American plan in brief press dispatches from Geneva and Washington. The dispatches, lacking details of the proposals, caught late editions of the vernacular morning newspapers, in which they were prominently displayed with President Hoover's picture.

Hoover Arms Plan Stirs British Press

Officialdom Silent Though Gratified at "Evidence of Things Moving."

London, June 22 (A.P.).—In the absence of the principal British ministers, no official comment on President Hoover's arms proposals was forthcoming today, although the general attitude among remaining cabinet ministers was one of satisfaction that "anyhow things are moving."

A "naval authority," told the Press Association (English) this: "I don't think the scheme is for one moment practicable and I am sure it has no chance of acceptance by the great powers, even if Hoover waves a big stick and refuses to consider debt reductions should his scheme fail."

"Tripe," "not practical politics in view of the French policy," were the views of two Conservative backbenchers in Parliament who would not allow their names to be used.

The Hoover proposals created a sensation in the press, the various newspapers playing the Washington dispatches in glaring headlines and in the most prominent position.

LEE AND GRANT KIN ASSIST AT REUNION

Grandsons of Civil War Generals Sit Together at Battlefield's Opening.

Richmond, Va., June 22 (A.P.).—Grandsons of Lee and Grant, in person, and the names of their grandfathers today were greeted with resounding rebel yells from the throats of a thousand Confederate veterans gathered at Frazier's farm for the dedication of the Richmond Battlefields Park.

Stirred into living again in memory those furious days of the defense of Richmond as Dr. Douglas S. Freeman, Richmond, editor and historian, vividly recounted the campaign and called by name the units and their commanders participating, the old veterans, here for their forty-second reunion, kept calling for more.

"How about Joe Wheeler? How about Pickett? How about Wade Hampton?" they shouted at the speaker until he had named practically every company, in every branch of the Confederate service which fought in the war between the States.

Park Is Dedicated.

Dr. Freeman was trying to introduce Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of the United States Army Engineers, who dedicated the park as a gift from Richmond citizens to the State government.

Turning first to Rolling Lee, grandson of Dr. Gen. Robert Edward Lee, and then to Col. Ulysses S. Grant 3d, grandson of Gen. U. S. Grant, seated side by side on the platform, Gen. Brown said:

"It matters not on which side our fathers fought on these fields. We know that none of them would have marched here to throw into the balance his comfort, his fortune, his happiness and his life without a conviction in his soul of the righteousness of his cause, and in his heart the courage to support such conviction."

Yells Are Repeated.

And the veterans, whose throats, obviously, had not grown too feeble to yell, yelled, their yells echoing across the fields that once were the bloody battlegrounds. They were in the midst of the park area that includes more than a score of famous battle sites, including Cold Harbor, Malvern Hill, Mechanicsville, Fort Harrison and Seven Pines.

They came there with their sponsors, matrons of honor and members of the Sons of Confederate Veterans and the Confederate Southern Memorial Association, after a busy morning session in which C. A. De Saussure, commander in chief, announced that plans for the perpetuation of the corporate life of United Confederate Veterans would be proposed to them before the end of the reunion.

The plan would permit women of Confederate lineage to become constitutional members of camps. In his address before the formal session of the veterans, after the welcome by Gov. Pollard, Gen. De Saussure said that at the present death rate few camps will be in existence in two years, and the only means of keeping the organization alive will be through the faithful women who have kept the camps together in recent years.

Treasury Asks for Bids On $100,000,000 Bills

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Mills announced last night the Treasury will offer $100,000,000 in 91-day bills, maturing September 28.

Bids for the bills will be received at the Federal Reserve Banks or their branches until June 27. They will be sold on a discount basis to the highest bidder.

Austria Suspends Interest on Debts

Transfer Moratorium Is Placed in Effect Informally on War Payment.

Vienna, June 22 (A.P.).—What is virtually a transfer moratorium of Austria's foreign interest payments was declared effective today, but without a formal decree to that effect.

Pending negotiations at the Lausanne reparations conference, which is expected to consider economic relief for European countries, the government announced that no further steps were being taken formally to declare an embargo on interest payments on Austrian foreign debts.

Meanwhile, however, the Austrian National Bank, effective today, was suspending "for the time being" the allocation of foreign exchange for interest payments, the communique added.

In other words, a transfer moratorium was informally in force, but formally was not yet decreed.

30 KILLED BY SWEEP OF WAVE OVER TOWN

The first earth shock was at 7:10 a. m., followed by light quakes until 7:30 a. m., when a heavy shock lasting one minute occurred. It was immediately followed by a tremendous wave which swept in from the sea and over the town, carrying smaller buildings back into the sea.

The earth shocks continued throughout the day, reports indicated. The epicenter of the quake was believed to have been in the Pacific about 200 miles southwest of Colima, probably at the same spot as that of the recent earth movements which had shaken Colima and all central Mexico.

The shock was felt only slightly in Mexico City, where, because of many recent quakes, little imporance was attached to such a light disturbance.

Four more bodies were recovered in Cuyutlan tonight, dispatches said, bringing the known dead to 34 with a dozen or more persons still missing.

The heavy earthquake was preceded by two light shocks which drove people into the street, where they were trapped when mountainous seas swept in.

The damage was estimated at 5,000,000 pesos (about $1,560,000), but this figure was considered excessive here in view of the town's small size.

Nothing in the town escaped damage, however, reports indicated. Every dwelling was reported knocked down, destroyed or washed away.

Newspapers of Mexico City were asked to start subscriptions for relief and rehabilitation work.

Stay in Session, Is Plea of Green

Congress Should Aid Idle Before Adjourning, Labor Head Says.

(Associated Press.)

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, yesterday protested "the concentrated drive to force Congress to adjourn quickly."

"Under no circumstances should Congress adjourn until it has dealt with the problem of unemployment relief in a way that will meet the riquirements of the situation," he said, adding:

"Helpless people who have been suffering for years must not be forced to undergo another winter of suffering and depression. It is inconceivable that those who have been benefited by the enactment of the financial reconstruction measures and other similar measures would be so selfish as to demand that Congress adjourn before it has dealt adequately with the unemployment and agricultural problems."

Brookhart Says G.O.P. Has Deserted Farmers

(Associated Press.)

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, told the Senate last night agriculture had been "kicked out of the back door" by a Republican national convention dominated by the financial interests of the country.

"This convention, this crowd of Wall street politicians headed by Ogden Mills (Secretary of the Treasury), entirely disregarded the rights of farmers," Brookhart said. "It ran away from the Republican platform of four years ago." Brookhart added that for the first time in history the Republican party had "thrown up the sponge" and not promised prosperity.

Alcoholism Deaths Are Found Lower

Census Bureau Announces Rate Fell Slightly in Latest Data.

The Census Bureau said yesterday that deaths from alcoholism per 100,000 population decreased slightly between 1929 and 1930, the last year for which figures are available.

In 1930 figures reveal the death rate from alcoholism was 3.5 per 100,000, including all States but Texas. In 1929 it was 3.7, and was 4.0 in 1927 and 1928. The rate in 1910 was 5.4. The highest rate since then was 5.9 in 1913, and the lowest 1.0 in 1920.

The number of deaths attributed to alcoholism was 4,158 in 1930 with 47 States and the District of Columbia reporting, and 2,909 in 1910 with 21 States and the District reporting. The highest number of deaths on record was 4,627 in 1928 with 44 States reporting, and the lowest 900 in 1920 with 34 States reporting.

Decline in Wheat Production Likely

Probable Drop in Northern Hemisphere Estimated at 200,000,000 Bushels.

(Associated Press.)

Smaller world wheat supplies are in prospect.

The Agriculture Department said yesterday that it seems probable wheat production in the Northern Hemisphere, excluding Russia and China, will be about 200,000,000 bushels smaller than last year.

The July 1 carry-over in the principal exporting countries, together with the United Kingdom port stocks and quantities afloat, was estimated at 15,000,000 less than a year ago.

The United States enters the new crop year with prospects of a winter wheat crop about 377,000,000 bushels smaller than 1931. Partially offsetting this, however, is a probable domestic carry-over of 360,000,000 compared with 319,000,000 last year.

BERLIN POLICE BAN MEETINGS OF REDS

Step Taken After Renewal of Clashes in Which Many Are Hurt.

Berlin, June 22 (A.P.).—A wave of clashes between political extremists of the right and left caused Berlin police tonight to ban various Communist demonstrations scheduled for tomorrow while the state government of Hesse prohibited all such meetings until further notice.

Tonight's repetition of the disorders, involving chiefly National Socialists and Communists, took a toll of many injured in Berlin, Breslau, Siegen, Koethen and Sangerhausen.

In Duesseldorf, the police blocked the streets of a Communist district and searched dwellings, confiscating many arms.

The question of the right of German states to control the activity of militant groups, such as Adolf Hitler's storm troops, went unanswered today when the Reich failed, as politicians put it, to "impose its will."

Showdown Fails.

Thus a showdown between the new cabinet of Franz von Papen and Hitler's Nazis failed to materialize at a conference of state ministers of the interior and the Reich minister, Baron Wilhelm von Gayl.

Baron von Gayl made a fervent appeal to the state governments to put their regulations governing political groups in line with the Hindenburg-Von Papen emergency decrees of June 16.

This decree lifted the ban on Hitler's storm troops and several other political organizations, including the Reichbanner Republicans and the Steel Helmeters (war veterans), but declared the Communists Red Front could not wear uniforms.

Early Action Promised.

The state ministers of the interior promised to obtain early action on the emergency decree from their cabinets and report to Baron von Gayl.

Political circles interpreted the result of the conference as an indication that the baron, as the Reich minister of interior, was unwilling, at least for the present, to take the extreme course demanded by the Nazis, and impose the Reich's will upon the states by an emergency decree. They also held to the belief that the Von Papen minister had not been influenced by Nazi threats to "take the law in their own hands."

Meanwhile, the Nazis won a victory in the Prussian Diet today when they placed the National Socialist, Hans Kerrl, in the permanent presidency. The Centrists voted blank, although they supported Kerrl when he was provisionally elected in a riotous session on May 25.

Gold Ingots Recovered From Wreck of Egypt

Brest, France, June 22 (A.P.).—The salvage ship Artiglio II, just returned to the scene of the wrecked liner Egypt, has succeeded in bringing up ingots of gold valued at several million francs, it was authoritatively learned today. The salvage vessel will continue her operations as long as the weather is favorable, it was said, and then go directly to Plymouth with the recovered treasure.

The liner Egypt was sunk in collision in 1923 with gold and silver bullion aboard valued at about $5,000,000, and Italian salvagers had been working over her unsuccessfully for two years.

THE COLLEGE OF PHARMACY COMMENCEMENT.

WITH sandwiches prepared and distributed by the student body, the graduation exercises of the Gideon School of Pharmacy were held yesterday. Just previous to the baccalaureate President Sidney Buxbaum introduced from the platform three members of the graduating class who had been highly honored in the class voting. They were:

Alfred Schaeffer—Most likely to succeed. (Mr. Schaeffer distinguished himself during his studies for the pharmaceutical profession by discovering three new soups and a salad dressing.)

Benjamin P. Quinpeffer—Man who has done most for the Gideon School of Pharmacy. (Mr. Quinpeffer originated a three-decker sandwich, which he named after his alma mater, on rye or white.)

Charles Cottle—Best all-round athlete. In a demonstration Mr. Cootle put up a prescription, sold two novels, served four nut sundaes and personally prepared a bowl of clam chowder in the record time of 2:07.2.

* * * *

President Buxbaum's baccalaureate emphasized the tremendous opportunities in the retail drug store business for all young men who know merchandising and run an attractive luncheonette.

"If during your four years at Gideon," he said, "you have learned how to prepare a quick lunch and make a good cup of coffee, your time here will not have been in vain. The apothecary shops of the country await you with open arms. As the poet said, 'If you can make a better triple-deck rye, whole wheat, or white bread, liverwurst, jelly and cream cheese sandwich, the world will beat a path to your drug store.'

* * * *

"Never has there been a greater opportunity for young men in the drug trade than there is at this moment. The situation, however, calls for originality. The customers are tired of the same names for sandwiches. If you will, as a pharmacist, keep the soup hot and serve a salad in which the lettuce leaves are fairly verdant, you will be on the way to distinction in your chosen profession.

* * * *

"The profession of pharmacy is an old and honorable one, but it still has a great distance to go in the matter of split-pea soup, veal cutlets with browned potatoes and the preparation of a chicken sandwich fit to eat.

* * * *

"In the drug business you will at times be called on to fill a prescription, dispense pills and render advice in the matter of patent medicines, but these things have come to be relatively unimportant. It is the soda fountain and the luncheonette that count, not forgetting a line of current literature, baby's toys and farm utensils.

* * * *

"Be bold! Give the world a new soft drink! Be brave! Give your country a different type fruit cup or vegetable dinner!

* * * *

"Be original! Wash the plates a little more carefully and for heaven's sake don't use green tomatoes. Men of Gideon, I wish you well."

ROOSEVELT INVITES WALKER TO EXPLAIN

Mayor Says He Will Take Up Governor's Request After Convention.

Albany, N. Y., June 22 (A.P.).—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt today asked Mayor Walker to reply to critics seeking his removal as mayor.

After fourteen days of study and consultation with counsel specifically selected for the task, Gov. Roosevelt forwarded to the mayor the testimony which Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter legislative committee, said indicated Jimmy Walker was "unfit to continue" as chief administrator of New York.

Mayor Walker at New York acknowledged receiving the "governor's communication with enclosures," even as he made preparations to leave "within a day or two" as a delegate to the Chicago convention, which will pass on Roosevelt's aspirations for the Presidency of the United States. The mayor is Tammany's probable choice for the convention resolutions committee which will draft the platform on which Roosevelt hopes to stand as nominee.

"Upon my return," said Walker, "I will immediately take up the matter of the governor's communication." He said he had not requested a place on the Democratic convention's resolutions committee but would serve there if chosen.

Fifteen assertions, interpreted by the governor as "formal charges," were in Seabury's analysis. They charged Walker with failure to execute his duties properly, acting in a way prejudicial to the best intereats of the citizens of New York City, and with explaining circumstances of the city government in a manner "so incomplete or so unworthy of credence as not to constitute acceptable explanations."

Baker Urges Use Of Best Character

Gives His Idea on Meeting Economic Crisis; 1,241 Get Yale Degrees.

New Haven, Conn., June 22 (A.P.).—Tapping of the "character and intellectual reserve" of the country to meet the present economic difficulties was urged today by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War.

The wartime Cabinet member mentioned as a possibility for the Democratic presidential nomination, addressed Yale alumni at a luncheon after honorary degrees had been conferred on him and nine other distinguished men at the university's 231st commencement exercises. A total of 1,241 degrees in course also were awarded.

Baker stressed the need for a leader to mobilize the character and intellectual reserve of the country and to tap its "latent virtues."

Doctorates of laws also were conferred on Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, who completed his undergraduate work at Yale in three years, and Federal Judge William I. Grubb, of Birmingham, Ala., a member of President Hoover's commission on law enforcement.

Pittsburgh to Send 300 More Bonus Marchers

Pittsburgh, June 22 (A.P.).—Pittsburgh's second detachment of "bonus marchers," comprising about 300 veterans and a number of their wives and children, will leave for Washington at 4 a. m. Friday.

James J. McGrath, commander of the Pittsburgh contingent, already bivouacked at Washington, returned to the city today to organize the second division.

200 Leave Los Angeles On Trek to Bonus Camp

2 RAILROADS WILL CARRY B. E. F. HOME AT CUT RATES

greater favor with the men here than any so far advanced for their amenable evacuation.

Representative Baldridge said he thought the men will soon be in a frame of mind to return home. He said his home City of Omaha, in his opinion, would raise the funds necessary to transport the 54 men from that city now here with the bonus army.

Commander in Chief W. W. Waters of the bonus marchers was unavailable yesterday to reporters, but it was said by his immediate subordinates in the veterans' organization that he would not accept the offer of the railroads. However, it was learned that the matter will be considered in caucus by representatives of the various groups.

No answers had been received at the national headquarters of the veterans as to the queries sent to various possible Democratic presidential nominees as to their respective stands on the bonus. It was indicated that the man who indicated sympathy for the veterans' project would receive their indorsement at the conclave next Thursday. If none comes out for the bonus then the men are expected to pick their own candidate.

With the veterans at the large Anacostia and other camps yesterday, the general keynote seemed to be, "No compromise." Without exception, every one of the 100 or so men approached said they were going to stay "'til we get the bonus."

While complaints have been received that insanitary conditions at the Camp Meigs veterans' camp were becoming dangerous, the men there had not been evacuated early last night. District Health Officer Fowler urged police to bring this about, and it was understood Gen. Glassford was taking steps toward that end.

Trammell's Proposal.

The amendment of Senator Trammell (Democrat), Florida, which would add to the Wagner unemployment bill a provision for the payment of one-half of the $2,400,000,000 bonus, had not come up in the Senate last night, though it held a night session on the measure of the New York senator.

With regard to the Trammell amendment, Commander Waters said he personally was strongly opposed to any "half-loaf" proposals. The bonus army leader said, however, that final acceptance or rejection of any such proposal would have to come from "the rank and file of the Bonus Expeditionary Force."

The Anacostia camp of the veterans is becoming a veritable mecca for Washingtonians. Hundreds of cars visit the camp daily and their occupants peer curiously at the mushroom city and its occupants. Many of the cars file slowly through the company streets of the camp.

After mess yesterday, several thousand of the veterans formed a huge circle and volunteer scrappers put on the gloves for a boxing show that lasted nearly two hours. Many residents of this city, visiting the camp, looked on and enjoyed with the veterans the fights.

"Army's" Finances Steady.

Funds of the veterans show a nearly steady balance. At the beginning of yesterday $4,389.35 formed the exchequer. From this during the day expenditures of $435.31 for food and miscellaneous supplies were made. Other funds are coming in slowly. Some money is being made by the sale of a flag folder at the entrances to the camps.

Three hundred disabled members of the bonus force here yesterday enjoyed a tour of the city in a fleet of taxicabs furnished by a local hacking firm. The cavalcade went through Rock Creek Park, to the Zoo and ended with a trip to the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington, where a wreath was laid on the famous sepulcher.

Police figures showed little change last night in the number of men here. While a few are trickling out each day, almost as many show up to replace them. Bonus leaders continue to claim the advance of heavy bonus hosts upon this city.

FOREIGN NEWS IN BRIEF

Peiping, China, June 22 (A.P.).—British nationals were advised today to evacuate the territory around Chientao, on the Korean border in Kirin province, Manchuria, following the alleged slaying of a German Catholic missionary, Father Conrad Rapp, by Japanese soldiers. The British nationals were advised to leave because of fear of antiforeign uprisings. It was believed here no Americans were in the region.

Quebec, Quebec, June 22 (A.P.).—Steady rain in the Lake St. John district and along the north shore of the St. Lawrence River brought relief from forest fires today. Henry Kieffer, director of the provincial forestry service, said the fires were definitely under control.

Hongkong, June 22 (A.P.).—Cholera raged throughout south China today. Nearly 200 new cases are being reported each day and 70 per cent of the cases are proving fatal. There was none at Hongkong, but Canton was reported especially hard hit.

Paris, June 22 (A.P.).—Commander Henry L. Stevens, jr. of the American Legion, who arrived for a visit in France last week, was received today by President Albert Lebrun.

London, June 22 (A.P.).—The Prince of Wales will be 38 years old tomorrow and he is going to take a day off. For once his program has been kept clear of official engagements. As usual, he will himself read thousands of congratulatory messages coming from all parts of the world. The prince has been very much in the public eye during the past two or three days by appearing in a straw "boater" and the moribund straw hat industry centered in Luton, Bedfordshire, is exultant.

Nish, Jugoslavia, June 22 (A.P.).—An assassin shot a former member of Parliament, Vasa Popovich, in the back and escaped today as peasants looked on. The incident occurred in the village of Bojnik, near Leskovac. Popovich was a cavalry officer in the World War and a hero of an adventurous escape from Austria across occupied Serbia to Salonika.

Obbia, Italian Somaliland, June 22 (A.P.).—Three Italian airmen were killed today when a strong wind caught them as they were descending to the ground in parachutes. The men had jumped at an altitude of 4,500 feet because their army plane had caught fire. The wind hurled them to the ground.

3 Loves Revealed In Hutton Hearing

Romances of Nurse Suing Aimee McPherson's Mate Bared.

Los Angeles, June 22 (A.P.).—Other loves in the life of Myrtle St. Pierre were dug from the ash heap of dead romances today by attorneys for David Hutton as they cross-examined the brunette nurse in the trial of her $200,000 breach of promise suit.

Attorneys for the singer-husband of Aimee McPherson Hutton, the evangelist, brought to light three love affairs. These preceded, she testified, the romance with Hutton more than a year ago, in which she asserted he betrayed her under promise of marriage and then forsook her, later marrying Mrs. McPherson.

As the questioning proceeded, she glanced nervously at the jammed courtroom, but did not appear on the brink of another collapse such as the one yesterday when she fell from the witness stand after telling a sensational story of Hutton's torrid courtship.

Bonus Men in Round-Up Of Marchers at Chicago

Chicago, June 22 (A.P.).—A movement to organize six companies of war veterans to march to Washington was started in Chicago today by the Adjust-the-Bonus-Now League.

The campaign was directed by Louis A. Deon, of Chadron, Nebr., a recruiting agent sent to Chicago from Washington by Walter Waters, commander of the Bonus Expeditionary Forces in the Capital. Assisting him was W. W O'Brien, attorney for the bonus league and independent candidate for Governor of Illinois. Deon said the veterans would march on Washington in regular military formation.

DISORDER ATTENDS D. A. V. CONVENTION

Commander Adjourns Session When Economy Move Is Fought.

San Diego, Calif., June 22 (A.P.).—A general business session of the Disabled American Veterans in twelfth annual convention here broke up in disorder today.

A proposed amendment to the organization's constitution, sponsored by national officers as an economy measure, met vociferous disapproval from the floor.

The finance committee offered the amendment, which would do away with the offices of the second, third and fourth junior vice commanders and the national historian. Past National Commander Frank J. Irwin, of Sawtelle, Calif., moved that the matter be tabled, arguing that it would reduce representation and further centralize the administraton of D. A. V. affairs.

Babcock's Action Booed.

National Commander E. Claude Babcock, refusing to recognize Irwin's motion, rapped for adjournment and left the convention hall in an uproar of booing, hissing and shouting, which quieted only a quarter of an hour later when all officers had departed.

Earlier the convention voted to confine D. A. V. efforts toward obtaining relief legislation to service-connected disabilities. Thus all D. A. V. support for relief of veterans sustaining injuries or contracting diseases after being discharged from the Army or Navy was withdrawn.

On motion of F. G. Haley, national liaison officer and chairman of the rehabilitation committee, a recommendation to the Veterans' Bureau that disability status be based upon employability instead of the present method of rating disability upon physical condition, was adopted unanimously. The recommendation would require the Federal Government either to employ those veterans rated employable or grant them the $100 a month total disability allowance.

Prison Survey Sought.

The convention also went on record as favoring the following:

A survey by rehabilitation officers of all penal institutions to assist in the rehabilitation of World War veterans confined in them.

That tuberculosis, now rated as total disability for five years, be rated as permanent total disability.

That a 500-bed hospital for Negro veterans be established in Florida or another Southern State.

That disability ratings be raised from lower figures to 25 per cent for moderate cases, 50 per cent for moderately severe cases and 75 per cent for severe cases.

The delegates also condemned publications which give the impression that all money appropriated for veterans is used for the relief of World War veterans, the resolution stating World War veterans receive only one-fifth of such appropriations.

submit an estimate. This will delay reporting the bill to either House for several days.

Provision for a new school site in Manor Park was stricken from the bill, as were funds for a $40,000 temporary sewage plant, and $15,000 for preparation of plans for viaducts in line of Michigan and New Hampshire avenues. The Senate voted $25,000 for a survey of the Rock Creek drainage area. This, too, went out of the bill.

Foxhall Village School.

Conferees agreed, however, to the Senate's $100,000 provision for a Foxhall Village elementary school. They accepted the Senate's $99,000 increase in appropriations for street lighting. They wrote into the measure a $100 per family maximum allowance for home care of dependent children in place of the $75 limit fixed by the House.

House conferees likewise receded from their stand on the District militia. Funds for the payment of troops were voted on the same basis as last year, with provision made for the summer camp period.

The Senate section, denying the Public Utilities Commission funds to publish an order requiring taxi installation of meters, but authorizing appropriations for other taxicab regulations, was accepted by conferees.

For mosquito protection, they decided on $30,000, instead of the $40,000 voted by the Senate and the $20,000 approved by the House. Half the funds allotted by the Senate for remodeling old Business High School and old Cardozo High School were granted.

Decision on Tuition.

In barring nonresident children from free tuition in District schools, House conferees accepted the Senate exemption of children of Army, Navy and Marine Corps personnel and Federal officials.

While denying funds for construction of Georgetown Branch of the Public Library, the conferees authorized expenditure of $5,500 for building retaining walls at the site. And in throwing out the Municipal Center item, they sanctioned rerouting of street car tracks in the area.

Although Police Department appropriations were shaved down to the level of budget estimates, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford was voted the $13,988 necessary for installing a new radio broadcasting unit.

The $7,775,000 lump sum voted represented a short cut from the $10,183,391 originally written into the bill by the Senate District appropriations subcommittee.

This figure was reduced first to $9,500,000 by the full Senate appropriations committee, then the usual Senate 10 per cent cut was applied, bringing the total contribution voted by the Senate to $8,550,000. The House authorized $8,500,000, $3,000,000 less than the current appropriation.

MERGER IN BRIDGE AROUSES EXPERTS

Storm of Criticism Follows Culbertson and "Official" Groups' Alliance.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Alliance of the Culbertson and "official" groups stirred rival contract bridge experts today.

Criticism was most acute from prominent figures in the American Bridge League, the president of which is Waldemar von Zedtwitz, long a member of Culbertson teams and a Culbertson partner in last winter's match with Sidney S Lenz.

Culbertson, Milton C. Work and others of bridge headquarters, sponsor of the official system, have formed the United States Bridge Association with the hope of supervising the game and conducting sectional and national championships.

Von Zedtwitz said his organization is operated on a purely nonprofit and nonpartisan basis and is already the national representative body conducting universally recognized tournaments; it has been working on a plan to include clubs as members as proposed by the United States Bridge Association; the league regards the intention of the Culbertson-Work alliance to promote standardization of bidding as dubious and beyond the scope of an official body representing public opinion as distinguished from professional interests.

In reply Culbertson and Work issued a joint statement saying the American Bridge League has no club representation and fewer than 300 individual members.

The statement criticized the announced intention of the league to issue a new code of laws for contract, saying it has been the traditional privilege of the Whist Club of New York to serve as the law-making body and duplications of codes would produce chaos, especially since the Whist Club and the Portland Club of London are making a new international code.

The statement said the United States Bridge Association has the support of 90 per cent of the country's bridge players.

PUBLIC WORKS ISSUE IS VOTED BY SENATE

had shown public works were "futile" in fighting unemployment.

Senators Robinson, the Democratic leader, and Wagner (Democrat), New York, spoke for the bond issue. The former said the public works program would provide for employment in rural areas through highway construction.

Pointing out that the bill included $80,000,000 for emergency highway construction, Robinson said:

"It would seem strange to me that the President would veto a bill which includes a measure almost identic to the one he prompted Congress to pass a year ago when conditions were less bad than they are now."

Three Hours' Debate.

Nearly three hours of yesterday's debate centered around a provision to allocate $40,000,000 to the Secretary of Agriculture for financing sales of agricultural products abroad.

An amendment by Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, to increase the amount to $250,000,000 and have it handled by the Reconstruction Corporation instead of the Secretary failed along with a proposal by Senator Black (Democrat), Alabama, to remove the $40,000,000 from the measure.

Farm Board Assailed.

The Farm Board and its stabilization activities in wheat and cotton were criticized during the debate in which it was contended the purpose of the provision was to enable the board to dispose of its surplus stocks.

Among the amendments agreed to was one by Senator Ashurst (Democrat), Arizona, striking out provision for an industrial commission of nineteen members to act as advisers in carrying out the bill's program.

Senator Gore (Democrat), Oklahoma, later entered a motion to reconsider the action.

Also adopted an amendment by Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan, that hand labor be employed so far as practicable on the projects financed by the bill.

Accuses Administration.

Meanwhile, in a public statement Senator Johnson (Republican), California, charged the administration with "seeking to force an adjournment before we pass a relief measure."

He asserted that any one "having the slightest conception of the conditions affecting human beings in this country ought to resent it."

With its legislative program completed, except for the measures now pending in the Senate, the House spent the day on private bills and adjourned until tomorrow.

In the Senate chairman Jones (Republican), Washington, of the appropriations committee, brought up for action the conference report on the national economy bill, but at the request of Democratic leaders consideration of it was postponed until today. Yielding to the Senate, the House has agreed to the plan of payless furloughs for Government workers.

Says Conditions Minimized.

Arguing for his $5,500,000,000 public works bond issue proposal, Senator La Follette said Mr. Hoover opposed thoroughgoing measures "because the financial group in this country with which he has been associated all his life would have to make sacrifices in the public weal."

"He invariably launched his halfway measures six or twelve months too late," he added.

La Follette accused the President of minimizing economic conditions, relying upon "psychological measures," employing "a multitude of conferences" rather than direct governmental action, and putting both "frantic and often panicky efforts" to get execution of his "policy or lack of policy."

first admitted, little hope was expressed for Dove and Esputa.

On the hurried dash to the hospital, Charles C. Coupard, of Rockville, and Samuel K. Martin, of Potomac, drove ahead of the fire department car and cleared the road, which was filled with noonday traffic.

The force of the first explosion was so great that it hurled Nicholson into the river, he said from the tub of water in which he was lying in the hospital last night to ease the pain of his burns.

He said the second blast occurred when he stepped on the starter of the car. A solid sheet of flames surrounded them, he said. His clothes did not catch fire, he said, because they were wet when he was knocked into the river on the first explosion.

The gas flowing from a broken valve was stemmed by Charles Campbell, of Rockville, who climbed down into the main and shut off the flow.

Woman Poison Victim Is Treated at Hospital

Mrs. May A. Bowers, 27 years old, was taken to Emergency Hospital last night and admitted in an undetermined condition from the effects of poison she is said to have swallowed at the apartment of her sister, Miss Gladys Thomas, 2025 I street northwest.

Mrs. Bowers was found stretched across a bed in the apartment by Miss Lillian Taylor, a roommate of Miss Thomas. Miss Taylor said that when she asked what the trouble was Mrs. Bowers told her she had swallowed poison. Mrs. Bowers has lived with her sister and Miss Taylor for about four months since leaving her husband, police were told.

SHERBURNE HOPKINS, ATTORNEY, EXPIRES

Native of Washington Was Prominent in Latin-American Affairs.

Sherburne Gillette Hopkins, internationally known attorney and lifelong resident of Washington, died yesterday at his home, 1817 Nineteenth street northwest, following a brief illness. He was 64 years old.

The death of Mr. Hopkins brought to an end a varied and colorful career. His ventures in many successful and unsuccessful Latin American revolutions placed him in the capacity as confidential adviser to numerous foreign governments.

Mr. Hopkins was a graduate of Columbia University. In 1889 he was admitted to the bar and for some time practiced law with his father as the firm of Hopkins & Hopkins.

His first association with Latin American problems came in 1891. He sailed as a member of the crew of a ship which attempted to run arms from California to revolutionists seeking to overthrow the Chilean government. Later becoming identified with other insurrections, Mr. Hopkins finally took up interest in the troubles of Mexico.

Serving for some time as adviser to Francisco Madero and Carranza, he later became the confidential agent of Pancho Villa. After campaigning with Villa for several months, Mr. Hopkins returned to Washington in 1917.

He acted as adviser to J. de la Huerta, who claimed to be Mexico's constitutional president, and who was later forced to flee to the United States. Since 1920, Mr. Hopkins has been serving as confidential agent for the Trans-Caucasian republics of Georgia and Azerbajian, which sought to gain their independence from Soviet Russia.

Mr. Hopkins was lieutenant in the naval militia in 1898, and as a lieutenant commander, was in charge of the U. S. S. Fern a year later. He was a member of the Society of International Law, Society of Mayflower Descendants and a Mason.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Hester Davis Hopkins, and a sister, Mrs. Jessie E. Seibert, also of this city.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock from the S. H. Hines funeral home, 2901 Fourteenth street northwest.

nized, prosecution and defense were preparing their cases for the opening next Monday of the trial of John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk, Va., boatbuilder, on charges of hoaxing Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in the disastrous hunt for the kidnapers of his baby son. He has since repudiated his confession.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Miss Alice Morrow, sister of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, arrived today, bringing a child's walnut chair, hand-carved and seated in cane, which she bought for her grandnephew, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., before he was kidnaped in March. The baby would have been 2 years old today.

Firemen's Leaves Unaffected by Bill

Slash in Salaries, However, of 8 1-3 Per Cent, Is Provided For.

The pending furlough bill will not deprive metropolitan, park, and White House police or District firemen of their annual leave, Maj. D. J. Donovan, District auditor, explained yesterday. It will, of course, slash 8.3 per cent of their salaries.

A specific clause in the measure exempts these classes of District and Federal employes and school teachers from the provision that all leaves with pay be suspended during the coming fiscal year.

Maj. Donovan estimates that the furlough bill will save the District government approximately $2,000,000 a year, of which approximately $1,700,000 will be taken from annual employes and $200,000 from per diem workers.

EFFICIENCY BUREAU FAVORS INCREASE IN UTILITY TAXES

ing the rates on health, accident and life insurance companies from 1 per cent on premium receipts to 1½ per cent. Other insurance company rates would be raised from 1½ to 2 per cent under the bureau plan. Bonding, fidelity and surety companies, now subject to a 1½ per cent gross receipts tax, would be taxed 2 per cent on net premium receipts. Companies insuring real estate titles would be taxed 2 instead of 1½ per cent on gross receipts.

Would Total $135,000.

Additional revenue from this insurance tax revision would amount to $135,000, the report stated.

The bureau would relieve heavy tax burdens of local national bank and trust companies by allowing them to deduct from gross earnings the interest paid on savings accounts, as outlined in the Capper bill. The change would reduce taxes annually for these institutions by $120,000.

Pointing out that as early as 1903, the gross earnings tax for savings banks was cut from 6 to 4 per cent, while national banks and trust companies continued to pay the 6 per cent rate, the bureau cited figures showing levies on these local institutions nearly double those in other cities in the Fifth Federal Reserve district.

"In view of the fact that the tax on banks throughout the United States appears to be comparatively high, and that paid in the District above the average, the bureau believes a reduction should be made in the local taxes for this type of business," the report stated.

Gross Earnings Base.

"It does not, however, favor a lower rate at this time, but feels that relief should come through a change in the gross earnings base, so as to allow a deduction for interest paid on savings accounts in the manner proposed in the bill."

Application to District utilities of the general property tax combined with a gross earnings tax, proposed by Senator Capper, was opposed for three reasons. Director Brown charged it would confuse investment with ownership, would not serve as a satisfactory criterion of ability to pay, and would raise difficulties in establishing the value of corporation property.

"So far as practicable," Mr. Brown said, "to unite features of fairness and certainty in one system, the bureau favors a tax for public utilities embodying the elements of both gross receipts and net earnings involving two distinct computations.

"The gross receipts-net earnings tax would be in lieu of the personal property taxes and the proposed income tax. The real property tax, however, would be continued without change and without the inclusion of any tax whatever on personalty in the form of poles, wires and conduits."

Robinson's Former Stenographer Dies

Carey W. Martin Is Found Mysteriously Drowned in Arkansas.

The body of a man found floating in the Arkansas River, near Little Rock, was yesterday identified as that of Carey W. Martin, 38, former member of the office staff of Senator Joseph T. Robinson. Martin, it was stated in an Associated Press dispatch, had been missing from his home since Sunday.

An autopsy disclosed no marks of violence. Mr. Martin, who lived in Little Rock, was a resident of Washington for about five years, living in A street southeast. He was employed by Senator Robinson as a personal stenographer when he was discharged from the Army soon after the World War.

He left Washington and was employed in the law firm of Robinson, House & Moses, in Little Rock. During the last year he had been affiliated with the Little Rock branch of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

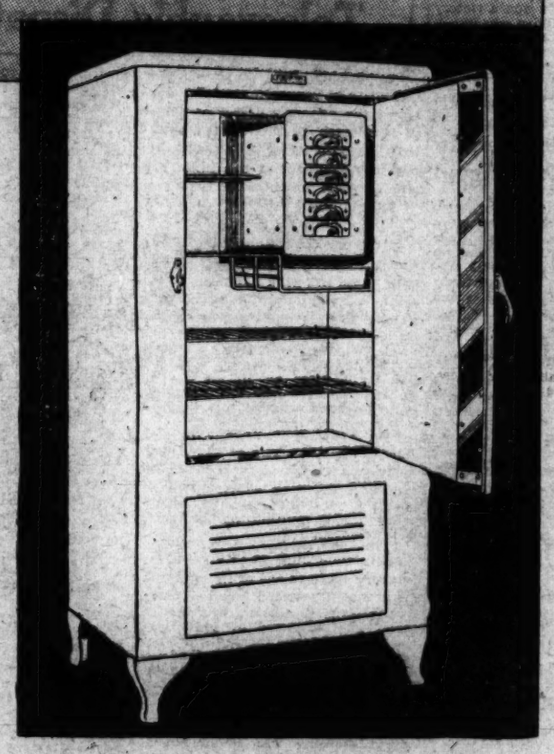
SEE HOW EASY IT IS TO OWN A GAS Automatic REFRIGERATOR



- $20 allowance for your old icebox
- No other down payment needed
- Complete installation
- 36 months to pay
- Choice of colors at no extra cost

With these easy terms you don't have to do without things, to buy an automatic refrigerator. And you don't have to put up with an undersized box. You can have a big gas refrigerator, really large enough for your family's needs, and still pay only a few cents a day for it.

The average family can buy a gas refrigerator for about two pennies per person per meal.

Or figure it another way. Spread the purchase price over the normal life of an Electrolux gas refrigerator. Add the cost of operation. Subtract what you pay for comparable ice refrigeration. The answer is—nothing—you get your gas refrigerator and all its advantages for less than the cost of ice.

Since this is true, every family can and should have the convenience and safety of a gas automatic refrigerator. Send in the coupon, and let us show you a cost analysis for your family. There is no obligation and it is information every modern family should have.

BRAZIL NAMES TWO TO CABINET PLACES

Ministry Resigns in Body, but Reorganizes After New Appointments.

Rio de Janeiro, June 22 (A.P.).—The cabinet of President Getulio Vargas resigned in a body today, the first collective resignation in the Brazilian republic's history, but he induced it to carry on after filling two vacancies.

The appointment of the two new minister, Gen. Flores da Cunha as minister of justice and P. Moraes Barros as minister of agriculture, appeared to strengthen the government's relations with civilian political leaders in three strong states.

It was considered significant that the new cabinet members were civilians, although Da Cunha bears the title of general.

Gen. Da Cunha is a former interventor for the State of Rio Grande do Sul and acted as mediator in a revolt last April. Senhor Moraes Barros is from the State of Sao Paulo.

Dr. Oswaldo Aranha, finance minister, in presenting the cabinet resignation, emphasized that no dissension was involved, the sole desire being to give the president freedom of action.

President Vargas replied he had the fullest confidence in his ministers and intended only to fill the two posts that had been vacant for some time.

The cabinet as now constituted is: Oswald Aranha, finance; Moraes Barros, agriculture; Flores da Cunha, justice; Gen. Leite de Castro, war; Portogenes Guimaraes, navy; A. De Mello Franco, foreign affairs; Salgado Filho, labor; Jose Americo, public works, and Francisco Campos, education.

Chilean Regime Invokes Drastic Curfew Laws

Santiago, Chile, June 22 (A.P.).—A drastic ban against activity of citizens in night hours was issued by the new Socialist Junta today, supplimenting a special decree of yesterday outlawing Communism and providing stringent penalties for grouped malcontents.

Today's order provided for the closing of many liquor stores permanently and declared no liquor should be sold anywhere after 6 p. m.

Amusement houses were ordered to close at 9 p. m. Traffic on the streets will not be permitted after 10 p. m., and hotels were told to lock their doors at 11 p. m.

The ban was declared for the duration of the state of siege, and persons found on the streets after 10 p. m. will be fired on as agitators, or, if armed, will be court-martialed and "probably executed."

Provisional President Carlos Davila, ill from a deep chest cold, left his bed at noon today to return to his office.

A decree prohibiting the wealthy or sons of the wealthy from holding public offices was in preparation. The government's attitude is that the needy deserve such posts.

Meanwhile the entire country was reported quiet, with all armed forces on the alert for the slightest sign of subversive activity.

Wiggin Sails to Confer On Germany's Finances

New York, June 22 (A.P.)—A. H. Wiggin, chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank, sailed on the liner Bremen tonight for London to attend a meeting of the German stillhaltung, or "standstill," credit committee.

This committee represents world bank creditors of Germany. The London session is to be the first of a series of meetings scheduled from time to time to determine Germany's ability to make any further payments on account. The stillhaltung agreement was extended early this year to continue through 1932. Under it Germany was granted a delay in repaying her short-term debt until next year. About 100 American banks, through their representatives on the international committee, are party to the agreement.

F. E. Lykes, Asheville, Elected Civitan Head

Baltimore, June 22 (A.P.).—Frederick E. Lykes, of Asheville, N. C., was elevated to the presidency of Civitan International at the annual convention here today, succeeding Harold Tachudi, of Baltimore. The new president served last year as chairman of the law enforcement committee of the organization and as governor of the North Carolina district.

The vice presidents elected today are Judge Arthur Crownover, of Nashville, Tenn.; Herbert Porter, of Atlanta, Ga.; Frank P. Topping, of Sacramento, Calif., and William W. West, of Denver, Colo. Claude Hagen, of Birmingham, Ala., was named treasurer. The convention will close tomorrow when the delegates go to Washington to be received by President Hoover at the White House.

Sacco-Vanzetti Defender Named for High Court

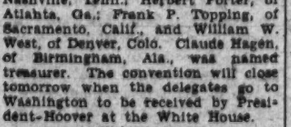
Boston, Mass., June 22 (A.P.).—Prof. Felix Frankfurter, champion of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, radicals, whose death sentences and executions for murder had reverberations throughout the world, today was nominated by Gov. Joseph B. Ely for a place on the Massachusetts Supreme Court bench.

The nomination required the approval of the the executive council, which probably will act on it next week.

Byrd Road Act Backers To Hold Mass Meetings

The first of a series of Arlington County mass meetings under the auspices of the advocates of the Byrd road act will be held tonight in the Lyon Park Community House at 8 o'clock.

Hugh Reid, delegate from Arlington County to the General Assembly of Virginia, and John L. Harrison, of the United States Good Roads Bureau, will speak.



Pussyfooters Ruled Out By Craving for Frankness

By JOHN J. DALY

IT was Caligula, the Roman Emperor, who is reputed to have said that he wished the Roman people had but one head, that he might decapitate it with a single blow.

This was the same old Caligula who had such a perverted sense of humor that he got up picnic parties, invited the merrymakers to cross his bridge over Baiae Bay, and then, in the height of their pleasure, turned loose the Praetorian guards and had the picnickers tossed into the open sea.

Caligula, somehow or other, just could not be bothered by the people.

As great problems of the hour crowd themselves into the public consciousness, and the American people begin asking questions, many are the Caligulas who stand on the public platforms, in the forum, and wish in their heart of hearts there was but one American mouth—that it might be closed, forcibly and with sufficient strength, until after the elections.

In short, some of the statesmen are afraid. Unlike Nelson, who cried in his bravery, "A peerage or Westminster Abbey," these fellows say, "Hold everything until after the elections"—questions included.

* * * *

IT can not be done. The American people want to hear somebody say something. It matters not what the politicians say, just so they say it. After that, the axes will fall, or the petards will hoist the candidates into the high places.

It is the good old American custom of getting a man to open his mouth and trying to make him put his foot in it.

No wonder carefully prepared statements are taking the place of carefree, bombastic oratory. The demagogues are giving way to the mummouthed and the precise. So that the pendulum in American politics has swung from the loose jargon of another day to the forthright speech of statesmanship that does not lisp or mince. There must be no danger of misinterpretation, for if the humblest and least intelligent in the land, who are still American people, do not understand what the great men say, the great men will cease to be great men and will come down off their high horses.

'Tis the new order that sounds the death knell of pussyfooting, just as Cassius Chaerea assassinated Caius Caesar, who was Caligula, who said he wished the Roman people had but one head that he might decapitate it at a single stroke.

Hawaiian Inquiry Asked of Congress

Report of Legislative Committee Is Sent by Hoover.

(Associated Press.)

A congressional investigation of conditions in Hawaii was invited in a report of a committee of the Islands' Legislature sent to Congress yesterday by President Hoover.

The report recommended that the Hawaiian Legislature request Congress to send a committee to the islands "to make a complete investigation of the government of this territory, of the administration of civil affairs and criminal law in the territory and of any other matters for the purpose of ascertaining conditions existing herein and the advisability or inadvisability of making any changes in the Hawaiian organic act."

The committee indorsed the action of Gov. Judd of Hawaii, in expressing disapproval of bills introduced in Congress to strengthen Federal control over the islands.

Bicentennial Hikers On Path of Washington

Cumberland, Md., June 22 (A.P.).—Twenty hikers left Cumberland today to follow the 130-mile trail made by George Washington during the French and Indian War to Braddock, Pa.

The party was headed by John Kennedy Lacock, of Boston; J. Alexis Shriver, of Baltimore, chairman of the Washington Bicentennial celebrations of Maryland, and Prof. Albert Bushnell Hart, instructor of history at Harvard University. Following an overnight stop at Frostburg, Md., the party will continue on to Granville tomorrow, expecting to reach Braddock on July 4.

Senora Calles' Condition Held Not Perilous Now

Boston, June 22 (A.P.).—The condition of Senora Leonor Florente Calles, wife of former President Plutarco Elias Calles, of Mexico, who came here for observation by Dr. Harvey Cushing, brain specialist of international repute was reported today as not being immediately dangerous.

Dr. Joseph M. Puig Cassurano, Mexico's Ambassador to the United States and spokesman for the party which accompanied Senora Calles to Boston, said he did not look for any immediate developments. Senora Calles was believed to be suffering from a tumor of the brain. She was at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital.

Stay in Session, Rail Appeal to Congress

Cleveland, June 22 (A.P.).—The Railway Labor Executives Association today called upon Congress to stay in session to see the country through its ills and at the same time vigorously attacked the "prevailing propaganda" against Congress as "atrociously unfair."

"A vote to adjourn is a vote to abandon a post of duty on a battlefield, where the fate of the Nation may be determined," said a resolution approved by the association, which is composed of the heads of 21 railway labor organizations and represents approximately 2,000,000 railroad workers.

Mrs. Ringling's Inn Destroyed.

Wisconsin Dells, Wis., June 22 (A.P.).—Mirror Lake Inn, owned by Mrs. Al. Ringling, widow of one of the Ringling brothers, circus showmen, was destroyed by fire today. Only a few guests were in the inn and they escaped. The loss was estimated at $150,000.

St. Rose's School To Occupy Estate

Country Home of Late E. T. Stellwagen Is Rented for Summer.

Sister Mary Gabriel and Sisters of Charity in charge of St. Rose's Technical School at 1878 Phelps place northwest, are preparing to move the school to the Oaks, the Stellwagen place on West River in Maryland. This is an old country estate owned by the late E. J. Stellwagen, and one of his last acts was to sign the lease giving the use of the home to St. Rose's Technical School and Home for the summer.

Because of his interest in the work of St. Rose's and the Community Chest, from which it derives support, the late Mr. Stellwagen rented the country estate to the sisters at a nominal rental. As it is furnished with cots and furniture enough to accommodate all of the girls of the school, it will not be necessary to move any furniture to the place. The estate provides salt water bathing, crabbing, fishing and other water sports in addition to facilities for all kinds of outdoor activities.

The girls will leave for West River about July 4.

Commander Alger H. Dresel, who had succeeded Rosendahl as captain of the Los Angeles, assumed command of the larger ship.

ARMS REDUCTION.

President Hoover believes that the way to reduce armaments is to reduce them. Accordingly he proposes that all the powers make a cut of one-third. He speaks of the relief that would follow abolition of the enormous tax for armaments, and of the reassurance of peace that would result from the removal of the fear and friction that are provoked by constantly increasing armaments.

The Hoover proposal had hardly reached Geneva before M. Paul-Boncour made this reply in behalf of France:

> The reduction of armaments is inseparably bound up with security. Hoover's plan of mass reduction will be welcomed, if it is combined with international provisions for security. We are willing to study Hoover's proposals if America will study the requirements of French security.

M. Paul-Boncour was also quoted as saying that Mr. Hoover's proposal, made at this time, would undoubtedly be beneficial in Mr. Hoover's political campaign. The French spokesman evidently wished to ward off world criticism of France for refusing to cooperate by making it appear that the Hoover proposal is merely a campaign gesture.

British opinion at Geneva is said to regard the Hoover proposal as "workable," with some exceptions, while the Italian spokesmen accepted the proposal unreservedly.

These preliminary replies expose the real stumbling block at Geneva. Ever since the war France has endeavored to draw the United States into some agreement which would make this country the guarantor of French "security"—in other words, to commit the United States Army and Navy to the defense of France in the event of war.

When Mr. Hoover proposed suspension of intergovernmental payments a year ago the French government attempted to extort from him an agreement tantamount to a military alliance as the price of French acceptance of the moratorium. At the conference held in London, at which the powers appointed a committee to study Germany's economic condition, Premier Laval renewed his efforts to draw the United States into an agreement guarranteeing French "security." It was only after Mr. Hoover sent over a virtual ultimatum that the French conferees dropped political questions and joined in the arrangements for the moratorium.

France then gave notice that she would not reduce armaments, and at the present Geneva conference she has kept her word.

The weak point in the French demand for a security guaranty as a condition precedent to reduction of armaments is that a universal reduction would not impair French military or naval strength. She would retain the same relative strength as at present, as compared with all other powers except Germany. Since Germany is denied any military force above the minimum required for maintenance of domestic order, a reduction of France's army by one-third would still leave her immeasurably stronger than Germany.

The only possible ground for French demands for a security guaranty is the fear that a combination of powers might join Germany in attacking France. But if Italy and other countries should join in reducing their armaments by one-third, France would retain her present relative superiority.

Americans will generally agree that by no hook or crook can France obtain from the United States an agreement to fight France's battles. No treaty of alliance has ever been made under the Constitution. It seems improbable that any treaty of that kind, which would virtually deprive Congress of the power to declare war, could be ratified, even if constitutional objections were waived.

Although there are diplomatic intimations that the attitude of the powers at Geneva is more favorable to the Hoover proposal than the first reactions would indicate, the consistent policy of France since the war shows only too clearly that general arms reduction can be had only at a price that is too high for this country to pay. The United States would be foolish, indeed, if in its eagerness to bring about reduction of armaments it should undertake to fight the battles of other countries.

SOUND ECONOMIC RELIEF.

Only one problem of national importance remains before Congress. As soon as the relief measures are disposed of Congress will be able to adjourn and give the country a chance to apply the constructive forces that have been set in motion. The relief measure which Congress passes will doubtless be a key to the immediate future of business and industry.

Many factors have combined in recent weeks to arrest the progress of deflation and initiate an upward economic movement. The budget has been substantially balanced; bank failures have been largely stopped; hoarding is on the decrease; credit has been made available through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the Federal Reserve bank system; the withdrawal of gold has ceased because most of the foreign holdings have been removed; the fall in commodity prices seems to have been checked; uncertainty as to taxes no longer exists, and the threats of debasing the currency through enactment of the bonus bill have been eliminated from the picture. The stage seems to be set for a forward movement, unless some unforeseen event or a last-minute escapade on the part of Congress should throw the country once more into confusion.

Every action that Congress has taken to improve economic conditions has been in the direction of restoring confidence and normal business activity. It is of the utmost importance that Congress should pass a relief bill that will contribute to that end. The Senate killed the bonus bill because debasement of the currency would have caused a run on gold, thus destroying all the confidence that has been built up by careful and persistent effort since last November. Congress must also kill the Garner pork-barrel bill and every other proposed bond issue because they would undermine confidence and start a fresh outbreak of deflationary forces.

The danger of foreign gold withdrawals seems to have passed. But the adoption of a reckless financial policy by Congress would once more make that peril imminent. Foreign investors still hold a considerable volume of American securities. Enactment of a fanatical relief bill, which in effect would throw the budget out of balance, might start a wave of selling, and gold would once more start moving abroad. A huge bond issue would also be a severe blow to the bond market in this country. Further liquidation could be expected, and the country would be launched upon another dip into the slough of hard times.

While Congress is wrangling over minor details of the Wagner bill, this fundamental aspect of the relief problem should not be overlooked. It is quite possible for Congress to bring greater distress upon the country by a new orgy of squandering than the proposed bond issues could relieve. What the country needs is a revival of industry and commerce, not artificial jobs financed at the cost of destroying confidence in the Government.

The Senate's approval of the $500,000,000 bond issue feature of the Wagner bill is a step backward. If not dropped in conference it may imperil the unemployment relief program. The threatened deadlock between Senate and House Democrats over their respective pork-barrel proposals may prevent early adjournment.

HARD SLEDDING FOR QUACKS.

Americans were so busy last week with politics of their own that they did not take much notice of the overwhelming defeat of J. T. Lang, Australia's well-known fanatic, in the elections of New South Wales. An unprecedented majority crushed Lang and his quack remedies, illustrating once more how sharply Anglo-Saxon opinion may turn to conservatism when the so-called liberals carry their nostrums to extremes.

Mr. Lang brought international disrepute upon himself last year when he repudiated the bonded indebtedness of New South Wales. The commonwealth government made good the default of New South Wales to save the credit standing of Australia. Thus a heavy burden was placed upon taxpayers of the other provinces. When it became evident that Mr. Lang intended to maintain his irresponsible policies, the parliament ordered his arrest and laid claim to enough of the revenues of New South Wales to meet the debts of that province.

Conditions went from bad to worse in New South Wales. Enormous debts were piled up for doles which the government could not afford. Premier Lang would have nothing of economy or retrenchment. He continued his ruthless policy of liquidating capital to pay doles and unwarranted benefits to a point where the governor, who is appointed by the British king, removed him from office.

In the election held last week Mr. Lang demanded vindication. Having bankrupted the province by his lavish handouts and having been removed by the royal power, he thought he had an excellent background for an appeal to the masses. He promised the laborites extravagant rewards and benefits if they would return him to power. But even the people who had profited from his distribution of governmental charity were more impressed by the bankruptcy which he had brought upon the government than by his fresh promises of more booty.

The defeat of J. T. Lang is a wholesome sign. It means that the common people of Australia have learned that no state can squander itself into prosperity. Citizens in every country may take a lesson from the tragedy that this irresponsible official brought upon the people he pretended to serve with doles and bonuses. The rank and file of voters and taxpayers everywhere are coming to realize that calamity always follows when fanatics are given control of the public purse. It is not surprising to see quacks uprooted throughout the world.

HELPING THE NAVY.

Due to the tireless efforts of Senator Hale, the Navy appropriation bill has been saved from emasculation. As sent to conference it carried $318,233,591 for maintenance and development of the Navy during the next fiscal year. This represents a cut of only $8,119,868 from the House bill. If the Senate had applied the 10 per cent cut prescribed for most other appropriation measures the reduction would have been nearly four times that large.

The senator from Maine convinced the Senate that this is no time to jeopardize national defense. Naval construction in the United States is far behind the limits prescribed by international treaty. Although the Government has jealously guarded the right of Uncle Sam to build and maintain a navy second to none in the world, the actual fighting strength of this country on the sea is considerably below that of Great Britain and in some ways is inferior to that of Japan. Regardless of the depression the maintenance of a reasonable naval construction program is imperative.

As the Navy supply bill passed the Senate, under the guidance of Senator Hale, it gives assurance that the efficiency of the Navy will be maintained and that a reasonable amount of construction will proceed. Seven cruisers, one aircraft carrier, three submarines and five destroyers are now under construction. Three battleships are being modernized. The supply bill gives assurance that this work will continue through the fiscal year beginning on July 1. Present indications are that construction of only one naval vessel, a cruiser, will begin next year. A total of about $24,000,000 will be available for naval building, $6,000,000 of which is being transferred from the naval supply accounts fund.

Senator Hale also deserves credit for passage through the Senate of the bill providing that the Navy should be built up to treaty limits. That measure is now bogged in the naval affairs committee of the House.

Senator Hale's bill does not call for any immediate appropriations. Expansion of the naval building program will have to wait for an improvement in economic conditions. But that does not alter the desirability of committing Congress to a policy of building up to parity with Great Britain. There is no possibility that the other great naval powers will reduce their strength on the sea to a ratio below treaty limits, as the American Navy has done. Consequently, the United States ought to make definite arrangements to take its proper place among the naval powers. Those practical and conscientious statesmen who have been working to this end on Capitol Hill deserve more credit than they have received.

AGAINST PEACE VIOLATORS

By F. TRUBEE DAVISON, Assistant Secretary of War.

The United States maintains its military establishments, not as aggressive agencies for war, but designed to maintain peace and to preserve our institutions. After all, we must not forget that the Army had a good deal to do with winning our independence and has been called on several times in our history to preserve our integrity.

Our policy of national defense is in accordance with the American traditions of adequate preparedness and for defensive purposes only and obviously must be adjusted from time to time to meet world conditions as we find them.

This Government is taking the leadership in the movement to reduce armaments throughout the world. Until that leadership has been accepted and followed we can not neglect preparedness. To do so would be to invite disaster. Even as police forces are maintained to deal with individuals who violate the law, so we must maintain an adequate Army and Navy as long as there is a chance that outlaw nations will attempt to violate the peace.

In his speech on Armistice Day, 1929, President Hoover expressed the administration's attitude on the subject of preparedness in the following words:

"Until such time as nations can build the agencies of pacific settlement on stronger foundations; until fear, the most dangerous of all national emotions, has been proved groundless by long proof of international honesty; until the power of world public opinion as a restraint of aggression has had many years of test, there will not have been established that confidence which warrants the abandonment of preparedness for defense among nations. To do so may invite war.

"I am for adequate preparedness as a guaranty that no foreign soldier shall ever step upon the soil of our country. * * * No American will arise today and say that we wish one gun or one armed man beyond that necessary for the defense of our people. To do so would create distrust in other nations, and also would be an invitation to war. Proper defense requires military strength relative to that of other nations."

Adequate preparedness in terms of men and money is more economical and certainly more merciful than a modern war. Modern war is expensive. The World War cost millions of dollars a day, not to mention the inestimable cost of human life and happiness. Every dollar spent, every precaution taken toward preparedness in time of peace not only insures national security against war, but is also the only effective means of bringing any war that might be inflicted upon us to a swift and successful conclusion.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

F. K. R.

He loved this world and all his friends,
Rejoiced in sky and stream
And followed to their farthest ends
The bypaths of his dream.
No task he thought too much to do
For those he loved, whose need he knew.

It was his way to worship God
By being always kind.
Whatever little lane he trod,
Some work for Him he'd find.
A crushed flower or a wounded bird
Would leave his nature deeply stirred.

He loved the smell of earth; young grass,
A wood fire's pungent smoke.
In quiet hours which comrades pass
Together, oft he spoke
Of stars and trees and canyon rim,
As though they were a part of him.

And now God has him back again—
This gentle soul who dared
To sense the sufferings of men
And live as though he cared.
And He will find, where all is known,
The scars of heartaches not his own.

A Cold Supper Is a Feast to the Man Who Expected None at All.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MOST of man's mental misery is a result of expecting more than he deserves.

Life is full of resentments and disappointments because a foolish and ignorant vanity causes us to magnify our deserts and our rights.

We are selfish by nature and practice. Our chief interest in any matter is the profit to be gained from it. And since gain is necessary to our existence in a selfish world, we make a virtue of gaining.

Thus the man who opposes our schemes opposes virtue, and one who outwits us to take the profit we hoped to get for ourselves is in league with the devil.

Can any man in a controversy or conflict see justice in his opponent's contention? Unless he is the rarest of mortals, he can not so much as try to see it.

The thing you desire eventually becomes the thing to which you are entitled, and all who oppose your desire must of necessity uphold injustice and unfairness.

If your desire is to be treated as a person of consequence, those who fail in respect seem purposely offensive—not because they are discourteous in fact, but because they are less attentive and servile than your vanity expects them to be.

Your feelings are hurt because you demanded more than you deserved. "Hurt feelings" invariably are a confession of disappointed vanity.

Humble people are the happiest. They escape the bitterness of disappointment by expecting little.

Here, then, is a secret of happiness.

Say to your soul: "One such as I, a sham, a pretender, neither wholly truthful nor wholly honorable, deserves nothing from the world."

Thereafter you will feel no slights, for nothing is lost if no gain is expected, and anything you get will seem much because you expected less.

The humble millions feel no hurt when they aren't invited to the inaugural ball.

Unwounded doughboys were content without a pension until designing politicians taught them to expect one; now they feel tricked and cheated because the Treasury can't meet their demands.

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

Nation Not Radical.
Brooklyn Citizen.

The notion entertained by some of Gov. Roosevelt's supporters that he will carry every Sate west of the Mississippi, with the exception of Oregon and Iowa, is a delusion. The primaries in most of these Western States have shown a great excess of Republican votes over Democratic votes, and in Wisconsin the Republican radicals were defeated by the conservative Republicans for the first time in 24 years. All of which goes to show that the country is conservative and not radical.

Dilemma of the Extreme Wets.
Kansas City Star.

It was natural that the dripping wet East should be angry over the Republican plank on the eighteenth amendment. The Eastern States wanted repeal and nothing else. But as the plank is discussed and better understood, this anger is likely to cool.

Every unprejudiced observer knows that it would be out of the question to carry a repeal amendment. It could be blocked by thirteen States, and certainly the thirteen would be forthcoming. Realizing this situation, such an extreme antiprohibitionist as Clarence Darrow has advocated frank nullification, on the ground that repeal was impossible.

As the discussion proceeds the antiprohibitionists will realize that they are faced with the alternatives of taking a possible compromise in the direction of what they desire, or of holding out for an impossible plan that would be rejected by more than one-fourth of the States.

But One Plank Croons.
Indianapolis Star.

Something More Than Custom.
Minneapolis Journal.

The renomination of Vice President Charles Curtis is in keeping with the custom of the last 20 years. Time was when new running mates were commonly chosen for renominated Presidents. The Republicans, in 1912, set a new style when they nominated James S. Sherman. The Democrats followed suit when, in 1916, they renominated and reelected Tom Marshall. Since then there has been no opportunity, until this week, to renominate an incumbent Vice President.

But something more than custom dictated the renomination of Mr. Curtis. The Vice President is as well qualified a presiding officer as the United States Senate has had in many years. And his 40 years in Washington have given him an experience in national affairs well fitting him for the presidential task itself, in case of a White House vacancy.

A representative named Black, from the State of New York, proposes a "five-man dictatorship" to run the United States. He has introduced a bill into Congress which would create a committee with emergency power to rule this Nation until the depression is over. There could be no more vicious proposal.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Mr. Lyle Says Republican Prohibition Plank Is Sensible Solution—Bids Fanatics Stop Prattling.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If the fanatical wets and drys who are assailing the Republican resubmission plank as a straddle on the prohibition issue will stop their stupid prattle long enough to give it proper study they will find it to be the most sensible policy that could have been adopted. The Republican party does not make any extravagant promises that will be impossible to fulfill, but puts the dry issue up to the people to decide for themselves, and promises to abide by the will of the majority in either case. Could anything be more fair than that?

The drys seem to be ignorant of the fact that they are as much to blame for prohibition becoming unpopular as the wets. Instead of cooperating with the authorities to enforce the eighteenth amendment in a sane way, they have spent their time trying to force Congress to enact additional dry measures that were tyrannical and unconstitutional. Rule or ruin seemed to be their policy.

The wets and drys have helped to prolong this depression by sending men to Congress who were of mediocre caliber. Now they may help to plunge the country deeper into the depression by bolting the conservative Republican candidates for President and Congress, which may result in a victory for a radical free trade Democrat. Should that come to pass American industry and labor would suffer a blow that will take 20 years to overcome.

Mr. Butler Discusses the Gift of Food Sent by German Veterans to Bonus Seekers' Camp.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: That was a most interesting little story you printed in The Post this morning, telling about eight soldiers sending 2½ tons of food to the bonus camp at Camp Bartlett. You say these Germans fought in the trenches facing the American salient in France, and that they came to America after the war closed and have become American citizens.

Evidently these German soldiers were in much harder circumstances at the close of the war, or at the time they came to America, than any of our American boys. Yet, they seem to have plenty, accumulated under the same conditions confronting all Americans. It is either a wonderful tribute to the frugality and industry of the Germans, or an indictment of the extravagance and prodigality of our native sons.

One thing seems certain: the incident proves that the conditions now troubling our people are not due to governmental policies, but are the result of individual and collective waste, extravagance and dependence of our people on the Government rather than reliance upon themselves.

MOSES BUTLER.

Mr. Frome Says Democrats Should Follow the Republican Prohibition Plank.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If the Democrats really have the best interests of the country at heart they will adopt at their Chicago convention a prohibition plank similar to the one the Republicans have adopted. That would mean that prohibition would cease to be a national political issue. It would take its place among the problems for future attention. The present is not the time for calm and thoughtful consideration of ways and means to govern the liquor traffic. The one big issue—the only issue that really matters—is the creation of jobs for the unemployed. If this issue is not dealt with, if this problem remains unsolved, the country will go bankrupt and nobody will have anything to spend in either speakeasies or saloons.

JASPER FROME.

Congress Should Authorize Immediate Start of Municipal Center Work, Says Mr. Brown.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I see that every newspaper in Washington approves the idea of proceeding at once with the construction of the Municipal Center. Let us hope that Congress will be sensible in the circumstances. Washington, like every other city, has its unemployment problem, and one project that would go far to alleviate conditions would be this necessary building enterprise. Both the Government and the taxpayers of the District would benefit by the work. It is in direct line with President Hoover's doctrine of constructive, revenue-producing or revenue-saving aid to the unemployed, and the advantage would be permanent as well as opportune. Congress certainly should authorize the immediate execution of the plan.

GRADUATES ADVISED OF NEW WORLD ERA

Eric H. Louw Talks to Class at Eastern High on Changing Conditions.

Changing economic and cultural conditions, bringing problems that will have to be faced by the graduates of today, were reviewed by Eric H. Louw, South African minister to the United States, in an address last night to the four-year graduating class of Eastern High School, composed of 249 students.

"The young men and women graduates of today are on the threshold of a new economic era," Mr. Louw said. "They will have to play their part, in a lesser or greater degree, in untangling the maze into which the world has got itself, and in laying the foundation of a new and more stable economic system.

"You young people will need courage and faith—courage in the face of difficulties and disappointments, and faith in human nature and in the capacity of mankind to extricate itself from the economic morass into which we have blundered."

Soviet Rule Described.

Calling attention to the form of government in Russia, Mr. Louw said that this is a reminder to political and industrial leaders that times and conditions have changed and "that some form of readjustment is due between capital and labor."

"This is an issue which will have to be squarely faced sooner or later by the industrial countries of the world," he asserted. "Social peace as well as political and economic stability are contingent upon its satisfactory settlement. It is a question which I commend to the earnest study and consideration of you young men and women."

"We are living in the age of jazz and crooners," Mr. Louw said. "The general public is becoming accustomed to these perversions and is rapidly losing its taste for good music. • • • Unlike the big economic or political issues in which the ordinary citizen plays a passive part, the matter of the cultural development and education of your fellow citizens is one in which each of you is able to exercise influence."

Compares Moral Standards.

Mr. Louw expressed the view that in the matter of moral standards the civilized world is no worse than it was 50 or 100 years ago. "Certain evils may be more noticeable today because of greater freedom and frankness, especially among the younger generation, and, while we deplore these evils, we ought to be thankful that there is not today that measure of hypocrisy which so often accompanied the moral delinquencies of the past," he said.

Dr. Abram Simon, president of the Board of Education, presided, the Rev. Hulbert A. Woolfall, of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, gave the invocation; Dorothy Ellen Dean, the salutatory. Bertram G. Foster presented the honors and scholarships, and Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, presented the diplomas. Georgeanna Hild gave the valedictory. Character Most Important, 510 Central Graduates Told

S. D. Shankland, N. E. A. Official, Suggests That Overemphasis of Property May Be Cause of Crime Wave; Scholarships and Awards.

A class of 510 students at Central High School received diplomas at graduation exercises last night from the hands of Prof. Robert A. Maurer, former principal of the school and now professor of law at Georgetown University, and heard an address by S. D. Shankland, executive secretary of the department of superintendence of the National Education Association.

Mr. Shankland expressed the opinion that perhaps the students "are fortunate to graduate in this period of stress," reminding them that "the fiber of muscle or of mind is not hardened by ease but by stern effort."

"The last decade," Mr. Shankland said, "was dedicated to material things. We have boasted of what we had and have been prone to forget that the things which are not seen are and always have been important. For example, I am wondering whether the harvest of crime which we are reaping in America may not be due to an overemphasis on property rather than on character.

"As we see a legislative body cutting the appropriation for its kindergarten and public playgrounds so that a road building program may be maintained, we wonder if even yet our public has the true balance of things, and whether they give more than lip service to the statement which practically every one voices—'children must be first.'"

Mrs. Philip Sydney Smith, member of the Board of Education, presided, and Dr. Harvey A. Smith, principal of the school, announced the scholarships and awards. Musical selections were given by the school orchestra.

Rotary Is Called East-West Link

International Session at Seattle Ballots on Five U. S. Directors.

Seattle, June 22 (A.P.).—Rotary was described by Mrs. W. Davidson, of Vancouver, British Columbia, before the international convention of that body here today as seemingly "the only organized effort to bring the East and West together."

Appearing for her husband, who was seriously ill and unable to attend, Mrs. Davidson told of their two-year tour of the Far East and of Mr. Davidson's work toward establishing Rotary clubs there. Her husband is an international organizer.

Rotary delegates balloted today on candidates for five positions as United States directors. Results will be announced Friday, the closing day of the convention.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, presented an invitation for the 1935 convention. The 1933 session goes to Boston. President Sydney W. Pascall, of London, planted a tree of "Friendship," the twenty-fifth in a series which started in Bulaywo, South Africa, last February. The British Empire dinner and a ball in honor of President and Mrs. Pascall and other officers were on tonight's program.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Wilton Kenneth Carter, wore a gown of white satin, made with a redingote and a long, full train. Her tulle veil was held with a cap of duchesse lace, from which fell also a short nose veil. She carried gardenias and lilies of the valley.

A string orchestra played during the ceremony and the reception which followed. Mrs. Carter stood with Mr. Crosby and his bride to receive the guests. She wore a flowered chiffon gown of pale tints. Following a wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Crosby will reside in Tampa. The bride's going away gown was of beige and brown crepe, with hat to match.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

High School Graduate May Have a Few Cosmetics

SINCE our column of yesterday listed a few gift suggestions for the elementary school graduate, it occurred to me that many mothers may be wondering what beauty aids would be suitable for the girl of high school age. Barring prodigies and delinquents, the average high school graduate is between 16 and 18 years of age. For her a few cosmetics are permissible.

Good Grooming Accessories.

The brushes and bath articles suggested yesterday for her younger sister are also suitable gifts for the high school graduate. And any accessories that help to root the desire for good grooming, deeper, are welcome.

As for the cosmetics that a girl of 16 or 18 may gracefully use, these should be few and simple, of course. A good cleansing cream and a good skin tonic are two essentials which it will flatter her vanity to have. If her skin is inclined to be very dry, she should also use a good skin food to keep it lubricated.

Powder, Rouge and Lipstick.

If there is sufficient natural color, rouge and lipstick are not necessary. For the lips one can use a pomade to keep the skin smooth and to bring out a more rosy color. However, a very fine brand of lipstick may be given her as a gift. If this sounds inconsistent, let me hasten to explain that nothing makes a young girl feel more "dressed up" than a touch of rouge and lipstick, and that is why I say yes. But there is one word of warning I want to give the givers of these articles. Do be sure that you are choosing the best possible lipstick, rouge and particularly powder.

Of course, you will also be particular to choose the right shade for the young lady for whom the cosmetics are intended. But quality is more important than any other factor. A poor grade of powder may cause a lot of damage in the way of clogged pores and even eruptions, and as the skin is particularly prone to these complexion ills during the adolescent period, great care must be taken to avoid them.

Manicure Articles and Hand Lotions.

For both the elementary and high school graduate, a few manicure articles are appropriate. For the younger, I should say only a few emery boards to keep her nails trim and the edges smooth; a cuticle oil to use occasionally (urge her to keep the cuticle free from the bed of the nail by pushing it down with towel after washing the hands) and a hand lotion to keep the hands smooth and white. For the high school graduate, the lighter nail polishes, a cuticle scissors, a buffer or a complete manicure set is suitable. Hands are such an important factor in the beauty ensemble that it is well to teach your quite young daughter how to care for them and keep them lovely.

My bulletins, "Young Girl's Beauty Rites" and my Health Rules, Diet and Exercises may all be had for a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Promised to show you Lyolene's wrap-around evening gown—so here it is! This dress incorporates the sportswear idea into evening wear, and very successfully, too. (Seen in a New York window.)

NEW YORK, June 22.—That's the trouble with being a fashun collomist! Here it is only June—and one's thoughts turn to anything but furs and woolens, 'n' c'est pas? Yet my thoughts have to turn to them—because the mail these days is full of fall chatter—fall this and autumn that. "Nif I don't tell you about it, you think I am not "in the know." Nif I do, you think I'm talking about most unpleasant things for hot days!

Whadda-do—whaddo-do!

Well, Monsieur Helm writes that the fur coat is going to be in style again for the coming winter, depression or no. And adds that the thrifty woman has discovered that a good fur coat lasts four to six years, whilst a good cloth coat, fur trimmed, seldom lasts really more than two winters—and that is supposed to be the reason for it all—I mean, fur coats coming back to style. (Woof! Dionne—leming-aid, leming-aid, 'n' a fan!)

Then the French Silk Federation put out their fall color card, and weather or no, we simply must inform you that browns and reds are it, as far as this style unit is concerned—meaning the French Silk Federation. Browns have several different casts—tobacco browns, golden browns and reddish browns. Whilst reds in general belong to two different families—those influenced by orange and those influenced by purple. Can't you see how new and different the fall reds are going to be?

Thanks for the lemonade, dahrling. And now an ice facial, and I will survive the summer in order to tell you more about fall fashions tomorrow!

* * * *

Wrap around ideas have invaded evening realm! That's the headline of the day—and no wonder, it being so unusual! Yes, Lyolene in Paris decided to make an evening gown in wrap-around effect, which she did—and Miladi looked, looked again, then tried one—and then became enthusiastic about it. I illustrated the model for you today, this one developed in black flat crepe, with diamante buttons—and when I remind you that it can open out flat, flat as a sheet almost, and be laid away in a drawer or suit case, you can see another possibility in it, can't you? For traveling, to be sure!

* * * *

Where is your telephone? At its best and most modern efficiency it is scarcely an art object, is it? Well, we have a few ideas on the subject of how to put it out of sight so that it is slightly more of an art object and slightly less "merely useful." They are all of things you can make in your spare finger time this summer, you know. And all you have to do right this minute is send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make 'em, to see whether you want to make any or not. Fine for gifts—fine for yourself—fine for idle summer hours that might as well be put to some use.

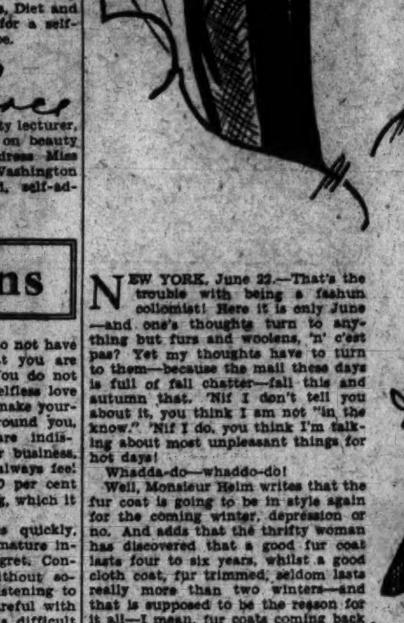
THE PERILS OF UNUSUAL HOLDINGS.

HONOR-TRICKS are the first yardstick we use in measuring the value of hands, both in making opening bids and in judging their defensive strength. However, correct bidding, by which we approach with low suit bids and feel out the distribution of the hand, frequently changes the value we apply even to Aces and Kings, for these honors, however large they loom in our minds, can not pass the barrier of our opponents' trumps, if they become the eventual Declarers. Even the most insignificant trump outranks an Ace, and distribution thus plays the dominant role in many hands played at suit declarations.

An example of a defensively bid Grand Slam, which was made despite the possession of 6 honor-tricks by the opponents, was sent to me recently by Mr. Irving H. Block, of Buffalo, N. Y. The hand was played in a rubber of Contract, the other players being Dr. Morris Pollack, Mr. Anthony Hoen and Mr. Robert Nenno.

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.



The bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explantory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
		2♠(1)	3♣(2)
3◇(3)	5♣(4)	5♡(5)	6♣(6)
6♡(7)	7♣(8)	Dbl.(9)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—North's hand, while a fair two-suiter, is not strong enough to justify an Opening Forcing bid of two. A bid of one spade would be much better.
2—East seeks to erect biddin defense against a possible spade game contract by North and South.
3—South correctly responds to his partner's Opening Force.
4—West seeks to obstruct the exchange of information as much as possible. He knows the hands can not fit in spades, and his void in diamonds suggests that they may not fit in that suit.
5—North, undeterred, shows his second biddable suit.
6—Of course, purely a Defensive bid.
7—Under the spell of partner's Opening two-bid, South visions a Slam.
8—Again purely a defensive measure.
9—North can not be blamed for this Double, although the bidding suggests very freakish distribution.

A study of the hands, of course, reveals that the contract can be defeated 1 trick by an Opening lead of a heart. However, South did not have the advantage of seeing all the cards, and thus quite naturally led the 8 of spades. The 9 of spades was played from Dummy, and North played the King. East winning the trick with a trump. East then led the Knave of trumps, which was overtaken with the King in Dummy, both adverse trumps falling. The Queen of spades was now led, North ducked, and East trumped with the Ace, although he could place the spade Ace in the North hand on the bidding. The distribution, however, was made entirely clear when South discarded a diamond. The Dummy was then reentered by leading a diamond, and a spade returned, North now covering with the Ace. His play, however, made no difference. Another diamond placed the Dummy in to run the established spades, upon which East discarded his losing hearts. The heart in Dummy was trumped in the closed hand, and East thus had the unusual distinction of making a Grand Slam, bid defensively against tremendous honor strength held by his opponents, which was, however, made valueless because of the freakish distribution of the cards.

TODAY'S POINTER.

On ordinary hands the honor-tricks furnish an accurate measuring stick to judge the defensive power of holdings, but when the bidding reveals freak distributions, players must remember that even Aces can not pass the barrier of opponents' trumps.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

East—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

What Today Means

"CANCER."

IF June 23 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 8:30 p. m. to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 6 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:35 p. m.

Life will move along pleasanter lines on June 23, and the stars will be in a more helpful mood. Although hands will not possess a more magical touch or brains be obsessed with a keener wit, most efforts will bear bountiful fruits. A forthcoming event of a happy nature may first be suspected on this date.

Children born on this June 23 will take kindly to flattery and petting, and could be easily spoiled. They will have capricious tempers, and should be trained to discipline them. Their imaginations will be flighty, and they will find much amusement building card houses. There is little fixity in their nature.

Born on June 23, you are a most self-sacrificing individual, and it would seem that you find pleasure in being a martyr. You force your kindness, your favors, your gifts and your services on other people. You spring to help at the first call for relief, and you are certainly a good salvager. You are not so busy, however, giving out to the world that you do not have time to worry about what you are getting back in return. You do not do things solely through selfless love for humanity. You like to make yourself important to those around you, and to feel that your are indispensable to your family or business, as the case may be. You always feel hurt and abused when 100 per cent gratitude is not forthcoming, which it seldom is.

You make acquaintances quickly, and possibly rush into premature intimacies which you later regret. Confidences are given you without solicitation, and you enjoy listening to them. You mean to be careful with your tongue, although it is difficult for you to resist handing on choice bits of news and gossip.

There is much sentimentality about you, and you will seek a romantic marriage. If you escape the "in love with love" period of life, you may find your real mate.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me when to prune a Japanese snowball. Should the rootlike growth which appears above the soil of my ferns be cut away? I have a house ivy which is healthy, but which has only one branch 30 inches long. How can I encourage more growth from the root? Please suggest shrubs for planting across the front of the house. House is only 10 feet from the sidewalk. MRS. EMILY L. E.

Prune your snowball a. d any other spring shrubs at this time or as soon as they have finished flowering. They bloom on wood made the previous season, so when cut early they have a number of months before cold weather sets in to develop blooming wood for next spring. Better repot the ferns, but do not remove growth. If you cut your ivy back it will soon send out more shoots. Barberry is the most satisfactory shrub if you wish a low-growing shrub. If you perfer something taller you might use deutzia or spirea.

Please tell me what to do for a peony whose leaves turn yellow and curl. My neighbor tells me the plant has a diseased root.

RACHAEL F. R.

Peonies are frequently subject to pernicious bud rot. This can be prevented by avoiding manure about the crowns of the plant and by spraying weekly from the early spring until some time in May with Bordeaux mixture.

Please tell me the treatment to give a dracaena in summer. Should an air plant from Bermuda be set outside in summer or be allowed to rest?

MRS. PETER B. B.

Keep your dracaena on the porch in summer. Permit it to have morning sunshine. Water it daily. I am sorry, but I am not familiar with the Bermuda air plant.

Please tell me something of the culture of hollyhocks. With what should they be sprayed?

Hollyhocks require a deeply dug, well-drained soil made up of equal portions of good loam and leaf mold. Well-decayed manure is good to mix with the soil. They demand plenty of water in dry weather. As the seed ripens in August it should be sown in light soil. Dust the plants with lime and sulphur, which must be blown through the foliage so that it reaches both sides of the leaves or spray with Bordeaux mixture.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

A delightfully smart model is this little crepe silk print with its new and modish points. A small patterned crepe silk in the popular navy and white coloring made the original.

And don't you think the one-sided rever a smart idea? It's a bit feminine too, for it terminates in a bow.

The bias cut of the bodice, accented by button trim, with a similar treatment at the front of the skirt, gives a charming slender appearance.

If you do not need slimming you can indulge in the gayest of schemes in plain or printed silk and sheer woolens for this jaunty day dress.

Style No. 2749 is designed for sizes 16 and 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. Size 38 requires 3¼ yards of 39-inch material with ½ yard of 39-inch contrasting. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

Dinner Table Nagging.

DEAR Frances McDonald—I hope you can help me with a very vital problem. What I have read of your column certainly proves to me that you are conscientious and very fair. I am a married woman, 35 years of age. My husband is two years my senior and we have an adorable son, aged 9. My husband has a very good road position, is very liberal with his money and, in fact, allows me to handle it and in, I would say, rational moments allows me great credit and praise for my efficiency in handling it, in the presence of others. Now, here is the tragedy, I might say. He just seems to hate our son. From what he says and does it must be jealousy. He nags and picks almost continuously when the child is within speaking or hearing distance. This especially happens at meal times and, as a consequence, the meal is a complete failure. My husband watches every move, and criticizes in no gentlemanly manner everything the child does, from the way the spoon or fork is held to sitting like a ram rod in his chair—instead of correcting in a decent, kindly manner and tone, it is just the opposite and making mountains out of things that other really loving, tolerant parents would not notice or make reasonable allowance for. My husband calls what he is doing reprimanding and within his right as a father, but really I can't make him see what he is doing.

I was forced to leave our home five years ago for the same reason, but after promises and pledges gave another chance, but now I face the very same condition. Our son voluntarily says he dislikes his father, as he now realizes the continual bickering that is the common atmosphere. Is it right and fair to keep my son in such surroundings? I am just about mad myself. I have stated to my husband that such contentions do not increase or hold affections. He replied that it had nothing to do with it. How can I make him see? I realise how detrimental such an atmosphere is to every one. Promises have been broken and I face the same problem. I am a high school and business college graduate and have held very good positions. How can a wife make a husband see that being chummy, friendly, showing natural affection for your own child makes all the difference in marriage if it is not shown? My husband does not like company. I have always had to make my own friends! What do you advise, please? MARGIE E.

You are married to a nagger. And the most telling rebuke you can administer is to have your dinner with the boy before your husband comes in. It will not be a pleasant thing to do, but after all it is less revolutionary than breaking up your home. When he comments you can tell him that it seemed wiser than the other way, which gave the boy opportunity to observe his father's pettiness and ill nature. The only way to cure household tyrants is to see to it that they are the ones to suffer by the situations they create. This man feels important as he lays down the law and breaks down his child's morale. He will feel less important as he is fed in solitary state.

Leaving your home is an undignified gesture and entirely unnecessary. Stand your ground, but show your firm intention by doing a bit of disciplining yourself. After all, your life is before you, and tearing up your home is no solution of your problem. So deal with it right in the home, where you and the boy belong. You will find that this big he-man will prefer the family dinner and will curb his inclination to show his authority. Give the method a trial.

STRAWBERRIES PRESERVED IN THE SUN.

THURSDAY, and our plans for Friday must see the light of day in our column. Suppose we build our menu around a shrimp with Spanish rice, starting our dinner with a jellied tomato soup. But let's go back to our menu after taking care of a request for Mrs. Raymor, who wishes a timely recipe and that for the preserving of strawberries.

Mrs. Raymor wishes the method by which these are done in the sun, and, of course, we are glad to include the recipe today.

Strawberries Preserved in the Sun.
(For "Mrs. Raymor.")

Bring 2 pounds of sugar and three-fourths of a cupful of water to a boil and boil about 15 minutes, or until the sirup starts to thicken. Add 2 pounds of strawberries, hulled and washed, and cook for 10 minutes. Pour on shallow dishes, cover with sheets of glass and place in the sun. They should have slight ventilation and remain in the sun until the juice is thick, which will require two or three days. Place in glasses and cover with paraffin.

FRIDAY'S DINNER.

Jellied Tomato Soup
Shrimp with Spanish Rice
Shredded String Beans
Cucumber and Onion Salad
Lemon Delight Pie
Coffee

Jellied Tomato Soup.

1 can tomatoes
3 teaspoonfuls gelatin
½ cupful boiling water
Juice of one onion
1 teaspoon sugar
Salt and pepper to taste

Strain the liquid from the tomatoes through a fine cheesecloth. Dissolve the gelatin in the boiling water. Add the sugar, salt, pepper and onion juice to the tomato liquid. Place in saucepan and simmer for 10 minutes. Add the dissolved gelatin. Set on ice to chill. Serve in cups.

Shrimp With Spanish Rice.

1 pint shrimp, cleaned and cut in small pieces
1 cupful milk
1 cupful cream
2 tablespoonfuls tomato catsup
4 tablespoonfuls melted butter
A few chilies or chili powder
1 tablespoonful minced parsley
4 cupfuls cooked rice
3 large onions, finely chopped
1 large green pepper, finely chopped
½ cupful salad or olive oil

Place the olive oil in an iron frying pan and fry the onions and green pepper without browning until well cooked. Add salt, pepper and paprika to taste and the cooked rice, mixing well. Butter a small baking dish or mold and pack the seasoned rice in it. Keep hot while the remainder of the dish is prepared. Heat milk and cream in a saucepan. Add the melted butter to the flour, blend to a smooth paste and add the chilies or chili powder. Add to the milk and cream, beating until smooth. Add the catsup, salt and pepper and then the shrimp. Place over low flame until the shrimp heat through. Invert the dish of rice on a hot platter and fill hollowed center with the shrimp. Garnish with paprike and parsley.

Lemon Delight Pie.

1 cupful boiling water
1 tablespoonful butter
1 lemon—juice and grated rind
4 eggs
¾ cup sugar
2 tablespoonfuls flour

Put boiling water in pan with butter and the grated rind of one lemon. Mix sugar and flour thoroughly and add to the four well-beaten egg yolks. Add this mixture gradually to the boiling water and cook for a few minutes, stirring constantly. Add lemon juice. Beat the whites of two eggs and fold into the mixture. Pour into baked crust and cover with meringue. The meringue is made by beating egg whites until stiff, gradually adding two tablespoonfuls of sugar and lemon juice, or vanila to flavor.

How to Keep Well

HOT WEATHER CLOTHING.

A MAN'S comfort in both hot and cold weather depends very largely on the condition of the air trapped between the skin and the clothing. Until recently it has been supposed that this air was always moist and, therefore, it acted as does wet air in causing one to feel warm or cool. This opinion needs some modification. Air at 32 degrees is saturated when it contains but a few grains of water, while at about 85 degrees it will hold about five times as much.

When ordinary air comes to be trapped under the clothing it contains less water than it can carry. This is called moisture deficiency. The body heats it up and, at the same time, the sweat from the skin supplies it with moisture. These two additions—heat and moisture—mount at about the same rate.

Therefore, although air that has been trapped in the clothing steadily increases its content of moisture, it still acts like dry air. This is because the moisture deficiency, or thirst for water, remains about the same. To a degree, therefore, the trapped air cools the body and, incidentally, helps it to get rid of excess heat by evaporating perspiration as well as by absorbing heat.

There are exceptions to all rules, however. On a hot, rainy day the atmospheric air is both warm and so wet that it has little or no thirst. Any air that the clothing traps is about as warm as the skin, and carries all of the moisture it can pack. In those circumstances, trapped air does not promote comfort—quite the contrary. It is for that reason that hot weather clothing should have a very open weave, that it should not fit tightly, that there should be no tight bands, and that there should be the smallest amount of padding and lining. The Chinaman who wears a loose, light cotton shirt with the tail outside—a pajama effect—shows wisdom. That a garment of this type is almost universal among natives in hot countries is proof of their good sense, even though we call them savages and pronounced them uncivilized.

When garments are saturated with sweat, particularly if they cling to the skin, they are not comfortable, however open the weave may be, nor however light in weight. In these circumstances the open spaces of the cloth are filled with water and no air can pass. In the second, the trapped air is so saturated with moisture that evaporation from the covered skin can not go on. Whenever perspiration is abundant enough to run, the line beyond which sweating does not promote comfort has been crossed.

CONSUMPTION.

L. M. writes: Just what does pulmonary tuberculosis mean?

REPLY.

The common name is consumption.

DOUBLE WORK FOR WATER.

E. M. B. writes: Is it harmful to use the water in which eggs were boiled for coffee or tea? I was told it would harden the arteries.

REPLY.

No.

This is a deceiving world.

NOT DEFORMITY.

Mrs. K. writes: Is dimples in the cheeks a deformity?

REPLY.

There is considerable fashion in deformity. Certain features are called deformities by some persons, while others yearn for them. In the levels where I work and live dimples are not regarded as deformities.

CALLUS ON FOOT.

E. K. B. writes:

A piece of moleskin adhesive plaster put over any callus on the sole of the foot will work like magic in relieving pain. The piece of plaster must be cut large enough to cover the entire callus well. It will stick there for a week or more, even while bathing. Before replacing with a fresh piece of plaster, remove all the stickiness on the calloused spot with kerosene and wash well with hot water and soap. This kind of adhesive does not soil the hose, and it can be bought at the drug sundry department of any large drug store. Ten cents' worth will suffice for many months, provided it is kept in a covered tin box or glass jar.

OVERLOADING THE HEART.

B. H. B. writes:

1. What harmful effect can be caused by exercising strenuously, such as running up two or three flights of stairs after eating?

2. Are bananas fattening?

REPLY.

1. It throws a very great load on the heart. The digestion of food causes the heart to beat hard. Running up steps is also a strain on that organ.

2. That depends on how many you eat.

Crosby Describes Trials In Life of Commissioner

A District Commissioner's life, like the proverbial sailor's, is not an easy one, according to Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, of the Board of District Commissioners, who informed Washington Rotarians at their Willard luncheon yesterday that the members of the commission learn a great deal about human nature in a very short period of time.

Referring to himself as a "third of a mayor," Gen. Crosby outlined the duties of the various bureaus and departments coming within the jurisdiction of his office. He called attention in particular to the fire department, the fire rescue squad, department of vehicles and traffic and the police department. The police department, he said, is collecting accurate crime statistics for the first time.

The meeting inaugurated a new plan of the Rotary Club to hold an annual "District Day" meeting. Among the guests of honor representing the District government were Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, president of the Board of Commissioners; Gen. Crosby, Fire Chief Watson, Traffic Director W. A. Van Duser, Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor; Danaiel E. Garges, secretary to the Board of Commissioners, and J. B. Gordon, District sanitary engineer.

S. Percy Thompson presided at the meeting and Col. Wrisley Brown introduced the speakers. Rotarian Arthur May called attention to the club golf tournament to be held tomorrow at the Congressional Country Club. He displayed a silver cup presented by Harry M. Brawner, jr., to be awarded to the Rotarian having the best average low score for the year.

Commissioners Urge Flag Display on July 4

Washington residents and business houses were urged in a resolution adopted yesterday by the District Commissioners to display the United States flag on July Fourth.

Flags on metal staffs authorized by the police regulations may be placed in position on Saturday afternoon, July 2, and remain until noon on Tuesday, July 5, it was explained.

Democrats Will Stage River Outing July 12

The trip of the Democratic Victory Club on the steamer City of Washington will be July 12, instead of June 27, as originally intended, it was announced yesterday.

Highlights of the Democratic convention will be presented by delegates. The program will include dancing and other amusements. Tickets may be obtained at the Woman's National Democratic Club, the City Club, and at Kew Gardens.

Bethesda Church Plans 3-Day Lawn Festival

P. E. Griffin is general chairman in charge of arrangements for the lawn festival of the Church of Our Lady of Lourdes which will be held on the church grounds at Bethesda, Md., June 29 to July 1.

On the first two days of the fete, supper will be served. A feature will be the raffling of a new sedan through the cooperation of the Oliver Chevrolet Company.

GARFIELD DISPUTES BORAH PLANK CLAIM

Raps Deduction Delegates to Chicago Did Not Vote Their Convictions.

(Associated Press.)

James R. Garfield, chairman of the committee which drafted the Republican platform, said in a statement yesterday that "it is to be regretted that Senator Borah is unwilling to continue to give his thought and ability toward a constructive, forward-looking program."

Borah (Republican), Idaho, an outspoken dry, assailed the Republican platform, the prohibition plank in particular, in a Senate speech, and announced he would not support President Hoover on that platform.

"It has not been usual," Garfield said, "for the senator to say that that which ought to be done can not be done.

"The eighteenth amendment as it stands means stagnation and worse. We propose to give the American people an opportunity to decide whether to go forward, not backward, and we rely upon the genius of the American people to wisely exercise the power that would be granted to both Nation and States should they determine to put the Republican platform in effect."

Garfield took issue with Borah on the latter's statement that of "about 300 and some odd Federal officials" attending the Republican convention, "many must be counted as having voted" because of "political expediency."

The platform chairman said less than 70 delegates were Federal office holders and that one-quarter of them voted against the majority report.

"The senator's deduction that delegates did not vote their convictions," Garfield asserted, "falls to the ground not only as to Federal officeholders but as to the great body of delegates as well.

"I have been in other conventions and on other committees on resolutions. I have seldom listened to a more earnest, thoughtful discussion of the problem than that engaged in by the committee. They were earnestly striving to find an honest, constructive proposal, one possible of attainment."

He said, "every shade of opinion was ably represented on that committee" which drafted the platform.

DEMOCRATIC SUBMISSION PLATFORM SEEMS CERTAIN

eighteenth amendment" and immediate modification of the Volstead act.

Tonight it appeared to be just a question of whether the party would declare for submission of a repeal amendment or actually pledge the members to repeal. The former seemed more likely.

New York's 94 votes became a greater enigma in preconvention speculation tonight through the postponement of a decision as to which presidential candidate will receive the fateful support.

Taking part in national politics in a big way for the first time, John F. Curry, Tammany chieftain, said on his arrival the delegation would answer the question so many are asking at a caucus to be held Sunday.

McAdoo Shows Confidence.

Curry arrived shortly after William G. McAdoo flew in from Los Angeles to take active charge of the Garner-for-President movement. He also predicted additional support would come from States other than Texas and California.

"We are going to make progress," McAdoo said. "California has no second choice."

He voiced no objection to the Texan's recent announcement for repeal of the eighteenth amendment and said the people should have an opportunity to vote upon the prohibition question.

The Roosevelt forces hope to gain at least 90 of New York's 94 votes. James A. Farley, the New York governor's field marshal, has expressed belief they would be forthcoming with Curry's arrival, but the Tammany boss declined to indicate which way the wind was blowing.

Former Gov. Smith figured prominently in today's activities, showing a dogged determination to fight Roosevelt to the end for the coveted nomination.

Rooseveltians Pick Hitchcock.

Meanwhile, the Roosevelt board of strategy studied the question of abrogating the two-thirds rule. Smith and McAdoo both said they would oppose any attempt to discard it.

Gilbert M. Hitchcock, of Nebraska, was decided upon tonight by the Roosevelt forces for chairman of the Democratic resolutions committee, which will formulate the platform.

Hitchcock, a former Democratic senator and spokesman for President Wilson in the Senate, will take up the drafting job at a special meeting of the resolutions committee tomorrow.

Curry announced Mayor James J. Walker of New York City would be the delegation's member of the platform committee.

McAdoo said under no circumstances would he accept the permanent chairmanship of the convention.

The Roosevelt forces are sponsoring Senator Walsh, of Montana, for the post against Jouett Shouse, executive director of the Democratic national committee. McAdoo was suggested as a compromise.

Senator Hull speaks for the dominant Roosevelt element of the convention. This group at least controls the resolutions committee and appears to have the majority to put over the platform recommended by the committee.

Casting aside the prohibition issue as settled, the Rooseveltians are turning now to the vital economic planks and in them there is some trouble for the party. Hull wants a flat, firm declaration for reduction of the tariff.

Byrd Seeks Repeal Plank.

He recommended "ruthless retrenchments" in expenditures of Federal, State and local governments and a restoration of commodity prices by concerted international action.

Harry F. Byrd, representing Virginia, also declared today for submission of a repeal plank to the States and so did Senator Long, of Louisiana. Leaders seem to be almost unanimous on prohibition except for how far to go.

Smith also said he would support Shouse and would go to the convention floor if necessary in the fight for him. He did not believe it would be necessary to take the floor, however, voicing belief the dispute would be settled without that necessity.

On the other hand, Senator Long said his delegation would support Senator Walsh for the post, and would be joined by a Minnesota and Puerto Rico delegation, which, like his own, faces a contest.

Smith preceded McAdoo by several hours. The former New York Governor was welcomed at LaSalle Street Station by a crowd of well-wishers and autograph collectors. His press conference a little later was replete with the wise-cracks and ready retorts for which he was noted in 1928.

Speaking bluntly, as usual, and frankly, Smith told newspapermen he was for himself for nomination. As for a "Stop-Roosevelt" movement, he replied he was the victim of a "Stop-Smith" campaign begun a year and a half ago.

Most significantly, Smith withheld an answer to the question whether he would support the party's nominee, regardless. He said that could wait until the time came.

HUEY LONG IGNORES SEATINGS HEARINGS

Speaking for Three Roosevelt Delegations, Challenges Authority.

Chicago, June 22 (A.P.).—Roosevelt delegations from Louisiana, Minnesota and Puerto Rico today flatly challenged the authority of a subcommittee of the Democratic national committee to hold scheduled hearings tomorrow on seating contests in which all three are involved.

Through belligerent Huey Long, of Louisiana, they told Chairman Raskob of the national committee and Jouett Shouse, director of the national executive committee, that the subcommittee could meet if it wished, but that they would not be there. Joseph Wolf, Minnesota natonal committeeman, concurred, as did Mrs. Jean S. Whittemore, of Puerto Rico.

In the letter in which they concurred, they contended that the Democratic national committee had not given any one authority to create such a subcommittee and that the hearing should be before the entire national committee. There were hints that they felt there was too much anti-Roosevelt sentiment on the subcommittee. But no one would say so for publication.

Rival delegations from the two States and one Territory were pondering whether to appear and present their arguments in view of the vigorous stand taken by their opponents.

Shouse later said the subcommittee would meet tomorrow despite the protests. He defended the right of the subcommittee to hold hearings on the contests preparatory to a report to the full committee.

Hausner, Rescued Flier, Is Transferred to Yacht

Miami, Fla., June 22 (U.P.).—Stanislaus Hausner, Polish-American transatlantic flier who was rescued from his plane ten days ago after clinging to its fuselage for eight days, was transferred tonight from the British tanker S. S. Circe Shell, to the Miami yacht, S. S. Seven Seas.

The transfer was made at a spot 12 miles off the Florida east coast, where the Circe Shell, rescue craft, paused long enough on its way to New Orleans to disembark Hausner for a municipal welcome here tonight.

REPUDIATION OF DRY PLANK BY REPUBLICANS IS GROWING

lowing for hyperbole, that promise has been fulfilled. Today New Jersey probably is the wettest State in the Union.

Therefore, it behooves the Republicans who are coming up for reelection this year and who will be arrayed against wringing wet Democrats, to leave no doubt as to where they stand.

What these politicians think of the Republican plank adopted in Chicago is summed up in the words of Representative Isaac Bacharach, of Atlantic City, who yesterday characterized it is "a mass of words and hypocritical delusion."

A number of other Republican members in Congress are preparing to join the New Jersey men in repudiating the Hoover-Garfield plank. One representative, a well known member from New England, is now working on a speech in which he will disavow the plank. Representative Fiorella LaGuardia, of New York, is poised for the same kind of speech.

So much for those who are preparing to follow the path blazed by Nicholas Murray Butler, of New York. They are the wets, the repealists.

There are others—but not very many—who propose to follow the path of Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho. They are the drys.

In this category may be listed Representative Phil Swing, of California, who, in announcing yesterday that he was withdrawing from the race for the Senate, said that "I am a Republican, but I can not approve the wet-dry straddle plank of my party's platform."

Representative Fred Britten, of Illinois, a rampant wet, cited the argument of Senator Borah yesterday to prove his contention that the Chicago plank, when stripped of its verbiage, actually calls for repeal.

"Most of the language in the plank," Britten said "is just plain 'hooey,' designed to catch votes in Idaho or Iowa, but when you get down to the suggested amendment itself, it means nothing but outright repeal."

Thus Britten can bring himself to support the plank for the very reason that Borah repudiates it.

Cannon Declares Drys Welcome Vote of People

Chicago, June 22 (A.P.).—Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, asserted today the allied dry forces "are just as willing as the wettest of the wet to have the people speak on prohibition."

The militant champion of the eighteenth amendment added that the results "would be surprising."

The prohibition board of strategy, said Bishop Cannon, will make the same fight before the Democratic national convention's resolutions committee as was made last week when an unsuccessful appeal for a straight enforcement plank was rejected by the Republican resolutions committee.

"Then we will all take it to the country," he continued. "You will find that the country isn't controlled by the wet cities and that the folks back home will have something to say. There is and will be no compromise and no surrender."

Bishop Cannon, who plans leaving for Iowa tomorrow morning but will return for the convention, said the board of strategy would outline its plans for the fight before the resolutions committee at a meeting Friday.

He said Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington would probably speak before the committee.

Swing Refuses to Seek California Senate Seat

(Associated Press.)

Representative Phil D. Swing, of California, announced in a formal statement yesterday she would not file as a candidate for the Senate. Swing, a Republican, also condemned "the wet-dry straddle plank of my party's platform." He said:

"I shall not file for United States senator. I have never desired merely to hold office. I did not go to Congress because of political ambition, but to do a definite job, that of putting over the Boulder Dam project.

"However, some of the leading citizens of southern California met last November and urged me to run for the Senate, and I consented. However, since that time the propaganda against prohibition has risen to distract the attention of the people with its contention that repeal is the remedy for our present ills.

"My convictions are to the contrary. I am a Republican, but I can not approve the wet-dry straddle plank of my party's platform.

"Neither can I approve its disavowal of Federal responsibility for action to relieve the unemployment situation."

Baker and Traylor Lead In Vice Presidency Talk

(Associated Press.)

Newton D. Baker, a former Secretary of War, and Melvin Traylor, a Chicago banker, were mentioned prominently yesterday in discussion of possible Democratic vice presidential candidates among Roosevelt supporters in the Senate.

Mr. Baker has been considered by many Democrats as the most formidable "dark horse" candidate for the presidential nomination, and Mr. Traylor also has been boomed for the first place on the ticket.

Supporters of Gov. Roosevelt of New York, however, were confident that his nomination was "in the bag," and other thoughts turned to the question of a running mate.

They pointed out that if Roosevelt is nominated, as they expect, he would have a large part in determining the vice presidential candidate. They did not profess to know whom he would select.

Meanwhile, abandonment of plans for an adjournment of Congress this week threatened to make big inroads in the senatorial delegation to the Chicago convention next week.

A score of Senate Democrats had planned to attend and were slated to play prominent roles in the proceedings, but some of them already have canceled their plans.

Most of those attending the convention, from both House and Senate, are going in the interests of candidates. Most of the senatorial delegation favors Roosevelt's nomination.

Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, is going, however, to nominate Speaker Garner. Representative Rayburn, national representative of the Texas Garner-for-President movement, leaves for Chicago today.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THE much heralded "big chance" for unknown "puffawmers," it seems, has become, more or less, a reality.

Already Boston has opened its "Opportunity Revue" and similar enterprises also are under way in the Fordham and Coliseum theaters, in upper Manhattan, and at the Albee and Madison theaters, in Brooklyn, N. Y. Within a few weeks 36 more cities—not for the time being, however, including the Capital—will present these productions, in which all players are recruited from nonprofessional ranks.

This is the project, you will recall, that was formulated several months ago by Harold B. Franklin and Martin Beck, of Radio-Keith-Orpheum—the one in charge of theaters; the other, director of vaudeville—as a concrete and definite means of repopulating the music halls of America.

Mr. Franklin at once set about a survey of possibilities in the way of new talent in this country, while Mr. Beck, in company with Sam Rothafel, Roxy, scoured Europe on an identical mission. Mr. Franklin's report was vastly more encouraging than Mr. Beck's, the latter returning home convinced that continental music halls are in as dire need of replenishing as our own.

Early reports indicate that the Boston revue has brought to light a "find" in Benny Rubin's brother and that several budding Jolsons and a youthful Houdini have come up out of nowhere in search of recognition. At the Albee in Brooklyn, the directors report that a new shooting act, after the manner of the celebrated Annie Oakley's, has sprouted. Their anxiety now is to unearth another Will Rogers so they can start a "Wild West" unit!

As an incentive to diffident aspirants for stage fame—if there is any such thing—those in charge of the undertaking are stressing the point that Gilda Gray and Lenore Ulric came out of Milwaukee and that Frank Tinney knew his way around Upper Sandusky. After an amateur career in Washington, Martin Beck "discovered" Al Jolson in a small city in Michigan, and Montgomery and Stone once did a "supper turn" at the Olympic in Chicago, long before they ever became famous in "The Wizard of Oz."

And that's the way it goes. A great artist may leap right at you out of the dark any minute in this mad scramble known as "show business."

In all probability Washington will get in the running with its own "Opportunity Revue" some time along in the fall. And then, again, maybe not.

Speaking of people leaping at you out of the dark, some sixteen years or so ago, when Chic Sale was just getting a start in vaudeville, a team he frequently encountered in his tours was known as McKim & Lehr. This pair, man and wife, had a daughter. Sale took it upon himself on frequent occasions to entertain the child while her parents were on doing their turn. In a year or two the McKim & Lehr act dissolved, as such acts will.

In the passing of the years, the old team of McKim & Lehr and their daughter almost entirely faded from Chic Sale's conscious memory. It was nearly fourteen years before he ever saw the daughter again to know her. And that was when she was given the romantic lead, with David Manners, in his latest picture for Warner Brothers, "Without Consent."

Oh, the girl's name is Ann Dvorak!

At sight of an angleworm I probably would freeze in my tracks, petrified by fear. And if a playful kitten should dash out at me unexpectedly from anywhere, I don't doubt that my hair would turn snowy white and I would be a fit candidate for permanent residence in the big house over on the crest of the Anacostia hills.

I mean to say, after one has viewed Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive," coming to RKO-Keith's tomorrow, as some of us did Tuesday midnight, the slightest suggestion of reptiles or "cats" is enough to give one a swell mess of the flibbertygibbets!

Those cute little honey bears, and Percy, your white gibbon, and that baby elephant you can almost pick up in your arms, Mr. Buck, are not so bad, but you can have all of my share of them crocodiles, and them tiger and them 30-foot python, Mr. Buck, and welcome!

Anyone who, after witnessing them, can doubt the authenticity of he fights between the black eopard and the tiger, between the tiger and the crocodile, between the python and the crocodile, or between the tiger and the python, just doesn't know a scrap when he sees one!

That gaunt and plenty game tiger certainly was a glutton for punishment when he got in there with Mr. Regal Python! Three times the fight seemed to be over, but each time old Kid Bengal would return to the wars and get himself all tangled up with yards and yards of snake.

No thank you, Mr. Buck! But no wonder your picture is packing houses.

So I sign for it and open it, just as the Western Union boy says:

"'Red Headed Woman' opens Friday at Loew's Palace (Stop) It is the biggest thing I have attempted and I so much hope it will please you (Stop) Regards. JEAN HARLOW."

Thanks tremendously for the implied compliment, dear lady, but you've practically got your hope already!

Peggy (Margaret) Wood, well known Washington girl, who conducted a dancing school here for many years and also was an active participant in the professional theater, is one of "The Four Queens," opening at the Earle tomorrow on the vaudeville bill headlined by Herman Timberg.

Peggy will be remembered as the director of the Tivoli Theater's "Junior Follies," when Harry E. Lohmeyer, now manager of the Earle, presided at Fourteenth and Park road. Following her affiliation with the Tivoli, she served as captain of the line girls at the Paramount Theater in Brooklyn. Then came her engagement as one of the "Queens," which has taken her all over the United States and Canada and to Europe for a year.

Since you have been inquiring so eagerly, as we suggest one after another of next week's prospective attractions, the entire roster in the picture houses, beginning tomorrow, will be as follows: Palace, Jean Harlow and Chester Morris in "Red Headed Woman;" Earle, Warren William in "The Dark Horse" and Herman Timberg & Co. headlining the vaudeville; Loew's Fox, Adolphe Menjou, Minna Gombell and Joan Marsh in "Bachelor's Affairs" and Benny Davis and his "Stars of the Future" revue; RKO-Keith's, Frank Buck's "Bring 'em Back Alive;" Metropolitan, Alexander Carr, Dickie Moore and Beryl Mercer in "No Greater Love;" Columbia, Charlotte Henry and James Kirkwood in "Lena Rivers."

Weather having taken a sudden seasonable spurt, the open air parks are thriving. Glen Echo attendance has taken a decided jump these past few days of high temperatures, and no less an impetus has been given al fresco enjoyment at Seaside Park, down Chesapeake Beach way. The fact that each resort boasts a large and cooling swimming pool is not exactly dulling the interest of the harried and humid cliff dweller!

And if you care to see the National Theater Players practically at their best, in "As Husbands Go," there is no time to be lost. Only three more performances and then—it is recorded regretfully—the final curtain and taps for the season.

I see the Fox Theaters Corporation has gone into the hands of receivers.

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

IT LOOKS as if this guy Jack Sharkey, who is famous for doing the unexpected, is trying to put this department in the same class. I picked Sharkey to beat Schmeling last Tuesday morning, but I'm waiving any credit that might accrue from the prediction that was borne out by one astigmatic judge and a referee suffering from astigmatism.

Sharkey beat nothing but his temperament the other night in the Madison Square Garden's new bowl at Long Island City. He won the fight on performance about as much as Washington won yesterday's ball game. He didn't win the title from Schmeling. They simply relieved Max of the crown.

This column regretted its prediction of a Sharkey victory the moment the Lithuanian stepped into the ring. The tales of his physical fitness that emanated from his Orangeburg training camp were fairy tales. The challenger that confronted Schmeling and the 72,000 in the bowl would not have put a single tremor of fear in the Timid Soul.

Sharkey, weighing 205 pounds, 10 more than he scaled two years ago, was fat and flabby and carrying the weight where it would do him the least good. His famous flare was conspicuously absent. His was a weary look as the crowd cheered his entrance and this column's first reaction was that here was a Sharkey in there with a paramount intention of staying the limit, if he could.

The bronzed, vibrant figure of Schmeling was in illuminating contrast. Nicely thinned, but not too fine, the mulberry-browned German lad was the picture of condition. The facial resemblance to Dempsey was heightened by the same browned body that the Old Mauler carried into the ring with him in his salad days.

He was the picture of confidence, minus Sharkey's sneer. As he calmly gave the crowd a superficial once-over there was a grimness that bespoke his serious intentions. And when the opening gong banged it was Schmeling who was more than halfway across the ring ready to do battle while Sharkey sidled from his corner obliquely as if in distrust of the entire proceedings.

We have a new champion, and a challenger who can lick him any day in the week. Schmeling has come along as a fighter and Sharkey has retrogressed to an unbelievable extent.

But there is a saving grace for Sharkey. He still can box, even if he can't fight. And it was his ability to duck and roll and sidestep when the ropes were reached and further retreat out of the question that enabled him to stave off a knockout by the little German lad who was crowding him step by step.

They gave Sharkey a haircut between the fourth and fifth rounds after his long locks were tumbling down over his eyes as he concealed his chin far down on his chest. It should have been the tip-off. His long hair didn't bother him in his training bouts, evidently. Or perhaps he didn't train enough to disturb his hair comb. The latter theory gets my vote. It can't be any worse than that of Referee Gunboat Smith and Judge George Kelly.

Calm Settles Over Fight Situation

Judges' Tally Shows Wide Disagreement on Rounds Won.

By JACK CUDDY.

NEW YORK, June 22 (U.P.).—A day of controversial post-mortem over the Jack Sharkey-Max Schmeling championship fight has resulted only in a statement by the boxing commission that the affair is a "closed case" and Madison Square Garden's promise to arrange a third meeting between the two boxers.

As the argument over the winner spread throughout the country and even to Europe, Bert Stand, secretary of the New York State Athletic Commission, formally announced tonight that no official action had been requested in the matter and that none would be taken.

"It's a closed case," Stand said. "All this talk in the papers and among the fans is merely the usual bunk which follows any championship bout that was not settled by a clean knockout."

Johnston Seeking Return Match.

With the prospects of another big gate stimulated by the widespread debate over whether Schmeling had been "robbed" of his title, Jimmy Johnston, shrewd director of boxing for the Garden, took advantage of the situation to announce that he would arrange for a return match in September or next June.

After the fight last night, Sharkey said he would be glad to give Schmeling a return bout. He didn't say when, however.

Sport writers and fans throughout the country were in disagreement over the fifteen-round decision which passed the title to Sharkey. Most of the writers thought Schmeling had won the fight, and they agreed he had been "robbed" of the title.

The spectators also were in dis-

YANKS FALL, 17 TO 10, AT ST. LOUIS

Browns Get 10 Runs in 7th to Decide Slugfest.

ST. LOUIS, June 22 (A.P.).—The Browns and the league-leading New York Yankees staged another rodeo in the name of a baseball game today with the Browns winning 17 to 10 on the strength of a 10-run rally in the sixth.

Among the features were the appearance of seventeen Yankee players, Lou Gehrig's sixteenth and seventeenth homers of the season and a collection of 32 safe hits, 18 of them by St. Louis. Walter Stewart managed to go the full route for the Browns although he was hit hard and gave seven passes.

Each team made four errors, making it ten in two days for St. Louis, and many of them were costly. But for two Yankee bobbles, the big Brownie inning might have been cut off with a run or two.

Gehrig staged something of a one-man comeback with a homer with one on base in the seventh and one with two aboard, but he couldn't catch up.

11-2 Beating Drops Nats To Fourth

Coffman and Weaver Pounded by Tribe for 6 in Third.

Mel Harder a Puzzle, Nats Scoring Only in One Inning.

By FRANK H. YOUNG
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

LEAGUE PARK, Cleveland, June 22.—With the Mackmen bowing to the White Sox, the Nationals could have gone into second place by downing the Indians here this afternoon. They were headed in the other direction, however, and, because of their inability to hit Mel Harder while the Tribe was pounding Dick Coffman and Monte Weaver, took an 11-to-2 licking. Detroit, right on the heels of the Nats, beat the Red Sox, so tonight the Capital Cityans are resting comfortably in fourth place instead of in the runner-up berth.

There was no doubt as to which was the better team today. The Indians hit both Coffman and Weaver hard, getting 16 safeties for a 26-base total, while Harder yielded but eight, three of which were credited to Carl Reynolds. Dick Porter had a field day for the Indians, cracking out two doubles and as many singles to lead both teams at bat.

Indians Score First Run.

The Indians broke the ice in the second when they molded a marker from a base on balls, single and infield out, but they broke out in a rash of hits in the next round, pounding Coffman off the peak and making things unpleasant for Weaver until he finally settled down.

A double by Porter, a walk, Averill's triple, Vosmik's double, on which he was nipped at third, and Morgan's single came in rapid order in this alien round before Weaver was called on. He disposed of one batter, but granted a single and double before getting the third man out.

It was not until the Indians had taken their seven-run lead that the Nats were able to cross the plate. They did so in the fourth, tallying twice as a result of a pass, Reynolds' double, Bluege's single and West's long fly.

Doubles Recorded In Sixth.

Both teams opened the sixth with a double. Cronin's was not used but Porter's was turned into a marker when followed by an infield out and Averill's long fly. The Tribe was not satisfied with only one, however, and added two more runs on doubles by Vosmik and Morgan and Myatt's single.

The Tribe scored again in the seventh and had the bases loaded when the eighth ended, while the Nats never seriously threatened after their baby rally in the fourth.

Bucs Beat Robins, 7-6; Wilson Hits 2 Homers

Brooklyn, June 22 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates endured a few more tribulations today, but they escaped from Brooklyn with an undisputed hold on third place and an even break for the series as they defeated the Dodgers, 7 to 6, in the final clash.

The Bucs found easy pickings in Joe Shaute and Jack Quinn in the early innings, and rapped out eleven of their seventeen hits and six runs in the first four frames.

A homer by Earl Grace with two on in the second was the big blow of this early attack.

Hack Wilson was the leading spirit in the Dodger drive as Brooklyn began to solve Larry French's delivery and all but tied the score as they drove him to cover in the eighth. Hack hit his twelfth and thirteenth home runs of the season in the sixth and eighth innings, accounting for three tallies. The last blow tied the pudgy outfielder's record for the entire 1931 season.

Rhem Pitches Phillies To Win Over Cubs, 11-2

Philadelphia, June 22 (A.P.).—The pitching of Rhem and excellent support by his mates enabled the Phillies to triumph over the Chicago Cubs today, 11 to 2.

The Phillies battered out fifteen hits, nine of them off the starting hurler, Burleigh Grimes. Home runs by Whitney, Hurst, V. Davis and Klein were timely. Klein's was number 20 of the season.

The Chicago runs were scored in the second inning on a single by Stephenson and a home run by Moore.

Siamese Prince Wonders Why Max Didn't Kick Sharkey in His Face

NEW YORK, June 22 (A.P.).—His first American prize fight was "very exciting," Prince Subbs Svasti, brother of the Queen of Siam, said today. But it was too bad the fighters couldn't use their feet.

"In Siam they kick," he explained, "high as they want to, yes, sometimes to the head. They hit as they please; there is no rule about it."

The prince said it was "wonderful, how your men are trained." In Siam, fighting is for sport only—or perhaps a silver cup and a title—so men can not take the time from their work to train so intensively. The ring is especially popular with students and soldiers.

"Herr Schmeling's foot work was very neat," he commented, "but Mr. Sharkey backed up faster. They didn't give him points for that, did they?

"The Siamese way would have been for Herr Schmeling to feint with his left and then kick Mr. Sharkey in the face. At times I couldn't understand why he didn't."

The Siamese fight barefoot, but wear boxing gloves. Rounds are few, never more than three or four. Sometimes a knockout makes a decision, and sometimes a judge does, just as here, he said.

Mahaffey Pounded in 9-4 Defeat; Foxx Hits 28th Homer.

CHICAGO, June 22 (A.P.).—Connie Mack used seventeen men and Jimmy Foxx knocked his twenty-eighth home run of the season, but to no avail as the Chicago White Sox scored their second consecutive victory over the Athletics, 9-4, today.

The Sox drove Mahaffey from the mound in the second inning with a barrage of hits that sent five runners over the plate. Of the trio of moundsmen who succeeded him, Lew Krausse was the only one to escape punishment. Vic Frasier granted ten hits, but managed to scatter these effectively.

Myer made a good catch of Morgan's foul to end the first, grabbing the ball after Judge, who had called for it, lost it in the sun.

Walter Dorr, a right-hand semi-pro pitcher from the Hamilton Cigar nine in the Northeast Ohio League, tried out with the Nationals today. He is a 6-footer with plenty of speed.

If President Clark Griffith wants to win the pennant, he can do so by buying for $18,000 a system doped out by a Cleveland fan. Telling Skipper Walter Johnson that he is a baseball "dictator," this wizard offered to sell his plan to the Nats in a letter received by Johnson this morning. It would be cheap at twice the price if it would work, but there's the rub—would it work?

Averill suffered a tough break when his drive hit one of the girders from which the screen had been removed high over the center field wall and the ball bounded back for a triple instead of a homer. Dave Harris had the same hard luck here last year.

Weaver was charged with his daily wild pitch after relieving Coffman in the third.

For the first time this season, Sammy West misjudged a fly that he had plenty of time to camp under. He did so in the fourth, letting Averill's looper drop just behind him for a double.

The fifth was the first round that the Tribe was held hitless.

Reynolds did not look good on Morgan's looper in the sixth, muffing it near the foul line and letting it go as a double. He should have had it.

Manager Johnson conceded defeat after the Nats' seventh and put Maple behind the plate, Kuhel at first, Kingdon at short, and Kerr at third.

Tigers Now Second; Defeat Red Sox, 6-5

Detroit Wins Third in Row as Uhle Stars in Relief; Durham Loser.

Detroit, June 22 (A.P.).—The Detroit Tigers moved up from fourth to second place in the American League standings today by beating Boston, 6 to 5, in the third game of a series in which Boston has failed so far to win a game.

The Tigers are just four percentage points ahead of the Athletics, who lost today to Chicago, while Washington was dropping a game to Cleveland.

George Uhle replaced Whitlow Wyatt in the sixth inning after the Red Sox had tied the score at 5-all and was credited with the victory. Horace Lisenbee started for Boston, but was succeeded in turn by Andrews and Durham, the latter allowing the winning run in the eighth inning.

Apprentice Surprise Winner in Feature at Aqueduct.

WASHINGTON PARK, June 22 (A.P.).—Abe Bartelstein's California 4-year-old Polydorus took his final warm-up for the Peabody Memorial Handicap Saturday, by trimming Gold Step and Don Leon in the best event of today's card at Washington Park.

A spectacular stretch run gave Polydorus a length victory over Gold Step in the 6-furlong test, with Don Leon third. The winner, ridden by Johnny Maiben, was the favorite and paid off at $2.88 for each $2 straight ticket.

Apprentice Wins Upset At Aqueduct.

Aqueduct Race Track, June 22 (A. P.).—The white and cherry silks of James Butler stood out in bold relief here this afternoon. Immediately following the victory of Forewarned in the third contest, along came Apprentice to capture the Myrtle Claiming Stakes, feature of the program. Alfred Robertson was astride both winners, sharing the double honors with the stable.

Apprentice, held at 7 to 1, finished out the mile journey of the Myrtle two lengths in advance of G. H ("Pete") Bostwick's Blind Bowboy, running the 8 furlongs over a good drying-out track in 1:38 2-5. Third money went to M. L. Schwartz's Barcelona Pete, which lost the place by another two lengths. The race was worth $3,450 to the winner.

Blind Bowboy broke on top, but was shuffled right back and Apprentice dashed into the lead. Blind Bowboy recovered quickly and forced the fast pace while Robertson was rating Apprentice in fifth position. Barcelona Pete spurted to the fore after 6 furlongs, but Apprentice charged around the leaders turning into the stretch and the race resolved into a duel between the Butlerite and Blind Bowboy, with Apprentice stealing away at the end.

JOE AND ASBESTOS

(Watch Sunday's Post for New Secret Code)

—By Ken Kling

The bank roll went up $1.52 yesterday and it is now $47.87. The code horse won. Today's code goes at Dufferin Park and is 2-16-1-7-16-8. After witnessing the disgraceful decision in the big fight, Asbestos says he'll stick to the race track, where in spite of the things said about it they at least hang out a horse's number when he comes down in front.

DANDELION, never far from the pace, came strongly to wrest the leadership from TERRY LASS in stretch and held SHEPHERD BOY in a driving finish. SHEPHERD BOY responded gamely to urging and, racing courageously to the end, barely missed. TERRY LASS sprinted into a good lead approaching the stretch turn, but faltered in the run home. ZELLEEN went fairly well. BRILLIANT GIRL and DOCTOR KLEIN tired. FLYING FLEET was shut in the first quarter and was never dangerous. SYRINX was blocked after leaving back stretch. Others were outpaced.

BROAD MEADOWS, content to follow JAZ AGE closely to the stretch, forged to the front when ready and held GOLDEN PRINCE. Latter was blocked while racing in last place on far turn. Then came to the outside to finish with a rush, but could not get up. PORTMANTEAU continued gamely despite meeting with interference from GOOD AND HOT in stretch and was going well at end. GOOD AND HOT weakened after racing to a contending position at stretch turn. JAZ AGE had most early speed, but tired badly in last furlong. ERVAST and SILVERDALE quit.

JESSIE DEAR went to the front at once and, holding a short lead in early stages, drew out when HILENA tired in stretch. TECHNIQUE was outrun in early stages, but came fast through the stretch. COUSIN NORA closed with a rush on outside. HILENA was in close quarters after the start, saved ground thereafter, but tired under her weight in run home and can do much better. MISS BRILLIANT and LUNA MICA were outpaced.

DON LEON, showing improvement, dashed into contention early and headed WAR SAINT in the stretch, but weakened near end. WAR SAINT displayed more speed than he has in his last few starts, but tired in stretch. MY DANDY was shuffled back approaching far turn. KIBITZER trailed the field throughout and seemed outclassed.

MAJOR LANPHIER, after showing good speed in pacemaking, came again in the stretch and was pressing the winner at finish. FOOLHARDY, always close up, weakened after making a bid at midstretch. ULTRAMARINE bore over in the stretch, interfering with GUNFIRE and SQUALL, could never get to leaders. TACK broke slowly. NOEL'S FIRST was badly outrun all the way. SQUALL had early speed.

TOW FIGHTS BOB OLIN MONDAY

Bout Features Card at Laurel; Bowen Faces Thompson.

BOB TOW, youthful upset victor of Marty Gallagher, will crash the big time Monday night when Twin City arena flashes its pugilistic parade.

In the main event of ten rounds Tow is to clash with Bob Olin, nationally known light-heavyweight.

Knockout conqueror of Tait Littman and Tony Ferrante, Olin will show one of the prettiest two-fisted attacks yet featured here.

Tow, a stablemate of Bob Godwin, has earned this opportunity as a result of several recent surprise performances. Successive triumphs over "Wid" Matthews, George Nerron and Gallagher have established the Southerner as a prime favorite in this section.

In the six-period main supporting feature, Ray Bowen, local welterweight, shoots leather at Charley Thompson, popular Baltimore star.

Thompson accepted this shot after much dickering, previously refusing a chance to match gloves with the fast-stepping Washingtonians.

Another six and two fours will round out the card.

Ladies escorted again will be admitted free.

Lacrosse Play-Off Labeled "Racket"

Hopkins Dean Says College Will Not Play in Future Olympic Tests.

Baltimore, June 22 (A.P.).—Dean E. W. Berry, of Johns Hopkins University, today criticized the lacrosse play-off series for the right to represent the United States in the Olympic games in California this summer.

Dean Berry said that the final match between Johns Hopkins and the University of Maryland on Saturday "will be the last in which Hopkins players will take part under present conditions."

"In the first place," he said, "these play-offs are nothing but a gate receipts racket and the university feels that it should not lend itself to such a practice.

"Johns Hopkins was the national champion in the collegiate season.

"The university authorities want to serve notice definitely now that this is the last time the Hopkins players will be permitted to participate—unless conditions governing qualifications for the Olympic games are changed."

During the regular season the Hopkins defeated Maryland, 7 to 3. The Hopkins team of 1928 won the Olympic title.

Holy Comforter Nine Making Good Record

Jesse Mann, publicity director of the Holy Comforter Insects, wants the world to know that his team is traveling at a fast pace. The team, managed by the Rev. Father Denges, who is assisted by John Mann, has won five of six games, numbering St. Anthony, Hawks, Aces, St. Peter's and St. Dominic's among its victims. MILLER, DOR-A NINES CLASH

Sunday Game Important In Race

Furniture Nine Won Previous Battle by 6-3 Margin.

Fera and Turner Are Likely to Oppose on Mound.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

A GAME that will have an important bearing on the outcome of the second-half race in the Senior Division of The Post's Capital City League will be played Sunday at 3 o'clock at Magruder Park, Hyattsville. The combatants will be the Dor-A nine, pride fo Hyattsville and a strong contender for the crown, and Miller Furniture Co., winner of the first-half race.

It will be the second and final meeting of the year in the league for the two, unless Dor-A wins the second-half flag chase. The first game resulted in a 6-3 victory for Miller after a hard-fought game. Dor-A's stubborn opposition to the highly-touted favorites not only surprised the fans but has led many to believe that the suburbanites may take the olive wreath in the second game.

Dor-A Slight

Favorite.

On paper Dor-A rates a slight favorite. It has been strengthened by addition of Frankie Fera who plugged the gap at second base. Bob Ruble, who pitched the first game and turned in a finished piece of work, is anxious to get another crack at the Furniture boys and will again draw the mound assignment. The rest of the team will be comprised of the same players who performed in the first game.

Miller stock fell several points during the past month when it lost three of its best players, two through illness. Charley Bradley, slugging third sacker, and George Wood, brainy pitcher, are on the ailing list following operations. Wood may return to action before long but Bradley is out for the season.

Reigleman Lost

To Club.

"Milly" Reigleman, hard-hitting guardian of the initial sack, packed his grip and headed for the coast for a vacation. With him went a large percentage of the team's batting power. But the club is still far from being a weak sister.

It has "Tut" Turner and Ben McAlwee to do the hurling. Lyman McAboy has been shifted from second base to first and is doing a fair job of it. Don Raub, Central's all-high third baseman, is wearing Bradley's shoes, and Carl Benner has been sent to shortstop. With Dan Kessler on second the infield shapes up as strong as ever. Maupin, Wheeler and Miller comprise the outfield.

N. Y. COMMISSION PLANS NO INQUIRY

agreement, but the great majority of the crowd thought Sharkey had won by a fair margin.

The decision was not unanimous. A check of the score sheets of the two judges and the referee who officiated showed that Judge George Kelly and Referee Gunboat Smith gave the decision to Sharkey, while Judge Charles F. Mathison awarded the verdict to Schmeling.

Kelly gave Sharkey eight rounds and Schmeling seven; Referee Smith called five rounds even, gave Sharkey seven, and Schmeling only three; Mathison gave Schmeling ten and Sharkey five. The three men saw only five of the fifteen rounds the same, calling the fifth, sixth and seventh rounds for Sharkey, and the eighth and twelfth for Schmeling.

Jacobs today asked no official action on his charges that Gunboat Smith had been selected at least two weeks ago to referee the bout, despite the Boxing Commission's statement that the referee and judges would be picked just before the men entered the ring.

Schmeling Was Robbed, Jacobs Insists.

"Schmeling was robbed," Jacobs insisted. "But what's the use of my asking an investigation? He forced the fighting throughout, landed the most damaging blows and should have retained his title. Schmeling will keep right on fighting. I want him to meet Sharkey just as soon as possible, but I know Sharkey never will meet him again, because he knows he was whipped last night. And the press knows it, too."

Sharkey won last night's fight by keeping his head and outboxing the hard-hitting German, in this writer's opinion. He piled up a commanding lead in the early rounds and then coasted through to victory, finishing with a strong rally in the fifteenth round.

Had Sharkey tried to outfight Schmeling, there is little doubt that he would have lost, and no one knew it better than the Boston gob. He fought the smartest fight of his career. It was not a crowd-pleasing performance, but it was a winning campaign.

His left hand won for him. Schmeling, ever the aggressor, made the mistake of trying to left-jab with Jack, and as a result was consistently beaten to the punches.

Mid-Atlantic Doubles Play Starts Today at Columbia

Mangan-Markey Are Seeded No. 1 as 30 Teams Seek Title; Navy Represented by Strong Players in Annual Matches.

SIXTY tennis players, duly assorted into doubles teams, will start play today in the Middle Atlantic doubles championship at Columbia Country Club. The tournament comes to Washington once every four years. Baltimore, Norfolk and Richmond being the three remaining cities holding franchises.

Several strong teams from the Navy Leech Cup Squad have entered and must be counted upon to produce some of the better tennis of the meet. Lieuts. Gerry Smith and Bill Graham have been seeded No. 2 in the draw. Lieut. Smith is holder of the City of Washington doubles title with Maj. Dorst, Army player. His hard overhead work and volleying makes him a dangerous opponent. Lieut. Graham plays a steady chop-stroking game.

The recently formed team of Tom Mangan and Bud Markey has been given the No. 1 seeded place and should come through if both players are in playing form. Mangan, also not rated highly as a doubles player, is in truth the best in the region. His net game is weak, but his return of service offsets it. Markey is an expert and crafty volleyer, with a good overhead and a volley-lob which only he, among District players, is master of.

The two young volleying dervishes, Frank Shore and Anthony Latona, can not be counted out as dark horses. They are probably the two best net players in the city, and both have corking serves and overhead smashes. Their ground strokes are rather weak, but if they can put the ball in play long enough to reach the net they will be hard to beat.

Play starts at 3 o'clock.

The pairings:

FIRST ROUND.

Tom Mangan and Bud Markey, bye; Maurice O'Neill and partner, bye; Pat Deck and Bill Seidel vs. Howson and Todd; Gene Hermann and Murray Gould vs. Ned McLean and Bob Doyle; Frank Shore and Anthony Latona vs. Barney Welsh and partner; Jack and Don Dudley vs. Kimmell and partner; Ensigns Parris and Mc-Hugh vs. Harry Moorhead and Bolling; Monroe Coe and Lister vs. Upshur Moorhead and Lieut. McVay.

Lieuts. Smith and Graham vs. Clyde Yeomans and Tom Quinn; Gilbert Hunt and Bill Buchanan vs. Frank Taylor and Bob Burwell; Bob Considine and Dick Mason vs. Upham and Sherwin; Karrick and partner vs. Tom Moorhead and Carlisle; Alan Staubly and Fred Sendel vs. Addison Grant and Kurt Krause; A. O. White and Pat Walker vs. Fred Doyle and Harry Hill; Joe Rutley and John Ladd, bye; Clarence Charest and Ricker Willis, bye.

COLLEGE NET FAVORITE LOSES

Tidball, Seeded No. 6, Bows to Frame, of Harvard.

HAVERFORD, Pa., June 22 (A.P.).—Donald Frame of Harvard, the newly crowned Eastern intercollegiate champion, scored the first upset in the national intercollegiate tennis tournament today by eliminating Jack Tidball, of the University of California, at Los Angeles, 6—4, 6—4.

Unranked among the seeded players while his opponent was placed sixth, Frame advanced to the quarter final by virtue of a more versatile game and a greater variety of strokes than the Stanford star displayed.

One other Eastern hope survived the fourth round. David N. Jones, of Columbia, ranked eighteenth nationally, decisively defeated Tidball's teammate, Elbert Lewis, who was seeded twelfth.

Five Seeded Players Eliminated.

Altogether five seeded stars lost today. Jake H. Hess, jr., of Rice Institute, the Southwestern conference titleholder, seeded ninth, was eliminated by the 1930 champion, Cliff Sutter, of Tulane, who has returned to the competition after a year's absence from college. Sutter defeated his opponent, 6—2, 6—2. The defending champion, Keith Gledhill, of Stanford, after defeating Sterling Williams of Texas, 6—2, 8—6 today, faces his hardest contest of the tournament tomorrow when he meets Frame in the quarter finals.

AUTO DRIVERS INJURED.

Indianapolis, June 22 (A.P.).—Peter Kreis, of Knoxville, Tenn., and Aaron Vance, of Indianapolis, were injured late today when Kreis' racing car went over the outer retaining wall during an experimental run at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway.

The car, the same one Kreis entered in the 500-mile race here Memorial Day, was believed to have been thrown over the wall when a tire blew out.

D. C. GOLFERS GAIN TITLE FLIGHT

Harvey and O'Tell in Race for Maryland Amateur.

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 22.—Washington sent over only three representatives today to qualify in the twelfth annual amateur championship of the Maryland State Golf Association on the Hillendale course, and two of them—J. W. Harvey and Dr. Larry S. O'Tell, both of Indian Spring—made the championship flight.

Robert Stead, jr., Chevy Chase Country Club, failed to turn in his card. Another Capital entrant, Roger Peacock, Indian Spring, did not appear.

With a card of 75, 70-145, Ernie Caldwell, Middle Atlantic champion, led the field of more than 80 golfers.

The title matches, sixteen in number, will start tomorrow morning when the first round will be played over the eighteen-hole route. The second round over the same distance is scheduled tomorrow afternoon.

Both Harvey and O'Tell showed totals of 165, Harvey making 83 in the morning round and 82 in the afternoon, while O'Tell's count was just the opposite—82, 83.

At 9:10 tomorrow Harvey will meet Cliff Richardson, Public Parks, while C. J. Campbell, Maryland Country Club, will be O'Tell's opponent at 9:35.

Reds Continue to Win Against Braves, 14-8

Boston, June 22 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds continued their winning ways at the expense of the Boston Braves by taking a free-hitting game today, 14 to 8.

The visitors got away to a big lead in the early innings and Manager Bill McKechnie inserted almost the entire Braves' roster in an unsuccessful effort to overcome it.

Incidentally, Tom's older brother, Earl, now with the Boston Braves, also had to take time out for a similar operation four years ago when he was going like a streak of lightning. Earl was playing in a Boston-Cincinnati game when stricken.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Matrimonial difficulties of William C. Gloth, former Commonwealth's attorney for Arlington County, came to a sudden conclusion yesterday when Judge Walter T. McCarthy in circuit court signed a decree giving Marjorie Schneider Gloth, his wife, a final decree.

Extending over a period of more than six years, the record shows that on April 7, 1926, Mrs. Gloth was granted a decree on the grounds of desertion. Gloth made no objection.

Records also show that the court, by consent of the parties concerned, adjudge, order and decree that the decree of July 7, 1926, be vacated and annulled and that the Citizens National Bank of the City of Alexandria is directed to execute and deliver to Gloth a proper release deed "releasing the lien of said indenture of July, 1926, and return all securities and other property, real and personal, which came into their hands by virtue of said indenture."

The settlement provides that any property which has been conveyed to Mrs. Gloth since the case has been pending shall remain hers.

Other than to say, "I am pleased it is all over," Gloth had no comment to make.

Neither he nor Mrs. Gloth appeared in court.

Attorney John S. Barbour appeared for Gloth, while the interests of Mrs. Gloth were taken care of by Attorney Leslie C. Garnett.

Statement on Chicago Banks Held in Error

Chicago, June 22 (A.P.).—Howard Sims, chief examiner for the Chicago Clearing House Association, issued a statement today to correct an erroneous impression created by a member of the Chicago delegation addressing the House banking committee yesterday in seeking loans for Chicago.

"The statement purporting to have been made before the House banking and currency committee at Washington yesterday," said Sims, "to the effect that there are only four banks in the Loop district of Chicago is erroneous. Chicago actually has eleven banks operating in the downtown district, there having been no changes whatever in the Loop banking situation for a long period of time."

Prisoner Breaks Jail; Slays Guard and Self

Chicago, June 22 (A.P.).—In a desperate break for freedom Jack Lawrence, 23, a convicted robber awaiting trial in the Cook County jail for murder, tonight shot and killed a guard and then when his escape was blocked, shot himself fatally. The slain guard was Leo Nicholas, 50. Lawrence was from Grand Rapids, Mich.

The jail was thrown into an uproar as Lawrence fired at Nicholas and other guards who sought to capture him. Prisoners yelled defiance but none was able to get out of the cells.

G.O.P. Chief Sure Hoover Will Win

Requa, of California, Goes Home; Will Return for Inauguration.

(Associated Press.)

Mark L. Requa, Republican national committeeman from California, upon leaving the Capital yesterday, after a series of conferences with President Hoover, told newspapermen "My next appearance in Washington will be at the inauguration of Herbert Hoover as the next President."

"I have already engaged my reservations for the event," Requa said.

He said he had urged the President to make a series of radio addresses, contending the campaign would be one of education of the American people. Requa said "Herbert Hoover can do more with the people in half an hour of talking than most of us could do in a life time," and the President would not have to leave the White House to take part in the campaign.

Pythian Knights Hold Bicentennial Program

A George Washington Bicentennial knight-rank program was held last night by the Knights of Pythias at the Pythian Temple, 1012 Ninth street northwest. Twenty-five candidates received the knight rank, conferred by Franklin Lodge, No. 2. Three different ranks were conferred, the Pluto part, the Senate part and the George Washington Bicentennial class.

Entertainment was furnished for friends and nonmembers, and a dance was held in the auditorium after the ceremonies.

2,000 Have Signed Byrd Law Petition

Arlington Civic Federation Announces Result of Campaign.

William C. Hull, chairman of the special committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation appointed to circulate petitions for a special election to determine whether Arlington County will remain under the Byrd road act, reports more than 2,000 signatures have been secured.

While the law provides that the petition must be signed by 25 per cent of those voting in the last presidential election, which would be but 1,500, Chairman Hull says the committee hopes to obtain at least 200 more names. He says that the committee will present the petition to the court within the next few days. The date of the election will be Tuesday, August 9.

A total of 462 signatures were obtained from the Lyon Park Precinct, according to an announcement last night by Arthur Orr, president of the Lyon Park Citizens Association. Of the total, 259 were secured by the Lyon Park Citizens Association, 177 by the Ashton Heights Citizens Association, and 26 were included among the number obtained by the Clarendon Fire Department.

Accident Reports to Police Are Sought in Montgomery

Commissioner Diamond Investigates Alleged Defect in Law That Might Help Criminals Cover Their Trail; School Bids Near.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

Police Commissioner John B. Diamond, jr., of Montgomery County, today will launch an investigation into the alleged lack of a county law requiring doctors to report treatment of persons injured in accidents or who have been injured in other ways.

Commissioner Diamond will bring the matter up at the meeting of the Montgomery County commissioners today at Rockville. Should it be found that authority is lacking to require such prompt reports, he plans to secure measures to correct the situation. The commissioner recently was assigned as commissioner in charge of police activities for the county and has been active in bringing about more efficient working conditions for the police.

The question was brought to light yesterday when Washington police notified Sergt. Guy L. Jones, of the Silver Spring substation, that a man had died at the Garfield Hospital, apparently as the result of an accident, and asked instructions regarding the body. The county police had received no report of the accident.

Sergt. Jones launched an inquiry and found that the man had been treated by a county doctor the day previous and then removed to the hospital. He later was identified as John Davis, 76-year-old retired contractor, of 420 Shepherd street northwest, who had been injured in falling down stairs at an uncompleted house in Montgomery Hills. Mr. Davis fell down the stairs of the house while inspecting it for a friend, for whom it was being built. An inquest held yesterday at the funeral home of Warner E. Pumphrey, in Rockville, Md., resulted in a finding of accidental death.

Sergt. Jones said that while this particular case had not presented criminal aspects, that had it been otherwise the police would have been greatly hampered by the nearly 24-hour lapse between the time of the injury and the time they were notified. He said that no law in the county requires the doctor to make a report, although many of them cooperate willingly with the police.

Sergt. Jones pointed out that persons wounded in shooting affrays in Washington can come into the county and secure treatment for their injuries and the doctor would not be charged with crime in aiding them unless it was shown that he had guilty knowledge of the crime itself. In many instances prompt knowledge that a crime has been committed enables the police to clean up the case within a short time. "The time to talk to an injured man is while he is still alive," Sergt. Jones said. "After he is dead we can't get much help from him."

As soon as he had been apprised of the situation, Commissioner Diamond announced that he would delve into the matter thoroughly today.

Bids will be requested for the first unit of the new Fairland School within a short time, Dr. Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools, announced yesterday. Plans for the unit are nearing completion, he said. It is expected that work on the unit will begin this summer.

The first unit will cost approximately $25,000 and will be constructed in such a manner that additional units can be constructed without marring the beauty of the main building. A principal and five teachers are planned for the school, which has an elementary and junior high school course. The present building is to be utilized as a cafeteria. The first unit will contain four classrooms and a combination gymnasium-assembly hall.

TEACHERS REGISTER IN SUMMER SCHOOLS

Majority in Prince Georges County Enroll at Maryland U.

The majority of the 91 school teachers employed in Prince Georges County who will attend summer school this year registered yesterday at the University of Maryland, while the remainder made plans to go to other universities for further training.

Two of the teachers will substitute educational tours for attendance at normal schools, Ruth P. Wells planning a European trip and B. Malinda Bennett going to the West Coast. In a number of cases of teachers attending school, the county board of education will pay a part of their expenses. It is a ruling that teachers must attend a summer course at least once in four years.

Teachers and the schools they will attend are:

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

RADIO caused a quickening up of the ceremonies attending the presentation of the National Geographic Medal to Amelia Earhart by President Hoover on Tuesday night. With Ed Wynn, one of the most popular features on the air, on at 8:30 o'clock, and the Sharkey-Schmeling fight at 9 o'clock, the presentation was timed for the half hour beginning at 8 o'clock.

Dinner was moved forward to 6:45 p. m. at the White House. Herluf Provensen had hardly begun speaking at 8 o'clock when he saw Capt. Taylor Branson of the Marine Band raising his baton for the flourishes attending the arrival of the President. Gilbert Grosvenor spoke about four minutes. President Hoover was before the microphone for approximately the same time.

Miss Earhart talked for twenty minutes, ending exactly when she was supposed to, and the whole thing was over, the President and the distinguished audience leaving Constitution Hall at 8:30 o'clock, the tmie when they ordinarily would be arriving.

The medal presentation was President Hoover's first public appearance since he was nominated, and it sounded over the radio as if he received more applause than when his name was first mentioned at the Chicago convention. He received a splendid ovation.

IF "Amos 'n' Andy" bring the taxicab with them on their proposed trip to Washington it would be a good time for their friends, Lawrence Richey, secretary to President Hoover, to put his car in the shop if it needs any repairs. In between trips carrying Richey, Amos 'n' Andy might pick up a little taxicab business around the White House.

For Andy's information, the Mint is not in Washington. That's where they turn out the small change and it is located in Philadelphia. However, the Bureau of Engraving and Printing, where they make the bank notes, which are more in Andy's line, is in Washington. Ed Wynn also said something the other night about the "Mint in Washington."

A program of supplementary instruction in connection with the third annual Notebook Contest, sponsored by the American Forestry Association, begins on WMAL at 12:15 p. m. today, and will last for twelve weeks. Detailed suggestions toward the making of forestry notebooks by D. C. school children will be given. Winners of the contest will receive medals from the American Forestry Association.

POLITICAL observers who will be heard in the "Convention Press Gallery" today (WMAL, 5:30 p. m.), are Frank R. Kent and Gould Lincoln, and tomorrow at the same hour Michael Hennessey and Ralph Watson. * * * Zinaida Nicolina, gypsy soprano, will sing two numbers on the Kodak hour tomorrow night (WMAL, 8 o'clock). * * * "When Men Are Doomed" is the title of the dramatic sketch to be offered over WOL at 8:35 o'clock tonight. * * * A portion of the conference of Confederate Veterans at Richmond will be broadcast this afternoon (WRC, 5 o'clock). * * * A description of the running of the Shelvin, at Aqueduct track, may be heard over WMAL at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. * * * Ed Wynn, fire chief of the air, says he knows a debutante who came out in 1929 and hasn't been in since * * * Ben Alley, radio tenor, may make personal appearances at a Washington theater during his ten-week vaudeville try.

Markets and Business in Review and Outlook

By Lawrence Sullivan

NEW evidence of the disaster which inevitably flows from attempts at governmental price fixing comes to hand this week from those countries in Europe which have been experimenting during the last two years with arbitrary wheat quotas.

In the July issue of The Country Gentleman Mr. Leo Pasvolsky, a member of the staff of the Brookings Institution of Washington and an authority on European economy and international trade, traces out the results of the milling quotas established in France, Italy, Germany, Sweden, Belgium and other countries, emphasizing in every case that the artificially high prices enforced by the quotas have stimulated domestic production—which must in time only aggravate the world price situation by creating ever more burdensome surpluses.

To an amazing degree the price-fixing efforts on the continent in the case of wheat have resulted in the same sequences of distress which were set in motion some seven years ago by the abortive rubber-control plan sponsored by London to wring exorbitant prices from the United States for crude gum for automobile tires. In that case the result was such a tremendous expansion of world production that prices never have gained anything like stability at levels profitable to the producers.

In the case of the artificial wheat prices, the ultimate results of disaster have not yet begun to be felt abroad, but the first tokens of the inevitable smash already are in sight, in the increased wheat acreage.

Moreover, the temporary quota system puts off the final correction of the present maladjustment in wheat by curtailing export markets and thus stimulating destructive competition and ruinous prices everywhere. Allowed to run to its own fantastic end, this policy must result in fabulous economic loss to all the world; first, by disorganizing production in the natural producing areas and, secondly, by stimulating production in those areas naturally adapted to more profitable enterprises.

THE machinery and methods for the regulation of flour-milling vary in the different countries, Mr. Pasvolsky points out, but the objective is always the same: "To insure the domestic wheat grower a higher price than the ruinously low quotations that prevail on the so-called world market and an opportunity to sell at this increased price all the grain he can harvest."

The quota system, the writer believes, is more in the nature of an emergency measure than a permanent policy. It is not suited for use in a wheat-exporting country and, due to the burdens it imposes upon the consumer, it must eventually be modified or disappear, even in wheat-importing countries, he claims.

"But while it operates," he goes on, "it places new and very real difficulties before the wheat farmers of the surplus-producing countries and complicates greatly the urgently needed process of adjusting the world wheat industry to some sort of a realistic and workable basis."

Pointing out that the countries, including Great Britain, which now have adopted the milling-quota system or its equivalent constitute more than four-fifths of the market for wheat which enters the international trade, the writer expresses the opinion that the quota system, more than tariff barriers, will tend toward an even larger reduction in the consumption of white bread and substitution of other bread grains for wheat.

That this contention is correct is clearly indicated by wheat prices in the countries where a combination of import quotas and excessive tariffs is in operation. Prices of good milling wheat on May 20 were $1.82½ a bushel at Hamburg, Germany; $1.80½ at Paris and $1.70⅞ at Milan, Italy. How little wheat bread the laboring classes of these countries could consume at such prices is evident.

THE present quota in France prohibits millers using more than 30 per cent grain of foreign growth in their total output of flour. This percentage varies throughout the continent, but the principal of the scheme is practically the same in all countries.

"The initial responsibility for the introduction of a million quota system on a comprehensive scale rests with Germany," says Mr. Pasvolsky, recalling that this was done in July, 1929, at a time when the principal European grain-importing countries were more or less open markets for wheat, unobstructed except by tariffs.

Of the five other countries which followed the example of Germany and France, four of them, Sweden, Belgium, Spain and Estonia, resorted to fixed minimum prices, while Czechoslovakia alone did not.

According to statistics quoted by Mr. Pasvolsky, the area sowed to winter wheat in Germany increased, between 1930 and 1932, by 883,000 acres.

LOANS URGED TO AID RAIL BOND RETIRING

Wall Street Favors Assisting Roads to Take Advantage of Low Prices.

By FRANK H. McCONNELL.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—On the theory that it is good business to spend a quarter to erase a $1 debt, many Wall street men favor proposals that Congress empower the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to loan money to railroads to buy and retire their own bonds.

Their bonds now sell at large discounts. A number of second-grade railroad issues are quoted around 20 to 25 cents on the dollar. Some of the best issues are selling at 75 cents on the dollar.

While they approve the suggestion in principle, bankers find some serious drawbacks. Foremost, probably, would be the need of secrecy if such a plan were to be fully successful. They note that before the Finance Corporation could advance a loan for such purposes, the Interstate Commerce Commission would be required to give its consent publicly. Once the news became public, bankers point out, investors and speculators would await higher prices before they would part with their bonds to the railroads.

The principal advantage of such a program would be in the reduction it might effect in interest charges of the railroads which might be successful in getting such loans.

The Erie, for example, has outstanding a $50,000,000 issue of 5 per cent bonds which now sell around $9,500,000; the Illinois Central has around $8,400,000; the Rock Island, around $21,228,000 of 4½ per cents selling around $4,920,000, and the Missouri Pacific, $61,250,000 of 5 per cents selling around $17,150,000.

These four issues, alone, representing an aggregate par value of $178,478,000, are selling for total market valuation of $39,542,000, or 22 cents on the dollar. Annual interest charges total $8,675,000.

The importance of taking any action which might lower the interest charges is held by proponents of the plan to be self evident. The 1931 earning reports of the four roads, for example, showed that income of the Erie last year was $14,906,000 against bond interest requirements of $12,422,000; of the Illinois Central, $14,444,000 against $15,765,000; of the Rock Island, $13,992,000 against $13,875,000, and of the Missouri Pacific, $2,048,000 against $19,972,000. Aggregate income of the four roads stood at $65,390,000 against aggregate bond interest requirements of $62,034,000—a leeway of about 5 per cent.

COTTON FLUCTUATES TO LOSSES AT CLOSE

July Sells Off to 5.17 as Trade Takes Supply; Liverpool Liquidates.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—Cotton was quiet today. An opening decline in response to relatively easy Liverpool cables and prospects for better weather in the South was followed by narrow and irregular fluctuations. After selling off to 5.15 July rallied to 5.19 and closed at 5.17, the general market finishing steady, 4 to 6 points lower.

Active months sold about 7 to 9 points below yesterday's closing quotations during the early trading, but offerings were light. July liquidation was again absorbed by covering and trade buying, partly against sales of later deliveries.

There was some commission house buying in the later deliveries. This was probably encouraged by continued reports concerning boll weevil infestation or threats of damage to the crop and the market later held within a range of 3 or 4 points. December contracts sold up from 5.54 to 5.59 and closed at 5.57. The general market closed a point or two off from the best prices of the day.

Weather Is Favorable.

The weekly weather report said conditions had been favorable for cotton in the western half of the belt, but unfavorable because of rains in much of the eastern belt, and added that in the Southeast conditions had been unusually favorable for weevil development.

This report seemed about in line with expectations and selling on the prospects for fair and warmer Eastern weather was held in check by the boll weevil reports. These included advices from the State College of Mississippi that if weather conditions continue favorable this season Mississippi will probably have the heaviest bool weevil damage in many years.

Liverpool cables reported local and Bombay liquidation on the higher sterling in that market, but said British home trade for cotton goods was improving.

Exports today were 16,077 bales, making 8,302,004 bales so far this season.

Steel Ingots Drop To 16 Per Cent

Light Business Forces Smaller Plants to Halt Operation.

New York, June 22 (A.P.).—With demand for steel products continuing at low ebb, the rate of steel ingot production has dropped to a still lower level, Iron Age said today. The present ingot rate is now barely 16 per cent of capacity as compared with 18 per cent a week ago.

Available business is so light that complete suspension of some of the smaller independent plants is likely, inasmuch as operators are resigned to the possibility of no marked change for the better before August, the review said. Weakness of scrap-steel prices is general with declines most notable at Chicago, Pittsburgh and St. Louis.

The most favorable features of the situation are sustained specifications for tin plate under which mill operations continue at 50 per cent of capacity, and a good flow of releases for public projects and Ford Motor Co.

The Iron Age composite prices for finished steel and pig iron are unchanged this week at 2,087 cents a pound and $14.01 a ton, respectively.

The composite price for steel scrap is now at $6.83 a ton, a new all-time low.

Durant Motors Concern Placed in Receivership

Detroit, June 22 (A.P.).—Judge Edward J. Moinet today named Federal receivers for the Durant Motors, Inc., of Lansing, Mich., with the consent of the company, and ordered a special master in chancery to list the creditors and estimate the claims of creditors against the concern.

The Central Trust Co., of Lansing, and H. F. Herbermann, Lansing, were appointed receivers, and William S. Sayre, jr., master in chancery, was appointed special master to make an accounting of the company's assets.

Action requesting a receivership was brought in Federal court several weeks ago by the Ajax Investment Co., of Toledo, Ohio, claiming a note of principal and interest amounting to $120,814.47, is due.

Philadelphia Bank Elects W.H.Donner

Former Steel Magnate Is Made Director of Trust Company.

William H. Donner, known in local banking circles, has been elected a member of the board of directors of the Fidelity-Philadelphia Trust Co. His election took place at a meeting of the company's board this week. He fills the vacancy caused by the death of Samuel M. Curwen, late president of the J. G. Brill Co.

Mr. Donner for many years was identified with the large steel and tin plate interests of Pennsylvania. He is a former president of the Cambria Steel Co. and of the Donner Steel Corporation, and at one time was chairman of the board of the Pennsylvania Steel Corporation.

Recently Mr. Donner established a $2,000,000 foundation to carry on a world-wide fight against cancer.

MARKET COMMENT

G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.—Any one who has attempted to trade on the strength of dispatches from Washington or Lausanne has undoubtedly been unsuccessful. As regards the latter, every similar conference, whether accomplishing anything or not, has appeared to be on the verge of an open break several times, and that will probably be true of this one. Actual developments often are quite different from those recorded in press dispatches. From the number of private conferences which have been held in recent months among the present participants, there must have been fairly comprehensive understandings before this session began. With Mr. Mellon in London, the unofficial attitude of this Government must be known. Persistent economic retrogression in Europe the past two years and imminence of a crisis are the two strongest factors leading to hope that this conference will end constructively.

Robert C. Jones & Co.—The fortunes of this country have not been made by trying to guess the daily fluctuations of the stock market, but by those who have the courage to buy the very best securities in times of stress, and sell them in prosperous times, when the rank and file are enthusiastically buying. We believe that this is a propitious time to accumulate and that the foundations are being laid now for future fortunes.

Waggaman, Brawner & Co.—Continued dullness characterized Wednesday's market. Stocks, after selling off most of the day, recovered their losses easily in the last hour. The bond and bank stock markets were steady and dull. Congressional delay and uncertainty regarding the outcome of the Lausanne conference contributed to the waiting attitude. Improvement in some basic conditions is ignored at present.

Westheimer & Co.—Market is being held back by lack of speculative interest. A fairly steady undertone is possible, but expect little genuine headway on constructive side until adjournment of Congress.

The following reviews of yesterday's markets abroad are from the regular European service of the Associated Press.

London.—Trading on the stock exchange was quiet and irregular, awaiting developments at the Lausanne conference. Profit-taking eased gilt-edged securities, oil and foreign shares, while industrials and gold mine issues improved on light support. The closing was uncertain.

Paris.—Prices on the bourse showed indecision pending result of the Lausanne conference. Fluctuations were narrow. French rentes declined and international issues were slightly lower. Early gains registered in the Young loan were wiped out and the market closed heavy.

Berlin.—The internal political situation caused prices to sag on the boerse.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

HANS BIRKIE, Boston fighter, floored Hamas just before the bell ended the final round of the fight. The referee had reached the count of eight when the bell sounded, and Hamas was still unconscious on the canvas when the judges declared him winner on points.

Because the count of ten could not be completed before the fight officially ended, the knockout punch delivered in the last round could not be considered more than a knockdown. Hamas had piled up a lead in points during the fight and was, because of this, given the decision • • • even after he had been knocked out.

Frank G. Davis, Cleveland, Ohio, contest enthusiast, goes in for prize winning in a big way. He has entered hundreds of contests during the past 17 years, and more than 600 times, an average of once every ten days, has been awarded a prize. During 1931, he averaged four prizes every month, representing a total valuation of approximately $700.

Airplanes, it appears, can do almost anything a bird can • • • even to landing in the branches of a tree. This was proved recently when a motor stalled near Vincennes, Ind., while the ship was just over a large tree. The plane glided into the highest branches and nestled there on an even keel. The startled pilot climbed out of the cockpit and down the tree. In many respects, his was a safe landing.

RECOVERY DOUBTED BY DEPUTY, SIMONE STAYS IN HOSPITAL

Discharged at Gallinger as Cured, Maryland Official Refuses to Take Him.

SUSPECT IN TEA HOUSE KILLING BLAMES FEAR

Says Reputation as Gangster Caused Effort to Move Him From Institution.

Thomas Simone, indicted for murder in connection with the shooting in a Bladensburg, Md., roadhouse last fall, is still in Gallinger Hospital today because Chief Deputy Sheriff Tom Garrison decided he was not well enough to be moved to Maryland, although hospital officials had discharged him as cured.

Garrison was notified yesterday to come and get his prisoner, who has been under police guard since the shooting, in which he was wounded in both legs. Garrison came, saw Simone's swollen leg and unhealed injury to his back and declined to take him away until arrangements could be made to treat him at the Marlboro Jail.

Simone, in his first interview since the shooting, told a reporter for The Post yesterday that he was being discharged hurriedly because the nurses were afraid of him. They know his reputation for being a gangster, he said, and are anxious to get him out of the hospital. He claims that he is still too ill to leave.

Can Walk With Crutches.

Simone is still confined to a wheelchair, although he can walk with difficulty on crutches, he says. Near the base of his spine there is an unhealed spot, which he says was made by the cast in which he lay for several months. He also says that he can not bend his right knee, and his right leg is swollen from the thigh to the foot.

Garrison said last night that he refused to take Simone away from the hospital because he was still in a wheel chair, and he had no proper way of moving him. Today, he said, he will have a room fixed for the alleged Philadelphia gangster in the jail in Marlboro and may bring him away. Garrison said further that he was considering having Simone examined by Maryland doctors to learn whether he might be moved without danger.

Simone is one of four men charged with murder in connection with the shooting of Grover Amick when guards at the roadhouse attempted to drive away a gang of holdup men.

Indicted With Abbott.

Peter Abbott, of Philadelphia, was indicted with Simone, but the case against Abbott has been nolle prossed. Since then two Baltimore men have been arrested and are being held in the Marlboro Jail on murder charges.

Simone yesterday related to a Post reporter a story of the shooting which closely follows the narrative told by other persons in the house at the time. Asserting again that he was a patron of the house, he said that he had only been in the place about ten minutes when five men entered and lined the customers up in the kitchen. While standing there, his hands above his head and his face to the wall, he said, one of the other men standing against the wall turned and started to shoot.

Simone fell, wounded in both thighs, at the first volley and says he knows nothing more of the battle. Most of the witnesses of the gunfire have been uncertain whether guards at the house or the holdup men fired first, but Simone said he was positive that one of the attaches first opened fire.

Police Asked to Hunt For Friend of Rabbi

Police have been requested to search for David Greenfield, 24 years old, of a prominent Atlanta, Ga., family, who has been missing since June 13, when he left Knoxville, Tenn., to go to Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

He is described as being 6 feet, 175 pounds, gray eyes, brown hair, fair complexion, pigeon-toed and has a scar over his right eye. He is a friend of Rabbi Simon, of this city.

Parachute Leap Planned By Crippled Daredevil

"Capt. Smiles" O'Timmons, one-armed and one-legged daredevil will make an exhibition parachute jump at Washington-Hoover Airport tonight at 7:30 p. m.

O'Timmons, former race driver, lost an arm and a leg in a smash-up several years ago. Since then he has been making parachute jumps and doing other feats of daring. He will jump from a plane piloted by Roger Scott, Washington-Hoover Field pilot.

Chance Saves Policeman as Dirk Hits Him

Policeman R. L. Manning, of the Second Precinct special squad, missed death by inches last night when some one in a crowd which gathered after a raid at 3 Naylors court northwest hurled a dirk at him. The knife, several inches long, was correctly aimed and struck him in the back over the lung, but it had flipped a half-turn too much. The handle dug into his back instead of the blade.

It was impossible to trace the knife thrower in the crowd of Negroes that had gathered after the raid. Led by Lieut. Frank Varney, Manning, A. I. Bullock, H. H. Hodge and C. C. Carver had just arrested Mary Jones, 25, colored, and George Simmons, 28, colored, on charges of illegal possession of liquor and permitting gaming. Their prisoners had been sent to the station in the patrol wagon and Manning was getting in a squad car when the knife was hurled.

STAFF IS COMPLETE AT ENGINEER BUREAU

Maj. Gotwals' New Assistant Arrives to Take Place of Maj. Davison.

The executive reorganization of the District engineer department was completed yesterday after Maj. Paul A. Hodgson had reported to Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, as his new assistant to fill the vacancy created by the transfer of Maj. D. A. Davison to Fort Leavenworth.

Maj. Hodgson, who came from Fort Leavenworth, will not fill the position held by Maj. Davison, who was executive officer and first Assistant Engineer Commissioner, but will trade offices with Capt. Howard F. Clark, who reported a month ago from Fort Lewis, Wash. Capt. Clark has up until this time occupied an office adjacent to Harold W. Baker, director of construction.

Maj. Hodgson will cooperate with Mr. Baker, who remains in charge of the construction division of the engineer department, and will have several specific duties assigned by the engineer commissioner.

Maj. Davison and his family are taking a brief vacation in Boston and the East before he reports to Fort Leavenworth as an instructor in the Army engineer school on August 1.

Lieut. Karl B. Schilling, who was an aid to Maj. H. L. Robb, former Assistant Engineer Commissioner, and later to Mr. Baker has been transferred by the War Department to the Army reproduction plant at the Army War College.

Pleading guilty to a charge of reckless driving, Mrs. Bertha Huddleston, wife of Representative George Huddleston, of Alabama, yesterday was fined $50 in Police Court when she faced Judge Ralph Given. Police said she originally had been charged with driving while drunk, but that Assistant Corporation Counsel Stanley DeNeale had changed the charge.

Harbor Precinct Locates Body When He Is Reported Missing.

Missing from his home at 303 E street northeast since Monday when he went fishing, 82-year-old Edward Drager was found dead floating in the Eastern Branch yesterday by members of the Harbor Precinct searching for him.

Earl Fortney, his grandson, with whom he lived, had reported to police that he had not returned from the fishing jaunt. The search ended when police found the body.

After Fortney had identified the body it was removed to the morgue, where an autopsy will be performed to determine the cause of death. Homicide squad investigators said there was no evidence of foul play.

Blazing Auto Saves Driver From Ticket

The usually calm and melodious voice of Pvt. Henry C. Nestor, "the singing policeman," may have its soothing effects behind the footlights, but last night it started things that for a time took on serious aspects.

Maybe it was the humidity. But Nestor will think twice and perhaps carry a fire extinguisher the next time he steps from his traffic platform at Fourteenth street and New York avenue northwest to warn a motorist.

Things were going smoothly at the busy downtown intersection when an automobile, running without lights, passed Nestor's signal. A shrill blast of his whistle brought the unsuspecting motorist to a stop. Then things began to happen.

Nestor, one foot on the running board of the car, was explaining to its driver, Easoni Rocco, 714 Fifth street northwest, just what he had done that was wrong. Just how "hot" the policeman's warning was progressing is not known, but Rocco's machine and the surrounding ground for several feet suddenly burst into flames.

Passersby scurried to safety, fire alarms were sounded and within a short time the air was filled with screeching sirens. Nearly every downtown fire engine was soon on the scene. But it was too late. Someone produced a fire extinguisher and the blaze was out.

Nestor, realizing Rocco had suffered enough, let him depart without a ticket.

3 Missing Youths Hunted by Police

Believed to Have Obtained "Stake" for Voyage by Selling Extras.

Three small boys who gathered a "stake" through selling fight extras Tuesday night are believed by their parents to be on the open road. Police were asked yesterday to help in finding them. They were last seen by a neighbor of one of them heading across Arlington Memorial Bridge. One of the boys had a stick and red bandana handkerchief slung to the end and the other two were bearing bundles.

The boys are Ellis Tippett, 14, of 3426 O street northwest; Paul Willis Stout, 14, of 3215 O street northwest, and Roy L. Bowlin, jr., 13 years old, of 218 Prospect place northwest, the son of Capt. R. L. Bowlin, stationed at the Aberdeen Proving Grounds.

Police were told the boys sold extra newspapers Thursday night. They did not return to their homes. Edward Frawley, of 3420 O street northwest, reported seeing them crossing the bridge. Schoolmates at Gordon Junior High School said they had mentioned something about going away, but gave no destination.

Capper Says Rent Inquiry Assured

Predicts Senate Approval of Fund Allotment for Probe.

Prediction that the Senate will approve the Senate District committee's request for $5,000 to conduct an investigation of high rents in Washington was made last night in a radio address by Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, chairman of the committee.

"The District committee ought to have the authority and the funds to conduct a searching inquiry into this vital subject," he said.

"A subcommittee will hold hearings with the assistance of a skillful investigator. Frankly, a great deal depends on the attitude of the landlords. If they meet the demands and the need for rent reduction, our labors will be light."

Glassford Arrests 2 More Men for Traffic Violations

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, last night continued his one-man campaign against traffic law violations, arresting two men on charges of parking abreast in the Fourth Precinct. After the men had been booked, a notation was found on the records at the station declaring that "the major wants double parking cut out in this precinct."

The men arrested last night brought the police head's total in the last two days to seven. Tuesday night he booked two policeman and a citizen. A young man and a young woman were made to remain at the Fourth Precinct station for half an hour and think over their offense of passing a stop light when they pleaded they did not have $5 collateral to post.

Those arrested last night are Chester S. White, 38, of 2707 Twelfth street northeast, and Caloin L. Patton, 34 years old, of 226 First street southeast. White elected to forfeit $3 collateral, but Patton said he would appear in court. They were both arrested in the 100 block of B street southeast.

MAN FOUND GUILTY IN SALE OF LIQUOR

George C. Dreyfus Convicted of Accepting $800 for 108 Quarts.

George Charles Dreyfus, indicted last January for sale, possession and transportation of 108 quarts of "embassy" liquor, was found guilty of a charge of possession by a jury before Justice F. D. Letts in the District Supreme Court. Carmine Davide, who was indicted jointly with Dreyfus, was acquitted of all charges by the same jury.

Prohibition agents testified they made arrangements with Dreyfus to deliver the 108 quarts to them at Fourteenth and Girard streets northwest. When Dreyfus appeared, he was handed $800 in marked money and was arrested shortly afterward. Through his attorney, William J. Crane, he charged he had been "trapped" by the agents.

Davide, represented by Attorneys Whelan and O'Connell, was arrested a block away. The jury was convinced he had nothing to do with the liquor and acquitted him. Government chemists declared the samples they examined were genuine liquor.

Colored Elks Request Convention Postponing

Definite word was received here last night at headquarters of the grand exalted ruler of colored Elks, J. Finley Wilson, that Golden West Lodge, of Los Angeles, Calif., had passed a resolution requesting postponement of the Los Angeles convention of the order, planned for next August, on account of general business depression and the expense to the fraternity incident to holding its convention on the coast.

Action of the entertaining lodge, it was said by those in authority, removed all barriers to the propositions, either to call the grand lodge session off this year altogether, or to call the convention somewhere in the West nearer than Los Angeles.

RETAIL CREDIT PAR, IN SPITE OF CRISIS, U.S. EXPERT STATES

Guernsey Says Collections of "Bad" Accounts Have Been Unusual.

LEVI ALSO IS SPEAKER AT ANNUAL CONVENTION

Association Members Visit Hoover and Express Gratitude for Aid.

Retail credit returns have remained comparatively stable while stocks were tottering, John Guernsey, in charge of retail census of the Department of Commerce, yesterday told members of the National Retail Credit Association, meeting at the Mayflower.

Despite a marked reduction in the amount of business transacted by merchants, which he said was evident from present returns, he stated that collections of accounts that were considered unreliable have shown excellent returns.

The fact that the American is a good credit risk by nature and training has stabilized retail trade, he said. If you lend the average American money in the form of credit, he comes in and pays you. He may ask for an extension, but payment is assured by his inherent honesty, Mr. Guernsey asserted.

There will be an approximate 20 per cent reduction in retail transactions during 1932, he predicted. Outstanding credit, however, will be reduced in a much larger ratio.

Has Remained at Par.

The success of retail credit he attributed to the careful handling of the business by credit managers. Mr. Guernsey told the delegates to the twentieth annual convention of the association. "You have made retail credit the shining example of a business asset which has remained at par throughout the most troubled times in recent history."

The importance of the credit department of a store as a selling feature was stressed by Harold H. Levi, vice president and general manager of Hecht Co., in an address on "Developing Your Store's Credit Policy." The credit division has the opportunity to be one of the greatest salesmen a store can have, he pointed out. It is important that the credit department realize the many possibilities of selling that face it, he said.

The forecast of a 25-cent tax on every dollar which will be exacted by State and Federal levies within the next few years is based on the rising amount of past debts which have been contracted by officials in an effort to please the people, H. H. McKee, president of the Washington Clearing House and president of the National Capital Bank, told the delegates.

Called Hard Taskmaster.

"Uncle Sam," he said, "was having a hard time in resisting the demands for social service, which, if effected, would increase the national debt and destroy his power to borrow."

Credit is a good servant but a hard taskmaster, the banker said.

Other speakers were O. L. Pfau, of Youngstown, Ohio; E. G. Graves, of Fort Worth, Tex., and Lawrence McDaniel, of St. Louis. Miss Elsie Lee, the official hostess for the convention, entertained at a bridge tea for delegates at the Mayflower Hotel.

Members of the association visited President Hoover yesterday afternoon and presented him with a resolution which expressed their gratitude for the instigation of the Nation-wide retail credit survey carried on by the Department of Commerce.

Horton, assistant counsel of the company, went before the committee with Mr. Bride. The House committee may seek a special rule to permit consideration of the measure this session.

Fired to Protect Himself From Theft Suspect, Shelton Reports.

A man was wounded early yesterday when shot by Sergt. E. K. Shelton, of the Second Precinct, when the policeman cornered him on top of a shed in the rear of 621 Rhode Island avenue northwest. Sergt. Shelton said the man reached for his hip pocket and he shot to protect himself.

The policeman reported that he came across the man in the act of taking a wheel from a Department of Agriculture truck at Fourth and Q streets northwest. He said the man ran to the rear yard of the Rhode Island avenue address and attempted to escape over the shed. He fell from the shed after the shooting and disappeared before Shelton could reach him. Shelton later found him in a taxicab at Fifth and Q streets northwest.

At Freedmen's Hospital he gave his name as William Stokes, 23 years old, colored, of 1318 Wallach place northwest.

PERJURY ON STAND IN CONSPIRACY CASE ADMITTED BY PITTS

Testifies for Government at Trial of Raichle, His Former Counsel.

SHOWS OPEN HOSTILITY TO ACCUSED ATTORNEY

Identifies Contract for $250,000 Fee to Be Paid His Lawyer.

G. Bryan Pitts, former head of the F. H. Smith Co., now serving fifteen years in prison for conspiracy to embezzle, and criminal contempt of court, yesterday admitted from the witness stand in the District Supreme Court that he had testified falsely while he was under oath, in his trial for conspiracy to embezzle in December, 1930.

Pitts, testifying for the Government in the trial of Frank G. Raichle, who is charged with subornation of perjury and obstruction of justice, said that he identified several score authorizations as genuine. He was asked by Nugent Dodds, assistant attorney general, if that testimony was false, and Pitts admitted that he had lied on the stand, that the papers were not genuine.

Was to Pay $250,000.

Pitts showed open hostility to Raichle, who was his attorney in the conspiracy trial. Several times his nonresponsive answers were stricken from the record by request of James O. Moore, of Buffalo, who with William J. Hughes, jr., is defending Raichle.

Pitts said that he had many conferences with Raichle, and that Raichle, when he was informed that some authorizations purporting to give Pitts the right to the huge sums he was charged with having embezzled were missing, replied that new authorizations should be drawn up. He claimed Raichle had told him to replace the missing authorizations. He identified a contract by which Raichle was to get $250,000 on his legal services.

Will Testify Again Today.

Pitts was still on the stand when Justice F. D. Letts adjourned court. He will continue direct examination today and will then be taken over by Mr. Moore for cross-examination.

Wesley Gardner, clerk of the court in which Pitts was tried; Theodore L. Weed, who succeeded Pitts as head of the Smith Co. and Pitts were the only witnesses yesterday.

Speaking to the jury, which is composed of four women and eight men, in his opening address Mr. Moore implored them to "return him (Raichle) to us in Buffalo sworn of this black cloud."
